THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY;

HAVING FAILED, FOR THE WANT OF patronage, in the publication of "Stedman's Magazine," I propose to publish at Pittsborough, North Carolina, a Free and Independent (weekly) Paper, to be entitled,
THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY, AND CAPE FEAR AND DEEP RIVER ADVERTISER,
To be devoted to Politics, Literature, Internal Improvements, Domestic and Foreign News, Agriculture, Commerce, Manufactures, Mineral Resources, the Markets, &c., &c., &c.,
EMBRACING EVERY THING OF PUBLIC INTEREST.
I shall, with perfect freedom, discuss Federal Politics; all questions of State policy, and every issue in which the interests of the South are involved,—untrammeled by Platforms—acknowledging no allegiance to any party, further than redounds to the prosperity of North Carolina and the Southern States.
I shall, with unfaltering energy, devote myself to the interests of my native State, (North-Carolina,) whose dormant resources, if developed, would render her, in point of wealth, the "empire State" of the South.
The Southern Confederacy, and Cape Fear and Deep River Advertiser, will be emphatically, in tone, what the former clause of the title denotes, and will, as indicated by the latter clause, be a general advertising medium; and, devoted to the interest of North Carolina, it will unceasingly and earnestly urge the improvement and development of that portion of the State which is watered by Cape Fear and Deep Rivers.

COYNER'S WHITE AND BLACK SULPHUR AND CHALLYBEATE SPRINGS.—This favorite resort for pleasure and health will be opened for the accommodation of visitors on the 1st of June. It is situated on the line and in full view of the Va. and Tenn. Railroad, about half a mile from Bonsack's Depot, Roanoke, Va., at which Depot an Omnibus and porters will always be found waiting the arrival of the cars, to convey visitors and their baggage to the Springs.
Important improvements have been made since last season.
A Telegraph office has been established, which affords convenient and instantaneous communication with all parts of the country.
Another White Sulphur—stronger, bolder, and a superior Challybeate Springs have been discovered and improved since the last season—so that the variety and value of the mineral waters now afforded at the place are unequalled by any other place now known to the public. This similarity of the White Sulphur to the justly and far-famed Greenbrier White Sulphur is so striking as to be at once recognized by all who have used both of the waters.
These White and Black Sulphur waters have effected numerous cures. The White Sulphur, in aggravated cases of dyspepsia, serious affections of the liver, kidneys, and bladder, general debility, and especially diseases of the nervous system, and those diseases peculiar to FEMALES. The Black Sulphur, in all kinds of disease of the skin, aggravated cases of tetter and other eruptions of the skin—of great numbers and of long standing—seventy have been entirely cured.
The accommodations are equal to any to be found in the mountains of Virginia, and the table and attendance of the most satisfactory character—as to all which we beg to refer to the large number of persons who have heretofore visited the place.
☞ A Billiard Saloon, Ten Pin Alley, and other amusements afford pleasant and healthy recreation. E. Davidge's celebrated Band, from Baltimore, has been engaged for the season.

BURNING THE DEAD—HOW TO DO IT!

A book has lately been published in London, which goes to show the advantages of the ancient method of burying the dead. The only objection its author, who is a "member of the College of Surgeons," has against burial is a sanitary one.—He says that "it is proved beyond all doubt, that during the progress of that decomposition which undergoes when buried, the elements of which it is composed, before entering into other and purer states, form certain putrid gases of so deadly a nature, that their inhalation in a concentrated state has been know to cause instant death, while in a more diluted form, they are productive of the most serious injury to health. These dreadful effluvia vary much in their virulence, according to circumstances, and there is probably one particular stage of decomposition in which they attain their most fatal power." [illegible] gases emanating from the bodies when diluted possess the power of producing various diseases, diminishing the average duration of life, lowering the tone of the general health, and thereby rendering thousands more liable to be attacked by fever, cholera, or epidemics. It is not because they are not often perceptible to the sense of smell that they are harmless."

How are these evils to be averted? Thirty-five millions of human beings die every year—nearly four thousand every hour. By what means shall this great mass of decaying substance be so dispose of as not to vitiate the air the living breathe, and the water the living drink.—The remedy our author proposes is, as we have hinted, that of burning. To render the idea less revolting he proposes a plan which seems to him without objection.

On a gentle eminence, surrounded by pleasant grounds, stands a convenient, well-ventilated chapel, with a high spire or steeple. At the entrance, where some of the mourners might prefer to take leave of the body, are chambers for their accommodation. Within the edifice are seats for those who follow the remains to the last; there is also an organ and gallery for choristers. In the centre chapel, embellished with appropriate emblems and devices, is erected a shrine of marble, somewhat like those which cover the ashes of the great and mighty in our old cathedrals, the openings being filled with prepared glass. Within this—a sufficient space intervening—is an inner shrine, covered with bright, non-radiating metal, and within this again is a sarcophagus of tempered fire clay, with one or more longitudinal slits near the top, extending its whole length.—As soon as the body is deposited therein sheets of flame at an immensely high temperature, rush through the long appertures from end to end, and acting as a combination of a modified oxyhydrogen blow-pipe, with the reverbatory furnace, utterly and completely consume and decompose the body in an incredibly short space of time; even the large quantity of water it contains is decomposed by the extreme heat, and its elements, instead of retarding, aid combustion, as is the case of fierce conflagrations. The gaseous products of combustion are conveyed away by flues, and means being adopted to consume anything like smoke, all that is observed from the the outside is occasionally a quivering transparent ether floating away from the high steeple to mingle with the atmosphere."

EDUCATION.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.--THE TRUSTEES of this Institution give notice to the public, that the organization of the College upon the plan originally proposed, has been postponed until the endowment necessary to sustain its operations may be more fully and permanently secured.
Under the direction of the Grand Lodge at its last Session, however, they have made arrangements to open in the beautiful edifice already completed a school preparatory to any American College or University, under the superintendence of Mr. ASHBEL G. BROWN, formerly Adjunct Professor of Latin and Greek in the University at Chapel Hill, and more recently the Principal of a "Select Classical School," at Oxford.
It is believed that the excellent accommodations afforded by this eligible location, together with the skilful instruction and discipline of which Mr. Brown's antecedents are an ample pledge to the public, will attract immediately the patronage required to lay the foundations of a useful and distinguished seminary of learning.
The corps of instructors will be, at least, one to every twenty-five pupils, and care will be taken to employ none but men of tried zeal and efficiency in the profession.
As this enterprise is purely benevolent in its design, and intended to promote the highest interests of humanity, they feel assured that nothing more need be said to elicit, not merely the approbation, but even the cordial support and favor of an enlightened community.
The first Session of the School will begin the second Monday in July.
By order of the Board,
JAS. T. LITTLEJOHN,
Oxford, N. C., June 16—t2dmjy Secretary.

THE PRESENT SESSION OF Rev. RICH'D H. JONES' FEMALE SCHOOL, near Hilliardston, N. C., will end on Friday 25th of June. The next Session will begin on the 26th of July following, and terminate on Friday, 24th of December.
The prospects of the School are such as to warrant improved facilities to those disposed to patronize it. It will be under the management of a competent Instructress, with efficient aid. The course of instruction will be as thorough as desired.
The terms are low in every respect. Board can be obtained at $7 per month, inclusive.
