Hotel Arrivals.

CITY HOTEL — W. P. Duffy, Proprietor.

C. F. Foster, [illegible] Dr. C. Duffy, Dr. F. Duffy, Charles [illegible], Henry C. Foster, [illegible] county; W. N. Jefferson, Orange; B. Haxton, [illegible] York, R. G. Reid, Buffalo, N. C.

CHURCH SERVICE. Services will be held in Centenary M. E. Church to-day at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M., Rev. R. A. Wells presiding.

NOTICE.—Those who have not paid their City Licenses for the month should do so to-morrow, as the City Clerk gives notice that all delinquents after that day will have to pay according to the full extent of the Law. Don't fail to pay up.

Geo. W. Mason, Jr. Gen'l Ins. Agt.

SUFFERERS. At least three fourths of our community appear to be suffering from colds. The usual salutations now are: "Good morning Jack, how are yer?" "Bad, bad. I have got a dab bad cold." "Dab if that ain't my fix, too."

And so it is with us, we are not exempt from the unpopular bad cold.

ARREST.—A colored boy was, yesterday, arrested, charged with entering the premises of I. Disoway, Esq. He will be tried before the Mayor on Monday.

Mr. Starkey Gardner arrested and brought to the police station, a decent specimen of rascality, for cutting the confidence game. He will be tried Monday.

MAYOR'S COURT.—Before His Honor Mayor Palmer, Isaac Spencer and Nevins Coleman, two diminutive "crack-men" were arraigned on a charge of burglary and larceny in forcibly entering the store of Mr. Joseph Heller, on South Front street, and stealing therefrom several bladders of snuff, cans of condensed milk and a revolver valued at $50.00. Most of the property was recovered and the youthful emulators of Jack Sheppard turned over to the tender mercies of Sheriff Dennison to await their trial at the next term of Court.

James Cover was arraigned on a charge of slaughtering, stealing and selling a cow, the property of Jacob Wiggins. This affair happened some time ago, and at the time no knowledge of the real perpetrator existed but Jacob, with a pertinacity and steadyness of purpose, worthy of Vidocque traced the matter and finally singled Cover out as the bovine murderer and thief. Cover was sent to jail to await his trial at the next term of Court.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—A shocking accident occurred yesterday at Vaughn's cotton gin and grist mill. It appears that several little colored boys were playing in the neighborhood of the machinery, and the clothes of one, Augustus Moore, about 8 years old, coming in contact with a revolving shaft, he was seized and whirled around several times his head and body coming in contact with the floor, literally smashing it to death.

Coroner Young empaneled a jury who, after an investigation, rendered the following verdict: "That Augustus Moore came to his death by the accident of being caught on the shaft at the mill of John W. Vaughn; that we exonerate the said John W. Vaughn and his employees from all blame, but at the same time would recommend the fencing in of said shaft to prevent any further accident of the same kind."

From what we could learn no blame can possibly attach to any person connected with the mill. As an accident of this nature was entirely unforeseen and until it occurred no apparent necessity existed for guarding against the same.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS.—Now is the time for the adoption of good resolutions and a determination to adhere to them. We are fast approaching the New Year, and we should endeavor, that if we are spared to cross its threshold, we will do so determined to discard evil associates and associations and live that year with less regret at its ending than any we have yet lived.

It is unfortunately too true that in this community there is much room for improvements in this respect.

Many have uncontrolably contracted habits and associations that at a different period of their lives they would have been ashamed of.

Let that feeling again recur to and possess you, see to it that none of your actions or associations or associations when mentioned or commented upon in your presence brings the blush of shame to your cheek. It is not our intention to write a homily upon morality but to endeavor to awaken in the minds of our readers a thought upon their present mode of conduct and thereby create a self inquiry, as to whether, with them, there is not room for improvement. It is unfortunately the fact that apparent innocent social [illegible]

The Freedmen's Bureau.

[illegible] The rebellious people who have also been morally assisted by the great non-action of Congress, still expect to be able to [illegible] them. Already the influence of the Bureau, realizing that there is no further use for their services, are withdrawing their representatives. We learn that there is a bill before Congress appropriating for the relief of the freedmen in the States of the late rebellion. Two special [illegible] Commissioner of the Bureau designates the following officers to be commissioned in North Carolina.

Assistant Commissioner and chief superintendent of schools.

One disbursing officer for educational department and purchasing of [illegible].

Two agents for purchase of supplies.

Three assistant superintendents of schools.

Three clerks [illegible] Standard.

Before the war the negroes in the District of Columbia were taxed for about two and one half cents per [illegible] and the taxes which they paid went to help educate white children, they getting none of the benefit, which is they supported. [illegible] they get $40,000 as their property of the school fund of that section, and Howard University, a college for negroes, rests its wall-proudly at the capital. The which [illegible] of Time.

Somebody has written to Gen. Grant a letter full of cordial advice and sympathy, and recommending to him the appointment of both Robert E. Lee and Horatio Seymour to position in his cabinet, because it will have such a heart-quieting effect to all who opposed his election, and tend so largely to promote peace! What would Joe Miller be by the side of the man who concocted this statesmanlike joke? Or what loads would sensibly have achieved such sublime simplicity? One of the Blairs must have gone mad with grief, and proposed this which is completely insane. The worst of the joke is on poor Seymour.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has at last found his vocation. He made a bad job of it on "bounding a nation," but he seems to take better as a popular lecturer. "The importance of exploring Jerusalem" is the present burden of his song. Likewise, "the peculiar fitness of Englishmen for that honorable task." Being thus Orientally inclined, he will next be heard of, we presume, discoursing on "Dead Sea Fruits." Possibly, indeed, he may follow that with "The peculiar fitness of Americans (in the Southern States) for their enjoyment." After this the "Apples of Sodom" will doubtless engage his attention, and then "The Ten Lost Tribes."—N. Y. Tribune.
