Summer Camp Programs

The Jewish Community Center of Charlotte will be offering a wide variety of camps for children of all ages and interests this summer.

Please call Cary Bernstein, 366-5007, for a copy of our camp brochure.

Babysitting Directory Available at JCC

A babysitting directory is now being formed at the JCC. In February and March a babysitting clinic was held for twelve to fourteen-year-olds interested in babysitting. Jim Allen, an instructor for the American Red Cross and a C.P.R. instructor, spoke to the group on issues dealing with first aid, choking, rescue breathing, emergency numbers, the poison control number and home and child safety. Psychological issues such as disciplinary measures for children, bedtime problems and temper tantrums were discussed by Elaine Chernotsky, a counselor with Jewish Family Services. Other subjects studied were child development, age appropriate activities, nutrition and healthy snacks for infants and children aged six months to nine years. These informative sessions were led by Amy Diamond, director of Mothers Morning Out; Carol Klein, director of Temple Israel Daily School; and Debbie Maslov, Brownie Troop Leader.

Persons interested in being listed in the directory need to take the babysitting clinic at the J which will again be offered in the fall or an equivalent one sponsored by the American Red Cross. Call 366-5007 to obtain names of potential babysitters.
