The Chatham Record

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1883.

LOCAL RECORDS.

☞ It has been a bad season for saving fodder and picking cotton.

☞ A comfortable eight-room dwelling for rent. Apply to the editor of the Record.

☞ Our esteemed townsman, Mr. Hiram T. Chapin, has gone to attend lectures at the college of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore.

☞ Bynum & Headen are now receiving their stock of Fall and Winter goods, which their customers and friends are requested to call and examine.

☞ All persons indebted to J. B. Harris are notified to make payment to H. A. London, assignee before the first Monday in November and thus save costs.

☞ Now the weather is getting cold you had better call at London's and see the splendid line of Ladies, Gentlemen, Boys and Girls Underwear. He has all prices and sizes, best assortment ever offered in this place. He keeps the best unlaundried Shirt in the market. Gents and Ladies Collars all Styles.

☞ One of the pleasantest places to visit in Raleigh is Mr. Fred. A Watson's store, which resembles an art gallery. You will there find a large and splendid assortment of picture frames, window shades, cornices, easy chairs, house ornaments &c.

☞ You will find at London's a nice line of Carpets, Rugs, and Mats, very cheap and splended assortment of Flannels, red and white; Linseys, Canton Flannels, white and colored. His immense stock of Clothing is now open and ready for inspection; styles and qualities away up, prices away down. Cloaks for every body; not quite 2700 arrived yet.

A HANDSOME RESIDENCE.—Senator Womack has nearly completed his new residence, which will be quite an ornament to our town. It is built after a design of his own, and reflects much credit on his architectural skill and artistic taste.

JOURNALISM.—Col. Charles E. Jones has brought out the Charlotte Journal and Observer and resumed the name of the old Observer. We hardly expected so energetic an editor could keep out of the harness, and we wish for him the same success that has hitherto rewarded his efforts.

AN ELOPEMENT.—We hear that a citizen of Gulf township, named John Fields, deserted his wife and child last week and eloped with a woman named Martha Bass. We also hear that, before leaving, he sold a horse which he had mortgaged and the mortgagee has gone in pursuit of him.

THE C. F. & Y. V. R. R.—The convicts at work on the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railroad were moved yesterday from their old quarters at the Golf to the new stockade recently built at Ore Hill, to which place the track is now laid. The recent rains and continued wet weather have somewhat delayed the work of track-laying.

PUBLIC SPIRITED CORPORATIONS.—We are all so accustomed to denouncing the avarice of "soul-less" corporations that it may sound strange to hear any one of them praised, and yet it is with pleasure we take this occasion to commend the public spirit and liberal policy exhibited by certain transportation companies in connection with our State's exhibit at the Boston Exposition. We allude to the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company, whose steamships ply between Norfolk and Boston and the Seaboard Air Line, which embraces the Seaboard and Roanoke, the Raleigh and Gaston, the Raleigh and Augusta Air Line, and the Carolina Central railroads, all under the general management of Maj. John C. Winder. All these corporations transported without any charge all articles contained in our State's exhibit, which entitles them to the thanks of our people. The Seaboard Air Line is also making great efforts to attract immigration and capital to our State, and has recently published a neat pamphlet profusely illustrated, descriptive of the country through which its roads run.

A Prosperous County.

There is probably no county in a more prosperous condition than Randolph, and we take pleasure in noting her prosperity and commending the enterprise of her citizens. That county does not possess the natural advantages of Chatham, and yet we are far behind in all industrial and manufacturing enterprises. From the Asheboro' Courier we copy the following:

"With 9 cotton factories—one of them the biggest thing in its line in the State—with a tobacco factory, chair factories, shuttle factories, stoneware enterprises, wheel, spoke and buggy factories, with about 30 steam saw mills in full blast and the matter enough to run double that number a dozen years—with several first class high schools and a first class college, with a daily increase of the latest and most improved agricultural implements and a daily adoption of the latest methods of progressive farming—with gold mines daily coming to light and inviting new capital and labor, with not a single claim in the shape of debt against her and independently solvent—with two important Railroads approaching completion—one opening up and stimulating the rich eastern section of the county and the other penetrating her very heart and sending through it a thrill of a new hope and life Randolph is moving—onward and upward. That another decade will find us clear out of the backwoods and in the front, the wayfaring reader though an old fogy may see. Listen to the music of the spindle—the clatter of the shuttle—the whistle of the engine—the whizzing mills—the song of the farmer seated on his new Drill or young America on the new mowing machine—the thunder of lumber—the rattle of sashes, blinds, chairs, spokes, handles, &c.—the crash and smash of new stoneware—the click and suite—anean yell of the miner and lastly—the dessert—the music of Bandleman's new brass band!"

An Eagle and a Boy Have an Adventure.

A despatch from Norwich, Conn., says:

While rowing in the pouring rain of Monday afternoon on Massajeg Cove, on the Thames river, halfway between this city and New London, Frank Crandall, a Montville lad, had a rare adventure. Rounding a wooded promontory, he saw just ahead of him a great bird in the water heavily lashing the waves with its wings. He pulled rapidly to the spot and found it was an eagle struggling to rise, while some object in the river kept it down. As the place was near the shore and the water shallow, Crandall leaped overboard and attempted to capture the bird. A desperate struggle ensued. The eagle struck at him with its wings and beak, uttering shrill cries, while it vainly endeavored to extricate its talons from the object that held it to the water. At last the lad threw himself on the bird, bearing it under water, and then flung it into the boat, clambering in and falling upon it. Still the eagle fought hard, and Crandall threw a piece of sail over it and succeeded in winding his stout anchor rope around its legs.

Then the lad examined his capture and saw that each of the eagle's talons was deeply imbedded in the back of a large blue-fish. In the conflict with the boy the bird had bedded each fish into an almost shapeless pulp, but the sharp claws were still firmly fixed in their back bones. It is supposed that the eagle descended into a large, closely huddled school of blue fish and, contrary to its intentions, struck two fish instead of a single one. The double capture was too heavy ballast for an easy rise, and in the struggle the eagle's wings became soaked with water, and then escape was impossible. Crandall took his bird home alive and has it now on exhibition. It measures six feet from tip to tip. He thinks he can sell it for $1.

The Great Eel Catch in the Catawba.

From The Charlotte Journal.

The eel boom continues and there were several wagons on the streets from the Catawba yesterday. The fishermen say that the recent rise in the river which enables the eels to swim up the stream in schools, is the cause of the remarkable catch. One farmer near Rozzel's ferry, caught 3,800 eels in three days and put them all in a compost heap, thinking that there was more money in them as manure than there was as a marketable article. The Catawba is lined with traps, and while nobody objects to the fishermen catching the eels, complaint is being made that the traps are destroying thousands of young shad, and are consequently doing vast harm. The young shad lodge on the leaves in the the traps where they die and are thrown out by the thousand. In the meantime the eel catching is going on with increasing success, and a trap that will not catch a barrel full every night is not considered worth looking after.

Some time ago Dr. Cowan, who was a surgeon in Gen. Forrest's Confederate cavalry division, published a letter stating that when Col. Bob Ingersoll was captured in Tennessee he loaned Ingersoll ninety dollars which he had never returned. A few days ago Dr. Cowan was surprised to receive a letter from Col. Bob inclosing a check for the two hundred dollars, being the principal and interest of the amount borrowed.

State News.

Fayetteville Observer: We are sorry to learn that the gin house and grist mill belonging to Mr. C. A Martin, of Seventy-First Township, was entirely destroyed by fire on Monday night the 3d inst. There was about $1000 worth of cotton in the house at the time, which was destroyed.

Hillsboro Observer: Mr. Thomas Riley lost another child the other day with diphtheria. This makes four he has lost within a few weeks with that disease. —A south man living a few miles west of Hillsboro caught a covey of 29 partridges in a net one day last week. The birds were very large and fat. We learn that the whole country is alive with them.

Washington Review: We saw this morning a sweet potato of about the medium size which was one of the most queer looking taters we ever set eyes upon. It was shaped almost precisely like a duck, and looks like that fowl upon the water. The head and neck were almost as perfect in form and appearance as if they were upon the body of a real live duck.

Tarboro Guide: Mr. Isaac Harris, of Plymouth, has fifteen children. He weighs 85 lbs. while his wife weighs only 65. Neither one has had any sickness since 1835. —Mr. Don Williams met with a serious and painful accident on Wednesday morning while out hunting. While loading his gun it was accidentally discharged, the entire load taking effect in the wrist of his right arm.

Mongomery Star: We learn that Willie, a sixteen year old son of Rev. C. C. Foreman, of Rocky River Springs, ran away from home last Tuesday. It is supposed he intended going West in quest of adventure. He had doubtless been reading dime novels. —Tuesday morning Mr. Martin Rush, who lived about 12 miles from this place, started here to attend court. On the road his horse ran away and Mr. Rush was thrown from his buggy receiving injories from which he died next day.

Morganton Mountaineer: A gentleman from Yancey county informs us that there used to be a large hollow poplar tree in that county in one of the mountain coves in which a squatter named Brown, his wife and six children spent two years and endured all the rigors of the severe mountain winters, subsisting on roots, acorns and the game that they could kill with his rifle. —A gentleman informs us that tracklaying on the Ducktown branch of the W. N. C. R. R. will commence in a very short time and be pushed vigorously forward.

Asheville Citizen: Charley Osborne, a lad of fifteen, living about two miles from Asheville, has set an example of pluck and industry to grown men, and gives excellent promise of future success and usefulness of life. Last Spring, alone he cleared out a piece of abandoned swampy land, ditched it and drained it, broke it up, and put it in corn, worked it thoroughly, and now has his reward in a crop of sixty bushels to the acre, corn of unusual excellence. On three fourths of the stalks there are two ears. One of the ears brought to us is twelve inches long, longer and larger than is usual in mountain corn.

Charlotte Journal: Yesterday about noon a man named Will Freeman, employed at the Odell cotton factory in Concord, met with a very serious and probably fatal accident, by being caught in a revolving wheel. His thigh and arm were broken and he was otherwise badly injured. His condition is regarded by the physicians critical. —At an early hour this morning news reached the city of a terrible smash up that occurred on the Air Line Railroad, at Black's Station, where a special freight train ran into the rear cars of the regular 5 light, wrecking the engine, smashing up the cars, and badly crushing engineer McDongald and his fireman.

Wilson Advance: We are informed that Mr. B. W. Best, of Greene, has a field of upland corn that will make 10 barrels to the acre. —What North Carolina most needs outside of the development of her natural resources, is a dog law and a fence law; or properly speaking, a no dog law and a no fence law. The welfare and prosperity of the people demand it, and sooner or later they will find it out. —John Hardy, colored, ran away with the sable wife of Wiley Blount, at which action Wiley is much incensed. When asked why he made such a fuss about a woman's refusing to live with him, who loved another man, he said: "Well, it ain't the woman so much, she carried off three of my blankets."

Wilmington Star: A gentleman who attended the late meeting of the Eastern Baptist Association, in Pender county, informs of an incident that came to his knowledge while there. A Mr. R. P. Allen, who lives about fifteen miles distant from Church in Cauntuck township, where the meeting was held, started to attend the same, but had not proceded very far on his journey, when he discovered that he was being followed by a pet hog that he thought a great deal of. Mr. Allen halted at the first house he came to and got permission to put up his favorite "pottser." Hurrying on to church, but he had not gone any considerable distance before he was surprised to hear again what sounded like the peculiar grunt of the on the road behind him, and a look to the rear confirmed his suspicion, for there was no doubting his identity. At the next house he secured temporary quarters for him again; but, upon Mr. Allen's arrival at the church, one of the first grunts of satisfaction which greeted his appearance came from his own pet pig, who had followed him the entire fifteen miles, apparently determined that no pen put up pig style or anything else should deprive him of the privilege of attending meeting with the "boss" that time.

Whiteville Enterprise: The White's Creek township wild cat, which has been in that neighborhood for several years, was killed on last Wednesday, by Mr. E. K. Vause. It measured from tip to tip about 3½ feet. Its teeth were one inch long. It had been making depredation upon the chicken coops, geese flocks, sheep, etc., in that community for several years.

Durham Recorder: We are glad to state that Judge Thomas Ruffin has so far recovered, as to be able to attend to his law practice. He was one of the counsel for Toney Bowling, tried for murder at Hillsboro, last week. —Mr. John R. Hutchings, has been travelling through Alamance, Person, Caswell and Orange counties, and reports the prospect for a good yield of tobacco as very discouraging. —The case of Toney Bowling, charged with killing a negro woman, and removed to Orange, from this county, was tried at Hillsboro, last week. The jury rendered a verdict for manslaughter, and received severe and deserving censure from Judge McRae. This was one of the clearest cases of murder we have ever heard of.

Newberne Journal: There are about 50,000 postoffices in the United States. Two thousand two hundred of these are presidential appointments; the others are appointed indirectly by the Postmaster General. Forty-seven postmasters receive one dollar a year as salary; eleven receive twenty-five cents a year; one receives 9 cents a year, one receives 6 cents, and one 5 cents a year. Postmaster Sloane, of Perilla, White county, Tennessee, is the 5 cent man. He enjoys the distinction of receiving the smallest salary paid to any of Uncle Sam's civil servants. There is some difference between President Arthur's $50,000 and Postmaster Sloane's five cents. In all we pay the postmasters about ten millions a year, of this three million seven hundred and fifty thousand go to the presidential postmasters.

News and Observer: Passengers on the R. & G. road last evening brought news of the slaying of James Drummond, colored, at Warrenton about noon yesterday, by Jesse Macon a white youth only eighteen years old. It is said that the two had a quarrel on the street and that suddenly the white man made a stroke at the negro with a knife. Striking him on the throat, the keen blade severed the jugular vein, and in less than five minutes the negro was a corpse. Macon fled and had not been captured up to eight o'clock last evening. —A clever young man of this city who is a native of Franklin county, a few nights past arranged a 'possum hunt. He said he had had much experience in that line and took with him several young men of the city, whose only acquaintance with 'possums was wont to be cooked and served on the table. The party went out and the guide and counselor hired a 'possum dog of guaranteed goodness, from a woman living several miles in the country. Taking the dog into the woods at 9 o'clock the hunters walked steadily on until 3 a. m. without either sight or sound of the dog, but always incited to fresh exertions by the cheery voice of the Franklin county man, who declared that the best 'possum dogs never barked about daylight, passing by the house of the woman from whom the dog had been hired, they were astonished to see the brute in the yard. The woman was questioned and said the dog had come back about a quarter of an hour after the hunters had gone off to the woods.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says that during services in the Jewish synagogue at Zivanka, in the Government of Podolia, Saturday, a false alarm of fire was raised in the women's gallery, which caused a panic. People rushed for the door, where there was a terrible crush, during which forty women were killed and thirty others injured.

Time to Stop It.

It's too bad, Sir or Madam, but don't get frightened. Your hair is falling off—that's certain. A glance in the mirror, or an investigating committee of fingers tell the dismal story. We won't discuss the possible cause. It is enough that Parker's Hair Balsam used now will prevent further destruction. Is your hair somewhat gray, too, and crisp? Alas, 'oes. The Balsam will give back the original color, softness and gloss. Not a dye, not oily, elegantly performed, a perfect dressing.
