POETRY.

THE HEART AND TONGUE.

One Mr. Tongue of much renown,
Who lived at large in Tattle Town,
Was mischief, full and wicked, too,
As all could tell, if Tongue they knew.

The statute brought, the charge was plain,
That Tongue was full of deadly bane;
Tongue then was seized, and brought to Court,
Pleading himself the impending suit.

'Tis neighbor Heart plead Mr. Tongue,
Who leads me into so much wrong;
I should be good as neighbors are;
As Mr. Nose, or Eye, or Ear.

If neighbor Heart, who lives below,
Were changed by grace, or made anew:
'Tis very hard to bear the wrong
Of neighbor Heart, said Mr. Tongue.

The plea was sound, of Mr. Tongue;
Jurors and judge said, all as one,
While neighbor Heart is also wrong,
So good, they said could come from Tongue.

The Court decide as the best good
To removate the neighborhood,
That Mr. Heart must be removed,
Or never Tongue can be subdued.

Wait for the Wagon.

Will you come with me Phillis Dear,
To yon blue mountain free,
Where the blossoms smell the sweetest?
Come rove along with me.
Its every Sunday morning,
When I am by your side,
We will jump into the wagon,
And we'll all take a ride.

REPEAT. { Wait for the wagon, wait for the wagon,
Wait for the wagon, we'll all take a ride.

Where the rivers run like silver;
And the birds they sing so sweet,
I have a cabin, Phillis;
And something good to eat.
Come listen to my story,
And it will relieve your heart,
We will jump into the wagon,
And off we'll take a start;
Wait for the wagon, &c.

Do you believe me Phillis Dear?
Old Mike and all his wealth,
Can't make you half so happy,
As I with youth and health.
We will have a little farm,
A horse, a pig and Cow;
You will mind the dairy,
And I will guide the Plough,
Wait for the wagon, &c.

Your lips are red as poppies;
Your hair as slick and neat,
All braided up with dahlias,
And holly-hocks so sweet.
Its every Sunday morning,
When I am by your side;
We will jump into the wagon,
And we'll all take a ride.
Wait for the wagon, &c.

Together on life's journey,
We'll travel till we stop;
And, if we have no trouble,
We will reach the happy top.
So come with me, my Phillis,
My Dear, my loving bride;
And we will jump into the wagon,
And we'll all take a ride
Wait for the wagon, &c.

THE OYSTER

The oyster is formed with organs of life and respiration, which are very voluminous, a liver, lungs, and hearts. Like the muscle it opens its shell to receive the influx of water and like that animal, is strongly attached to its shell, both above and below. The oyster respires by means of gills.—The water is drawn in at the mouth, with a small opening in the upper part of the body, proceeding thence down a long canal, consisting of the base of the gill, and so not again retaining such a portion of air as is necessary for the functions of the body.

Oysters usually cast their spawn in May. These are covered with a shell in two or three days; and in three years the animal is large enough to be brought to market.—As they invariably remain in the places where they are laid, and as they grow without any other seeming food than the afflux of sea water, it is the custom where the tide settles in marshes on land, to pick up great quantities of small oysters along the shore, which when first gathered, seldom exceed the size of a sixpence. These are deposited in beds where the tide comes in and in two or three years grow to a tolerable size. They are better tasted for being thus sweetened from the agitation of the deep; and a mixture of fresh water entering into these repositories is said to improve their flavor, and to increase their growth and fatness.

The oysters however, which are prepared in this manner are by no means so large as those found sticking to rocks at the bottom of the sea, usually called rock oysters.—These are sometimes found as broad as a plate, and are admired by some as excellent food. But what is the size of these compared with the oysters of the East Indies, some of whose shells we have seen two feet over! The oysters found along the coast of Coromandel are capable of furnishing a plentiful meal to eight or ten men; but it seems universally agreed, that they are no way comparable to ours for delicacy of flavor. The oysters taken on the coast of England have a strong taste of copper, which they derive from the copper banks. They are at first very disgusting to an American palate, and are even considered by some as being poisonous.

A TEST CHOIR.

At a church in New England lately, a stranger was called to officiate in the absence of the regular pastor, who not being familiar with some rules of the choir, so offended that body as to be unable to get the hymn sung. After two or three efforts, the strange preacher determined not to be discomfited, gave out the verse:

Let those refuse to sing
Who never knew our God;
But servants of the Heavenly King
May speak their joys abroad.

We rest the choir and all in the house, not wishing any reflections cast on them, heartily joined in with the Minister, and the service passed off most pleasantly and vigorously.

AN APPEAL TO PEOPLE OF GOOD SENSE.

THE Graefenberg Company's Standard Medicines are the most reliable medicines that have ever been before the public. It is superfluous and tiresome to detail of their virtues, as the Medicines are all warranted to cure what they are prepared for, and have been thoroughly tested.

Graefenberg Veg. Pills, considered the Standard Pill of the day for Fevers in general, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, common and sick headache. Price 25 cents.

Graefenberg Fever and Ague Pills, a speedy and positive cure for this distressing complaint, elegantly put up in Fancy Boxes. Price $1 per box.

Graefenberg Health Bitters, skillfully and elegantly prepared from a number of purgative, invigorating and healing Roots, Barks, Herbs and Vines, Price 25 cents per Package.

Dysentery Syrup, a certain and immediate cure for Dysentery, Diarrhea, Cholera morbus, Asiatic Cholera. Price 50 cents per Bottle.

The Graefenberg Sarsaparilla, a Powerful Extract, one Bottle equal to Ten of ordinary Sarsaparilla, Price $1 per Bottle.

The Green Mountain Ointment, invaluable in the following diseases, viz. Glandular Swellings, Ague in the Face, Swelled Breasts, Felon, Ringworm, Scald Head, Burns, Bruises, &c. Price 25 cents per Box.

The Graefenberg Eye Lotion, for Diseases of the Eye. This Lotion has no equal. Price 25 cents per Bottle.

The Children's Comforter for Summer Complaints and those diseases to which children are subject. No mother should be without it. Price 25 cents per Bottle.

Lily's Point Ointment, warranted a certain cure. Price $1 per Bottle.

Consumptive Balm, Sovereign in all Bronchial and Pulmonary diseases. Full Directions accompany each Bottle. Price $1 per Bottle.

Marshall's Uterine Cordials, an infallible remedy for all diseases of the Womb, and Urinary Organs viz: Prolapsus Uteri (Falling Down), Leucorrhœa, Amenorrhœa &c. Warranted. Price $1 per Bottle.

The Graefenberg Manual of Health, a most valuable Book, which should be in the hands of every person who has any regard for Health. Price 25 cents.

Persons in purchasing the above Medicines, should always examine for the seal of the company, as spurious imitations have been gotten up and unprincipled persons, who do not put the Seal on, are the low of counterfeiting. All application for the above Medicines in North Carolina, should be addressed to DR. WM. H. NEWBY, Raleigh, N. C., Post Paid, as he is proprietor and general agent for the State of North Carolina.

TIME IS MONEY!

THE attention of the public is most respectfully called to bear on a subject of great interest to every person in domestic life. When a family of ordinary size can, by spending some Five Dollars, save annually from $25 to $50, it is strange that they still stand aloof from a matter so closely connected with their own interest.

To those who wish to use economy, and keep up with the times; save labor, money, and the care of a tender servant, a fine opportunity of doing so is offered by the undersigned for Five Dollars. S. Crane's Patent Wash Mixture is warranted to do all that can be done in washing clothes without boiling, or any rubbing more than sufficient to rinse; and is much less injurious to the fabric than when washed by the old process. For further particulars, see small bills and certificates annexed. Thankful for past patronage, and by prompt attention to all orders, a continuance of the same is solicited.

NEW BOOKS!

IREDELL ON EXECUTORS;

OR

A Treatise on the Law of Executors and Administrators!

IN NORTH CAROLINA,

By James Iredell.

THE object of this work has been to exhibit the law, as it now stands in North Carolina in relation to the matters of which it treats. It embraces, therefore, the English doctrines, as far as they are recognized in our own State, as well as in acts of Assembly and the decisions of our own Courts, on the subject of Wills, Executors and Administrators. It is thought it may prove useful, not only to members of the legal profession, but also to others, who are so frequently called upon to undertake the indispensable, important and responsible trusts of Executors and Administrators.

NEW AND CLASSICAL MEMENTO OF

HENRY CLAY.

An Original Bronze Medal,

Modeled from Life, and executed by C. C. Wright, Esq., Engraver of the New York Gold Medal to Clay, and of the Virginia and Congressional Globe Medals to Scott, Taylor, etc.

The present new medal of HENRY CLAY, as a work of art, is at least equal to any work of the kind that could have been produced in any country and probably in my age. The likeness of Mr. CLAY, on the obverse side, is from a recent model from life, and executed by an artist of unequaled eminence whose qualifications for this particular task have been matured by repeatedly performing it in other medals of the same illustrious person, designed for personal presentation; and the likeness is accordingly pronounced by all competent judges, to be the most accurate in every lineament, and the characteristically expressive of any that has been made of Mr. CLAY, in any form. On the reverse side is an appropriate design, in bold relief, illustrative of the patriotic basis of his political character. The medal is of unusually large size, being three inches in diameter, in the finest bronze, and inclosed in a handsome morocco case; forming, at once, a chaste and elegant ornament for the drawing-room, mantel, or center table, and a durable and impressive memorial of the honored dead, that may be transmitted, as a parental treasure, from one generations to another.

Upon the dies of this medal, the distinguished artist expended several months of unremitted labor, until he wrought them up to their present exquisite degree of finish. No similar work of art has ever been submitted to the general patronage and patriotism of the American people, and none seems better calculated to gratify and reward it.

A copy of the above may be seen at the
