EARL WILSON ON BROADWAY

BEVERLY HILLS — The BW and I never bet more than $2 on a horse—so we were pop-eyed as we sat around the Beverly Hilton listening to tall tales about bangtails.

"Everybody thought I'd have a lot of inside information," up composer Johnny Burke, "when I was appointed to the board at Delmar. And I won so often it got embarrassing. I won on Stardust and on Moonglow. I was winning four or five races a day.

"People said, 'See? He knows something!' but what I did was go over the list every day and bet on horses whose names were song titles or musical terms. Some system I had!"

The president of Hollywood Park, Mervyn LeRoy, the Hollywood producer, recounted how he had once given film tycoon Jack Warner a hot tip.

"I told him, 'Jack, see me just before the last race, when I can give you a very good tip—but promise me whatever happens, you won't tell anybody I told you." Jack not only promised — he folfollowed LeRoy around, begging him to tell him immediately.

"Not until just before the last race—but you must never tell anybody," LeRoy insisted.

And so, just before the last race, LeRoy told Warner—and Warner bet a bundle.

"It was a very thrilling race" LeRoy recalled. "The horse that Warner bet on finished eighth.

"And when I got home that night, I had a telegram from Warner. It said, 'Now can I tell?"

Attorney Arnold M. Grant, whose suite we were in, said to LeRoy, "Tell the Earl Sande story."

LeRoy chuckled softly. "This great jockey," LeRoy said, "was once persuaded to ride an unknown horse.

"The owner was also unknown -- but confident.

"He said to Sande, 'The way to ride this horse is to start out slow, then push him up to fifth position, then on up to fourth position -- then shoot out ahead and win the race."

Sande followed instructions -- started slow, got into fifth position, then into fourth -- and finished there because another horse had won by now.

The owner was furious.

"You loused me up!" he screamed at Sande. "After you got into fourth position, you were supposed to shoot ahead of the field and win the race."

'What!" replied Sande. "And leave the horse!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N. Y.

Dagmar auditioned for the title role in a B'way musical, "The Amazing Adele" . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor arrived in Deauville to visit Rubi -- with four trunks and assorted suitcases . . . Benny Goodman was stopped for an autography -- by a fan who taught he was Steve Allen.

Sammy Davis Jr.'s being set for a lead in NBC - TV's forthcoming "Porgy and Bess" . . . With the temperature at 96 last week, Walter Slezak posed as Santa for a magazine's Christmas layout . . . Joel Gray and Margaret Whiting are a hot Cost duo . . . Jane Russell gets to play opposite Clark Gable in "The Tall Men."

Italian actress Silvana Mangano changed her mind about retiring; she'll make more movies . . Daily Double: Sailing Brauch Jr. and model Peggy Diggins at the Villa Victor . . . Are the Charlie Chaplins moving from Switzerland to France? . . . Miss New York City of '48 -- Connie Ronde -- is a Latin 1-4 showgirl.

The Dominican Republic wants the Milwaukee Braves to play exhibitions in its new stadium . . . There's a chummy foursome around town: a famed singer and her boy friend, the singer's estranged husband and his girl friend.

Earl's Pearls . . .

A cocktail party is a place where people clutch at drinks and claw at reputations.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Fun is like insurance -- the older you get the more it costs." - Fern Lee, Towner, N. Dakota.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Jan Murray moved to a very swanky section of Long Island. "My neighbor," says Jan, is awe, "has a split-level Cadillac."

Harry (Balmoral) Toffel heard of the Russian who didn't have time to invent the electric light, phonograph and movie camera -- so he just invented Thomas Edison. That's earl, brother.

More Arrests In Vice Probe

NEW YORK (AP)—Another runaway teen-age girl and three men were arrested today in an investigation of teen-age prostitution and their patrolmen patrons that has rocked the police department.

The latest teen-aged arrested was said to have been a "protege" of George (The Ox) Ochs, 27, alias Gorge Bellingham, charged with leading at least two other young girls into prostitution. Ochs escaped from a busy police station yesterday while high police brass waited to question him.

Also arrested was Howard Cooper, 22, who was accused of having relations with the 15-year-old girl, whose name was not disclosed. She was held as a juvenile delinquent.

Nick Mirro, 39, and Donald Gleeson, 19, were charged with the statutory rape of one of two 17-year-old girls picked up previously. The girls, identified as Charlotte Woodhouse and Nancy Brigham, ran away from St. Ann's Institute in Albany, a home for wayward girls, and allegedly met Ochs, who told them how to make "easy money."

Patrolman Donald Shaughnessy and taxi driver Angelo Longo were charged with statutory rape of the girls. Another pair of runaway girls, both 15-year-old, told authorities they lived in doorways and under the Coney Island boardwalk for four months while having relations with policemen and civilians. Nine policemen and 37 civilians have been arrested in that case.
