Lest We Forget

This is the day the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it.—Ps. 118:24.

Now Go to Work

[illegible]

Creation of a large military establishment as has been and is being set up in this country naturally results in manpower shortages in many fields. That is why every individual owes it to his country as a patriotic duty to furnish his services wherever and whenever available.

No labor conscription has been resorted to in the United States, but a government which has the right to order men to stand up and be shot at unquestionably has the power to commandeer services of its citizens to do needful work. That is not wanted and ought not to be necessary. And it will not be done if all ablebodied persons respond in the same degree of patriotism as have the millions of men who have gone into the armed forces and the thousands of women who have volunteered for such military duty as they can perform. In this way we can prevent labor drafts. It is for the people themselves, by their actions, to determine the issue, and the present is the time to meet the need.

Each county is capable of managing its own affairs, but committees cannot do it unless the people themselves cooperate and respond promptly. If this is done there will be no outside interference. It is for us as individuals and as communities to decide.

Groups in Vance that are busying themselves toward solution of the problem have accepted the challenge of the hour, but will not and cannot get far without a sense of responsibility on the part of every citizen. This is another instance of where the individual is a soldier in the ranks, whether wearing a uniform or not.

Germany, statistics show, has stormy weather or dense fogs two-thirds of the time. In other words, when Hitler isn't in a rug-chomping rage, Goebbels is probably making a speech.

Proof that it pays to be tough—some species of eagles, according to Factographs, live to be well over 100 years old.

Two goats at Camp Stewart, Ga., have been name "Adolf" and "Tojo." What, no "Benito?"

Ritch's Statement

No one, not even the gentleman himself, is so simple as to suppose that Representative Marvin Ritch of Charlotte has a Chinaman's chance of winning the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate over Senator Reynolds and Clyde Hoey next May. The very [illegible] of his assertion is [illegible] excuse for getting into an important statewide contest of this sort.

Thousands of party workers have gone down the line for some particular successful candidate and have had little, and in most instances nothing, done for them as the result. But Mr. Ritch thinks the Shelby dynasty owes him something and [illegible] so he is going out [illegible]. Well, many little boys in America are told that [illegible] may be president, and that [illegible] privilege of everyone [illegible] that office [illegible] it as the Mecklenburg lawyer [illegible] right to run [illegible] with Hoey and Rey[nolds] [illegible] for the Senate [illegible] a third he may be in [illegible] ballots [illegible] home.

It is [illegible] be chattered [illegible] zens who have [illegible] of success [illegible] been races [illegible] early [illegible] one.

Could it be that Mr. Ritch is [illegible] ing himself to [illegible] to pull some one else's chestnut [illegible] of the fire. We do not know, but certainly are not saying that there has been some speculation in that direction.

Probability is that the Mecklenburger will never [illegible] the office. But if he persists, he is certainly within his rights, as every one will concede, and there will be few, if any, who would deny him the satisfaction even if they [illegible]. For our part, we hope he enjoys whatever spotlight he can attract should he conclude to go the whole distance.

Whatever became of that fellow Popoff, the Bulgarian [illegible]? A perfect [illegible] not be allowed to become lost [illegible] international po[litics].

Every dog has his day [illegible] days the most [illegible] world [illegible] the E[illegible].

SENATOR?—In a [illegible] his fellow-legislator [illegible] Watkins, as reported [illegible] on Daily Dispatch [illegible] of Charlotte states that [illegible] tainly be a candidate [illegible] States Senate in next [illegible] mary against Hoey [illegible] Ritch has had a checkered political career, which culminated [illegible] terms as representative from Mecklenburg county.

LIVELY—Entrance of the Queen City's stormy petrel into the statewide race will at least add [illegible] to it. Ritch doesn't allow [illegible] in which he participates [illegible] dull; and that applies whether [illegible] is a member of the Democratic, the Republican or the Communist party. An indication of the kind of campaign he might wage is given in his letter. He says that he has been working for Clyde Hoey and the Hoeys ever since he started out as a secretary to Judge Yates Webb when he was in Congress in 1912, and that none of the Shelby folks have ever done anything for him or for Mecklenburg county in return. He thinks it's time now for him to think about calling on some of his past [illegible] and experience.

VACATION—Congressman Graham (Hap) Barden [illegible] Raleigh a day or two ago was [illegible] he was enjoying his vacation. "Vacation?" he retorted, "I wish I could get one." Then he explained that for the few days he had been at home there had been so much demand upon his time that it required an average of one hour to walk from his office to the postoffice in New Bern. And he said "a coat [illegible] was [illegible] at the office where constituents had sought to stop him [illegible] But Hap is [illegible] and he likes [illegible] He wasn't [illegible] day [illegible] rest.

[illegible] help with farm work [illegible] essential [illegible] general policy [illegible] shall be used [illegible] work [illegible] possible [illegible] manufac[turing] [illegible] they are [illegible] work than [illegible] for it [illegible] will have a [illegible] to take them.

NEIGHBORLY—North Carolina [illegible] neighbor [illegible] the fence with [illegible] recently. Some weeks [illegible] crops in the [illegible] about to damage [illegible] arrangements were [illegible] over [illegible] Carolina to aid in saving [illegible] last week when some [illegible] eastern Tennessee [illegible] Ashe and Watauga counties [illegible] in desperate need of [illegible] pickers, arrangements [illegible] let some North Carolina [illegible] and help there. [illegible] South Carolina [illegible] South Carolina [illegible] returned the [illegible] by passing [illegible] to another neighbor [illegible] instances the [illegible] through co[operation] [illegible] State College Extension [illegible] the U. S. N. C. Em[ployment] [illegible] and other cooperating [illegible].

[illegible]—Governor Broughton [illegible] question at a [illegible] said the [illegible] was about [illegible] that there was [illegible] to complete [illegible] very little or [illegible] to gather [illegible] the potato crop [illegible] to inadequate la[bor] [illegible] situation looked [illegible] the cooperation of all [illegible] and private agencies [illegible] labor available to take care of the crop.

RE-FINANCING—Scheduled to be sold at noon Wednesday are approximately three-quarters of a million dollars worth of North Carolina [illegible] owned by the teacher-state employee retirement system. Board is selling the bonds [illegible] reinvestment in U. S. [illegible] which pay a [illegible] rate. At its [illegible] the retirement board [illegible] Charles M. Johnson [illegible] change. Fact is that [illegible] Johnson will make [illegible] profit for the fund. The [illegible] being sold were bought at [illegible] have since advanced, and [illegible] have earned a good [illegible]. Net proceeds will [illegible] million dollars. Putting [illegible] in government securities [illegible] aid the war effort, it will [illegible] a sound investment [illegible] and will earn a little [illegible] rate than the municipal bonds. The present yield on [illegible] 2.15 per cent. Net yield on the new investment, after [illegible] for immediate purchase, will be about 2.47 per cent. The difference will be about $3,000 a year more money to the fund.
