For a good shoe you can say nothing too good; for a bad shoe nothing too bad. With a bad shoe you can't do anything; it's a hopeless case and the sooner you get rid of it the better you'll be off. We would just as soon think of trying to give a bad shoe a good character as we would of trying to give a good shoe a bad character. Our $3.00 shoe speaks for itself the minute it is on the foot. It is unreliable in absolutely no respect. It is just what economical buyers are looking for—it gives economy a chance without sacrificing either quality or comfort.

Local Dipples

Miss Mattie Parks is quite sick with the grip.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Smith have gone to Fort Mill S. C. to remain until midsummer.

Rev. Dr. Rumple, of Salisbury, will conduct prayer meeting services at the First Presbyterian church tonight.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Barnes died at their home in Charlotte township yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bryan arrived at the Central today. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bryan for a few days.

To-day we saw at least a hundred of plows in Mecklenburg county but we think as fair weather seems to have come the work of planting corn will be resumed.

Cards have been issued announcing the marriage at Smithfield, on April 6th, of Mr. Colmer Rodgers to Miss Ellen Wright Winfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Winfield.

The first issue of the Student, a monthly under the management of Mr. Thos. B. Jernigan, was received today. The appearance of the paper has been very much improved, and Mr. Jernigan starts out well.

Mr. Mullard F. Trotter who was sometime ago injured in a railroad accident, made his appearance on the streets to-day. He is on crutches, his broken leg not yet having healed sufficiently to sustain his weight.

—The machinery of the Mecklenburg Ice Company is being overhauled preparatory to commencing business for the season. The works will be started up next week. The capacity of the factory is sufficient to supply not only Charlotte, but to fill all orders from adjoining towns. This factory makes the best artificial ice that has ever been put upon this market.

Baseball Interests.

Mr. Jim Bennett, a baseballist from Columbia, is here to induce Charlotte to join the Southern Inter State League. This league was formed in Columbia on the 10th, with clubs from Columbia, Savannah, Charleston and Greenville. Winston has since joined. A meeting will be held to-night, which Charlotte will decide whether it will be to find Winston.

Mr. Pearson in Savannah.

Rev. Dr. R. G. Pearson, the evangelist, who conducted the great revival in Charlotte a few years ago commenced one in Savannah, Ga., Sunday. Preparatory services was held for some time previous. The meetings are being held in the Wesley Monumental Methodist church, the largest in that city. The singing is led by a choir of 75 with a paid instructor and organist. The overflow meetings and the after meetings are held in the First Presbyterian church, of which Dr. L. C. Vass, formerly of New Berne, is pastor, and which is very close to it. Dr. Vass has a large and increasing congregation and membership. He has received 47 new members into the church since he became its pastor.

The 20th.

The 20th May ball has been started and our people are determined that the occasion shall be one that will long be remembered in Charlotte's annals. We are counting on a larger crowd than that of May 1875, and that crowd has always been pointed to as the largest that has ever been known here. A meeting to set the ball in motion was held at the court house last night, and the work of arranging for a big occasion will be commenced at once. As an outcome of last night's meeting, a committee of ten is to be appointed by Dr. R. J. Brevard, who was chairman of the meeting. This committee shall have the authority to appoint such subcommittees as its wisdom may suggest for the carrying out of arrangements for such a celebration as will be worthy of Senator Hill and the other distinguished guests of the occasion and of the magnitude of the crowd which will be gathered in Charlotte on the 20th of May.

Two Ladies Meet a Blind Tiger.

Two ladies of Charlotte met an unexpected introduction to a genuine "blind tiger" yesterday. They were walking on the outskirts of the city. They had indulged in quite a long tramp and were thirsty, so when they saw a colored woman coming along with a bucket and a tin dipper, they hailed her with eager anticipations of a cooling draught. "Auntie, give us a drink of water," they asked. They noticed that the woman tried to avoid them, but they were utterly set back when on being corrected she said "Deyerry, souls, ladies, this ain't water. Dis is corn liquor."

Never Sized it up Right.

Past Charlotte is a pretty big town as evidenced by the fact that there were five meetings of interest in the city last night and all were well attended. In an ordinary town, two meetings would about exhaust the population and be considered as crowding things. Last night the Second Presbyterian Church was packed with people to hear the Corean lecture, there was a 20th May meeting at the court house, the Charlotte Academy of Medicine was in session and there were two military meetings. But as Governor Vance said to Senator Hill, Charlotte is the biggest town for its size in the South.

Local Weather Report

The following is a synopsis of the weather prevailing at 8 a. m. to-day: A high barometer in North Carolina made its appearance near Fort Smith, Ark., and is advancing eastward at a rapid rate. The appearance of this high has served as a wedge keeping apart the low areas of the northwest and Texas, which bade fair yesterday to unite over this section, and produce a violent disturbance. This section will now only experience the effects of the low area located over the upper lakes, but which affects the weather much farther south. The progress of the high eastwardly will result in somewhat cooler weather in this section. Precipitation is occurring at several points on the east and south borders of this high, and will be experienced here to-day.

—Mr. J. R. Blackwood, formerly of Gastonia, has accepted a position in this city with Mr. W. J. H. Weddington, contracting glazier for the sash door and blind factory. Mr. Weddington is also furniture finisher for E. M. Andrews.

MECKLENBURG'S THIRD PARTY.

It is to be Put On its Feet Such as They May be, in Lemley's Next Saturday.

An effort is to be made to launch a third party craft in this county next Saturday in Lemley's township. The call to the faithful has gone forth, but the thing has been kept very quiet. In fact THE NEWS got hold of it accidentally. While it could not get details of the programme, it did learn that several speakers will be there, and that it is the intention to hold similar meetings in all the Townships of Mecklenburg, provided the business doesn't peter out at the Lemley effort. Then a county convention will be called, a county executive committee appointed and delegates selected for the Omaha convention. How they are going to manage to get that far from home is not made apparent, for the tramp is a long one, and if we are to believe the Third party speakers, there is not one in their down trodden fold who could buy a railroad ticket from Charlotte to the junction, much less to Omaha. It does not appear, either, that the Third party speakers are in the habit of paying railroad fares for themselves or anybody else, so how is the poor Third party delegate to get to Omaha, if not at the expense of Allianceville leather? That convention, we believe, is to be held in July, and it is quite proper that Mecklenburg is arranging to get its delegation off in the road in good time. But it is a serious question what is to become of the Third party in Mecklenburg while the delegates are gone, for there will be no one here to look after its interests in the meantime. It is a long journey, and very serious consequences may result to the party in this county during its western pilgrimage. THE NEWS would advise the Third party not to undertake the Omaha journey, but to stay at home and keep the contribution box jingling for Col. Polk & Co.

Downing Friday Night.

Robert Downing, the brilliant young American tragedian, supported by the talented and artistic Eugene Blair and a strong company led by that sterling young actor Fred C. Mosley, will appear at the opera house on next Friday evening in a grand production of John Banims strong and always popular romantic play, "Damon and Pythias." During Mr. Downing's professional career he has been the recipient of as candid and genuine praise as was ever enjoyed and accorded to an American actor. The press of the North, South, East, and West have been most generous in the bestowal of their praise, and seem to have definitely settled the oft repeated question "On whose shoulders shall the mantle of McCullough fall?" As many prominent journals have accorded Mr. Downing the successorship. Unconditionally he is the "American Tragedian," and of him the country can well be proud. He is nature's own child, for his grand and commanding physique, honest intentions and free and open hearted in all things, the true image of an ancient Roman. The part of Damon requires an actor of wonderful constitution and physique, and Mr. Downing is said to be the only man particularly adapted to such a part—in fact, the only man to fill the place made vacant by our lamented John McCullough.

The best care for rheumatism and neuralgia is Salvation Oil, used according to directions. 25cts.

Death of Mr. Alexander.

Mr. Ira Alexander an old citizen of Mecklenburg died at his home in Derrytown township at 8 o'clock this morning of Bright's disease. He was 4 years of age and leaves a wife and a large family of children. His body will be buried at Steel Creek church at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Sued the Railroad for $20,000.

Mr. Mullard F. Trotter has brought suit against the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley railroad for the sum of $20,000. Mr. Trotter was a passenger on a train on that road that was wrecked on the 21st of last January. His left leg was broken in two places below the knee and he was otherwise injured. He has employed Watson & Coleman to press his suit.

Nobody to Put Him in the Coffin.

A negro man living in Watkins' row, in Ward 2, died last Monday morning, and his body is still lying there, unclaimed. The county furnished a coffin for the dead negro, and a county official paid to have it sent to the house, but none of the negro's neighbors have been interested in his interment at all, and the body has not yet been put in the coffin, to say nothing of any funeral arrangements. The unfortunate probably did not belong to any of the numerous "societies." The body was reported to be in an offensive condition today.

An Excellent Lecture

There was a very large audience at the Second Presbyterian church last night to hear the Corean talk by Rev. Mr. Underwood. The main body of the church was crowded and the galleries were well filled. The subject of Mr. Underwood's lecture was, "Corea, her people and their habits," and it is very seldom indeed that our people have the opportunity to listen to an address so peculiarly instructive and entertaining as was that by Mr. Underwood. It fairly bristled with interesting things. Mr. Underwood exhibited a sample of Corean money, and one can get an idea of its bulkiness when it is stated that it requires 11 ponies and 1 oxen to carry $[illegible] of it.

Gone By the Board.

While a very successful 20th May celebration is assured, it begins to look like the proposed music festival will go by the board. The committee to canvass for funds have met with very ordinary success, having secured not more than one half the amount wanted. A festival on a small scale could be given with the sum already guaranteed, but it is the intention to have a fine affair, or none at all. One of the promoters of the affair told a NEWS reporter that the intention to hold a festival had been practically abandoned. This is a pity, for Charlotte's Music Festivals have given the town renown and people all through North and South Carolina expected a repetition of the treat this year.

Rogers Respited.
