Winter Shelter To Open For Homeless

There are women every day who have no place to call "home" and no place to sleep. Many of these women also have children. There are shelters for these women, but there are waiting lists to get in to them.

Temple Israel is planning to open a winter-night shelter for homeless mothers and children. It will be located on Lexington Avenue (right behind the Temple). The house can accommodate ten people. The women will be referred by agencies and are basically women who are able to become self-sufficient and are trying to make it.

In order for this project to work, many people will have to volunteer a little time and/or money. The house will be staffed by volunteers: people to stay overnight, to cook dinner, to serve dinner, to clean, to renovate, to solicit goods and services, to raise funds, to make phone calls and to train volunteers. These homeless mothers and children need you!

Acts of loving kindness and tzedakah are inherent to the Jewish religion. What better way to start the New Year than to give a little of yourself to help someone else. You don't need to be a member of Temple Israel or even be Jewish to help. You just need to care.
