Thoughts From Adrienne

By Adrienne Rosenberg
JSS Director

"My husband left me, and I don't know how I'm going to manage..."

"I feel like I'm going crazy. Can I talk with someone there..."

"We've just moved to Charlotte, and I'm so unhappy..."

"My son used to be such a good student, but now he's withdrawn and is failing at school. He is so hostile at home when we question him. Do you think he's on drugs?..."

"We used to be so close, but now we hardly do things together. Do you do marriage counseling?..."

"I'm having problems dealing with the fact I've just turned 50. Life seems to have passed me by..."

"My parents are in ill health and I don't know how to handle it. Someone suggested I call you..."

These are just some of the reasons people call Jewish Social Services to make appointments for marriage, family, and individual counseling. We have found that the demand for appointments far exceeds worker availability. As a result, we have found ourselves having to establish a counseling waiting list or referring people to other agencies or practitioners in the community.

In an effort to meet the demand and to no longer have a waiting list, Jewish Social Services is in the process of interviewing and hiring contract counselors to see people when they call. In this way, we will be expanding our counseling staff and services.

All Jewish Social Services counselors have a minimum of a Master's degree and several years experience in working with individual and family problems. They are required to attend workshops and supervision to maintain and increase their counseling skills and knowledge. All of our staff members currently are Jewish.

An intake interview can be arranged by calling me at 366-5007. At this time a worker assignment will be made and the fee for the counseling services will be set. The agency fees are based on a sliding fee scale.

All contacts with Jewish Social Services are confidential. No information can be obtained by someone else without a release of information form signed by the client. If anyone feels uncomfortable being seen at Shalom Park, home visits or another setting for the counseling sessions can be arranged.
