The Rule of Three.

Three things to govern—reason, tongue and conduct.

Three things to live—courage, gentleness and affection.

Three things to love—country, vengeance and affectation.

Three things to delight—business, freedom and beauty.

Three things to abide—age, affection, friends and a clear conscience.

Three things to avoid—bigotry, the quacks and dissipation.

Three things to fight—ignorance, home and country.

Three things to admire—beauty, dignity and grace.

Three things to think about—life, death and eternity.

TO MOTHERS

Mrs. J. H. Haskins, of Chicago, Ill., President Chicago Arcade Club, Addresses Comforting Words to Women Regarding Childbirth.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Mothers need not dread childbirth if they know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. While I loved children I dreaded the ordeal, for it left me weak and sick for months after, and at the time I thought death was a welcome relief; but before my last child was born a good neighbor advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I used that, together with your Pills and Sanative Wash for four months before the child's birth,—it brought me wonderful relief. I hardly had an ache or pain, and when the child was ten days old I left my bed strong in health. Every sufferer will find it worth a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find it keeps me in continual excellent health."—Mrs. J. H. HASKINS, 2248 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Care and careful counsel is what the expectant and would-be mother needs, and this counsel she can secure without cost by writing to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

WOMAN'S REALM.

WOMEN AND MACHINERY.

Not a Few Feminine Minds in America of a Mechanical Turn.

Looking at a small engine in a window of a downtown machinery establishment was a woman; and seemingly she was regarding the engine not with a merely idle curiosity, but with an intelligent interest.

It seemed odd to see a woman thus looking over a piece of machinery; but a man who ought to know whether women are interested in mechanical things or not said in response to an inquiry on the subject that undoubtedly they were.

Mechanics, he said, were born, not made, and there were some women who had a mechanical bent or inclination, and took to machines kindly and naturally, and easily learned to run them.

He had known, for instance, of a woman who could run an automobile with ease and skill and bring it in always in perfect condition, while her husband could never run the same machine without getting something out of kilter about it. Evidently here the woman was the better mechanic of the two.

He had known likewise the wife of a man owning a power launch to be able to handle the boat better than her husband. In America, at least, there were plenty of women of more or less mechanical talent.

In this country, where old members of the old women might have was [illegible] by the presence of almost every household [illegible] labor-saving mechanical contrivances of some sort or other, [illegible] of every sorts. There is the sewing machine, for one thing, to be found in every home, and there are washing machines.

Women wear gas in these days with [illegible] and so on; so that in this country, at least, women have had much dealing with machinery in some form and they are by no means so helpless in the face of it as they used to be thought, and they seem to have a handiness with it [illegible] know of the reason why [illegible] could not be trained in that way.

Some indeed he said, as the lamented Joe Jefferson was concerned, to do so by their inclinations in that direction, but the majority of women [illegible] merely the women who [illegible] as effective by the [illegible] It would be she who would take a [illegible] shed in the [illegible] machine shop for instance, or do wonders [illegible] Otherwise needed to be done [illegible]

And she would keep the [illegible] machinery in order, and there are many instances in which the woman body [illegible] the [illegible] and keep them going. And he would venture to say that there was no large household which would probably present itself to the mind of the reader in which it was the mother and not the father who always set the time for the children's shoes, an operation easy as it might seem till much involving no mean skill in the [illegible] of tools.

But [illegible] out of your three sisters [illegible] domestic channels [illegible] necessities are more [illegible] nursing, there were other and wider fields in which the women of mechanical bent could exercise the talent of skill as in these days in the operation of power driven vehicles or [illegible]. And to come back to the women living at this course in the country, it might be like that was a motor carriage of some sort, such kind was which she was familiar. This one [illegible] the great Bowl [illegible] or some [illegible] that had [illegible] her attention.

But whatever there was about it that had caused her eyes to wake attention [illegible] that she was looking at [illegible] with a [illegible] eye [illegible] with the eyes of the lady [illegible] interest in such [illegible]. New York Sun.

Summer Needlework.

A [illegible] of embroidery and fancy work [illegible] a "set" of linen given [illegible] the other day was about as pretty [illegible] could be imagined. The tablecloth was round and of pale blue linen, the [illegible] with medallions of [illegible] linen. The serviettes had small [illegible] and a narrow lace [illegible] inside of the hemstitched edges.

Among a lovely ring collection of [illegible] of Due stitchery are shown some very pretty table centres. A delightful one is pale cream linen [illegible] poppies in a conventional design, made dull green leaves surrounding the [illegible] as if they had been real [illegible] and upon it. A cut cover was carried out in the same materials and [illegible] but in a different pattern; for the poppies leaves met over the poppies' heads like cherub's wings. An [illegible] was shown with multicolored sweet peas.

A [illegible] embroidered napkins were [illegible] in flax thread in the [illegible] old designs or old-fashioned [illegible] were [illegible] of samplers in their [illegible] and coloring. The even [illegible] of work was extraordinary [illegible] and true.

Working flowed on a set which [illegible] most engaging present [illegible] the bird-feeder and [illegible] in pale linen with the [illegible] and [illegible] generally embroidered in [illegible] flax thread. A flax [illegible] of the various [illegible] had completed the charming [illegible]

Fashions For Miss Simplicity.

If only more women appreciated the beauties of simplicity! When you stop to think of it, it's always the very simple hat or dress that you most admire. To be sure, there may be a lot of work on it, or more expense. This same pleasing simplicity may, of course, also belong to absolutely plain things, and these are the most admirable of all when they are becoming and well done. This is all especially good to remember at this season, when really simple wash frocks are in the best of taste. Those of us with slim bank accounts cannot fail to be grateful for this.

No more pretty and serviceable white shirt waist suit is to be found than that of India linon. It is sheer enough to be dainty and not sheer enough to require an underslip. A very pretty one is perfectly simple save for the embroidery bands that form the stock and wristbands. This embroidery shows lozenge-shaped openings, but its wearer elects to wear the bands of black velvet undercoat instead of run through. With a broad black velvet ribbon such this suit is elegance personified, and without the sash, cheap and suitable for even accomplishing light household duties in.

Quite as worthy of description is the sweet little hat worn with this dress. It is of softly pretty rice straw in the pure white, and would be a rolling brim sailor but for the slashes which leave the back in the shape of a broad tab. A black wing is carried toward the front on the right, leaving a similar one toward the back on the under side of the slightly upturned left brim. A short length of black ribbon, caught under the brim, is terminated under a black straw ornament. It looks exceedingly plain, but most stylish.

A gay and perhaps coarser enough [illegible] to these white shirt waist suits is the flow low shoes of black silk. These are quite as smart, if not more so, than the best of the low effects which are available in heavier [illegible] Furthermore, a still shoe is entirely [illegible] with white suit, while a [illegible] Planet Julia Record.

Have Women a Sense of Humor?

Many [illegible] the humor there is still [illegible] the brutality of [illegible] of cruelty, [illegible] and [illegible] sort of [illegible] satisfaction, [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] in [illegible] The [illegible] humor is far more [illegible] than [illegible] Even Mr. Dooley's [illegible], who [illegible] do [illegible] all [illegible] by their [illegible] [illegible] "[illegible]" [illegible] is greater than [illegible] Will the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
