—Quite a number of Morganton people attended Marvin camp-meeting last Sunday.

—Don't forget that Senator Ransom will speak in Morganton on Tuesday, Oct. 25th.

—The Secretary of the Burke County Fair says that the racing this year will be particularly fine.

—The Registration books are now open. They will be closed at 12 o'clock (noon) on Saturday, October 29th.

—Hon. Thomas W. Mason one of the most eloquent speakers in the State, will speak at Connelly Springs on Nov. 4th.

—One of the greatest attractions of the fair will be Miss Lillian Hunt, the champion lady rifle shot of America. Remember the time—next week.

—Mr. Charlie Edmonson drove the finest lot of young mules through town this week we have seen in a long time. Tney were sold to Mr. A. E. Wilson.

—A good many Burke county people attended the Newton fair last week. The displays were good, the crowds large, and the fair proved a financial success.

—There will be no political speaking in Morganton during fair week. For four days politics and business will be laid aside and the people will enjoy a genuine holiday.

—Our neighbor counties are getting things ready for the Burke Burke County Fair. Several car loads of horses will be here from Newton. Don't forget the opening day—Oct. 11th.

—Mr. Charlie Snuggs has moved to Mr. James Mull's property in East Morganton and Mr. R. J. Hallyburton has moved to the Pearson property on West Green street vacated by Mr. Snuggs.

—Rev. Mr. Blalock, who teaches Prof. Patton's school, preached to the negroes at the Bethel church last Sunday night. The negroes say Mr. Blalock is a good talker and a very strong third partyite.

—Senator Ransom will speak at Shelby, Wednesday, Oct. 12th; Marion, Friday, Oct. 14th; Spruce Pine, Mitchell county, Saturday, October 15th; Burnsville, Monday, Oct 17th; Morganton, Tuesday, Oct. 25th.

—If the bridge across Breakneck were up, Sampson would be a part of Morganton. The improvement of White and Hickory streets is making a wounderful difference in the appearance of that pretty suburb.

—Captain B. G. Gadin, M. E., of the Vein Mountain Mining Company, has just completed a shaft 15 feet in diameter and 65 feet deep for supplying the Burke Tanning Company with water. An abundance of clear, cold water has been obtained, the flow being about 50,000 gallons per day.

—Our reporter failed to note in last week's issue that on the Saturday night previous Mr. C. F. McKesson had addressed a large meeting of the Silver Creek Cleveland and Carr Club at Glen Alpine. There are no more enthusiastic Democrats in the county than the Silver Creek boys.

—Lewis Taylor was in town Tuesday. He is more than six feet high, measures 51 inches around the waist, weighs 275 pounds, and can just squeeze into a number 48 coat. Ben Davis and Tom Hemphill fitted him up at the clothing store, but it was the biggest contract they have filled lately.

—Hon. S. F. Patterson, one of the Democratic candidates for the Senate in this district, one of the best men in the State, a true Allianceman and a true Democrat, joined Messrs. McKesson and Pearson at their Connelly Springs appointment yesterday and will speak with them at Warlick's Mills to-day.

—Messrs. C. F. McKesson, S. J. Ervin, I. T. Avery and J. T. Perkins spoke last week at Hall's store and Table Rock Academy in Upper Creek and at Berry's Mill in Linville township. They report that they have never seen the Democrats of Burke more enthusiastic and determined to win than they are this year.

—We are glad to know that the Dunavant Cotton Mills are paying so handsomely that plans are being perfected to enlarge the plant and add 2,000 additional spindles. This will give the mill over 5,000 spindles, and as the mill is operated day and night from one years end to the other, its output will be equal to that of a 10,000 spindle mill working eleven hours per day.

—Mr. Thomas Wakefield, for many years a merchant at Table Rock P. O., Burke county, has closed out his business at that place and moved to Maiden, N. C., Catawba county, at which place he will make his home. Mr. Wakefield has sold his property at Table Rock to Mr. G. A. Lovin, who will do a general merchandise business at Mr. Wakefield's old stand.

—Cards are out announcing that on Wednesday, Oct. 12th, Mr. Thomas Sumner McBee, of Asheville, and Miss Sudie Washington Avery, will be married at the residence of Associate Justice A. C. Avery, in Morganton. If reports are to be believed Mr. McBee is not the only young man who will rob Morganton of one of its fairest daughters during the month of October.

—Mr. Zeb Martin, one of the town's oldest and most honest and industrious citizens, and who had for many years conducted a blacksmith shop in East Monganton, died Thursday morning, Sept. 29th. Mr. Martin was stricken with paralysis on Sept. 21st and was unconscious from that time until his death. His remains were interred on Saturday, at Zion church, 4 miles east of Morganton. Funeral servce, conducted by Rev. J. P. Marion, pastor of the Presbyterion church in Morganton, was held at the residence of deceased before leaving with the corpse.

—Messrs. C. F. McKesson, S. J. Ervin and other Democratic speakers will address the citizens of Quaker Meadow township at Oak Grove on the night of Tuesday, Oct. 18th, of Lower Creek at Mt. Pleasant on the night of Wednesday, Oct 19th, and of Smoky Creek at Amherst Academy on the night of Thursday, Oct. 20th. There will be speaking at many points in the county, but there are many who cannot get out during the day and all can attend these night appointments. The local Democratic Committeemen of the various townships are requested to advertise these meetings and arrange for a place for the speaking.

—Mr. Swink, from northern Cleveland, who was in Morganton last Saturday says that revenue officers from Catawba county made a raid on the moonshiners in Burke and Cleveland near Ben's Knob last week, and cut up six stills for alleged violations of the internal revenue laws, after which they set fire to the still houses. He says that the fire spread from the still houses to the forests and that on last Saturday a big section of the South Mountain country was swept over by the flames and that the people were out in full force fighting the fire away from their houses and fences. He gave the names of young Tallent and a man named Prewett as among those whose still houses were burned. This extraordinary proceeding has caused great indignation among the citizens of the section referred to.

—The negroes held a big political meeting last Monday night and thoughtful friends furnished all the liquor that was necessary to arouse enthusiasm. About ten o'clock at night a big crowd of them marched up Union street to Mr. E. S. Walton's singing John Brown's Body, and serenaded Messrs. Linney and Furches, who were Mr. Walton's guest. One of them informed a HERALD reporter that Mr. Linney made them a beautiful speech, and that Col. T. George Walton began his address to them by saying that he was proud to call them "Fellow Citizens," and that he rejoiced to find that there was nothing in the report that they were thinking of forsaking the grand and glorious old Republican party. The colored troops, judging from the noise they made, thoroughly enjoyed themselves during their visit and we hope the speakers did too.

Johnson Bean Dead.

Mr. W. J. Bean, an honest and highly respectable citizen, who has lived in Morganton for many years, died last Sunday evening after a long illness. Mr. Bean was a member of the Methodist church and was one of the oldest members of Catawba Valley Lodge, A. F. and A. M. He was burried by the masons in the Methodist church yard on Tuesday morning, a long procession of the craft following his remains to the grave and burying him with the impressive masonic ritual. Rev. T. P. Bonner conducted the services in the church and Rev. J. M. Lumley, chaplain of Catawba Valley Lodge, led the ceremonies at the grave.

The First Radical War Whoop.

The first real Radical war-whoop was sounded in Burke on Tuesday when a crowd of 200 negroes and 150 whites, two-thirds of the latter Democrats, gathered in the Court House to hear Furches and Linney.

Furches led off, confining himself to State and leaving to Linney National politics.

He was greatly grieved that he could not pick his squires and essayed the role of mimic and funny man in ridiculing the State guard, at which the negroes fairly raised the roof.

His defence of the Legislature of 1868-69 was unique. Its most sulient point was that the father of Democratic candidate for Attorney General, the late Judge Osborne, was then a Senator from Mecklenburg and voted for some of the appropriation bills to railroads. "And who," he cried in a shriek, "will deny that he was a good man?"

The Republican candidate for Governor openly championed the force bill and charged the State Democracy with stealing the negro vote.

He made every Southern man hang his head in shame when he bemoaned the fact that except Craven and Pasquotank, the negro counties of Eastern Carolina returned white Democratic members to the Legislature.

He broke off into a little piece of exultation which was worth five dollars in gold a minute to the Democrats. It was when he assured the negroes that by voting solidly for him they would once more have a Governor, for, said he, the third party will poll 25000 votes and that wipes out Fowle's majority over Dockery, and the third party men, who are candidates, will see that the Republican vote is counted along with their own.

Furches is a fair fist in a crowd of second rate men. He would have been better remembered by those whose good word is worth having had he declined the empty honor of his present candidacy.

We beg to assure him that there is really no District Attorneyship on hand to pay him with this year, and that except what Carter and Eaves do for him in the way of hotel bills he is likely to be out of pocket as well as reputation.

As to Linney, all the western world knows Linney and regrets that he does not give himself time to learn his Democratic speech well before he begins to practice upon a ringing appeal to the Republicans, and that the jingle of his last satire upon the alliance becomes strangely mixed in he defence of the People's party Really one needs to take a daily paper to keep up with Rotating Romulus.

At Boone in the spring he wanted the Weaverites indicted under the Ku Klux act. He made unmerciful fun of little Billy Teague of Alexander and the next we heard of him he was an unsuccessful candidate for Attorney General in Teague's convention.

The man is capable of better thing. He grieves his real friends by debasing bright parts in the defence of things incapable of defence.

He is cranky on finance and uses twaddle that a school boy would be ashamed of in the discussion of that subject.

A Cure.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the issue of the 24th instant of that filthy sheet known as Our Country, the notorious gas-bag of an editor refers to an argument that he claims to have had with me, in which, he says, he was too hard for me.

The idea of that rattle-trap, tin horn, low, infamous, diabolical, vile, infernal yellow cur saying he had an argument with anyone is as absurd and preposterous as it is false. He only made an assertion and I told him that he was a liar and applied another very appropriate epithet that I shall not mention in this communication. He did not resent it but went away and writes at long taw like the coward and poltroon that he is. After saying to him what I did and finding that he would not do anything but blow, and being a well known scold and nuisance I asked the town marshal to abate the disturbance he was creating.

This is all that I shall ever say in reply to the party under consideration, as he is too small to pry into notice by a controversy with an honest man; and I should not have done so this time if it were not to defend the good people of Lenoir against the assertions and attacks of one "who occupies the chair of a slave and wields the pen of a hireling."

Very truly yours,
LAWRENCE WAKEFIELD.

RAILROADS SURRENDER.

Much Property Added to the Tax List—Weaver and Sister Lease—Chairman Simmons a Vigorous Worker—Political and Local Sensations at Raleigh.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE MORGANTON HERALD.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 4, '92.

The great event of the past week was the termination of a case which had within the past few years began to cause a great deal of trouble and which would have caused more in the future. Really there were two cases, one being that against the Raleigh & Gaston railway and the other that against the Seaboard & Roanoke railway, both being for taxes. The Federal court gave judgment against the latter for $67,500, being the sum due for taxes on 14,000 shares, at 20 cents a share, from 1866 to 1892. Against the former road there was no judgment, the State and Federal courts both having decided that its charter gave it absolute exemption from taxation. But, in the interests of peace and harmony the officers of both roads have come forward and made an agreement or compromise with Gov. Holt, the railway commission and the State treasurer whereby the Raleigh & Gaston surrenders for all time to come its exemption from taxation, and the Seaboard & Roanoke road makes the same kind of a surrender and also pays into the State treasury $7,500, being the tax for three years on the shares of stock above referred to. The State thus gains the tax on $1,500,000 of property owned by these roads, or about $15,000 a year. The only railway now holding out against taxation is the Wilmington & Weldon, which will no doubt have to "knock under" next year, as it will then have to ask the legislature for a new charter for a connection with Petersburg from Weldon. So the State has entire control of the situation.

The additions to the taxable property in the State have been large in the past two years. The railway commission is doing a great work in this respect. It has now placed before the Governor a statement which shows that $200,000 is the value of steamboats plying wholly or in part in North Carolina waters. In all these years not one cent of tax has ever been received from steamboats. The next legislature will remedy a defect in the railway commission act and give the commission the power to assess the valuation of steamboat property.

Weaver, the exponent of third party ideas and his satellite, the notorious Mrs. Lease, have come and gone, like a nightmare. Their progress through North Carolina was far from triumphal. They had not one-tenth the crowds of worshippers at their shrine which their workers, such as Otho Wilson, predicted and expected. Where 15,000 were expected at Raleigh, only 1,000 were present in the flesh. It was really like a nightmare, a bad dream, to see that rabble rout sweep along the street, while part of it, a mixed gang of negroes and whites, bore signs bearing such words as these, disgraceful words: "If Senator Vance will not do the will of the people let him resign." What an attempt at insult to a man who has all these years been the very personification of the will of the people! In South Carolina Senator Wade Hampton was also insulted. Is it any wonder that the right thinking people of the state so utterly hate the leaders of a movement which can thus attempt to reflect discredit on honored names and honored traditions?

There are plenty of signs which go to show that the third party plotters are ready to make a sale—to swap Weaver and their congressional nominees for Harrison and the republican nominees, provided the republicans vote for third party State, county and legislative officers. A month ago the third party alleged that it would poll 85,000 votes; now it gives 50,000 as the estimate. The truth is it has lost steadily. The democratic clubs number 80,000. The third party people are trying to make this number appear smaller by saying that enrolled in these clubs are many third party men. What traitors such men would be, for not even a republican would be a dissembling member of another party in such a fashion as that.

Chief Justice Merrimon is yet a very sick man, though his physicians speak as if the crisis of his disease may perhaps have past. He gains strength very slowly indeed. He has the ablest attention, Dr. DeCosta, a noted specialist in kidney troubles, having been here nearly a week, from Philadelphia.

State Treasurer Bain is also a very sick man, as he has been for many weeks. His condition is also somewhat more favorable.

Governor Holt has suffered a severe loss in the death of his brother, Mr. Alex. Holt, at Burlington, and has in consequence cancelled the engagements for campaign speeches made for the current week.

The democratic state committee is certainly conducting an earnest campaign and in a highly creditable way. The funds have not been ample and the gift of $1,500 by the business men and North Carolina salesmen of Baltimore is truly most opportune. From personal observation your correspondent is prepared to say that Chairman Simmons is working up to the high expectations of those who put him in his position. He knows what is ahead when he says, as he does, that the democratic majority will be 20,000 in the State.

Governor Holt has made some excellent appointments of delegates to represent North Carolina at the national road congress at Memphis next month. The movement for better roads in this State is painfully slow yet.

The plans for North Carolina's building at the World's Fair were received yesterday from the architects of Winston. It is about agreed that work on the foundation shall begin within the next thirty days. There is about $4,500 in hand of the $10,000 necessary to erect the building. Mrs. R. E. Cotten, who has worked so earnestly in the interest of this handsome building, expects to raise a good deal of money by means of the "Virginia Dare" society, which she is forming.

The great school map of the State is nearly finished, and it makes a good show. It has required over two months to make it. The four other State maps will be made during the winter. The observance by the public schools of "Columbus Day," Oct. 21st, promises to be quite general, the State Superintendent of public instruction informs me.

The colored people will have no State fair this year. The shareholders in the fair association say that the fault is with the officers, who have grossly mismanaged affairs, particularly in a financial way.

The white people's State fair will, so far as can now be judged, be the best on record. Interest in it is great and the great "Wild West" show, with its many Indians and cowboys, will of course be a good announced feature. The Raleigh centennial celebration which occurs during fair week, will be quite memorable. Another feature will be the laying of the corner-stone of the State Confederate monument, plans of which are now in hand.

A State reward of $200 has been offered for Alonzo West, a white man who in September killed Matt. Exum in Madison county.

The local sensation of the past few days was the arrest of a gray haired big-nosed William Lemon, who hails from New York. He has a middle-aged wife, "fair, fat and forty," but she not being to his taste he married a younger woman. The latter now bounces Mrs. Lemon No. 2 in the very freely proceedings which have resulted. Mrs. Lemon No. 1 sues Lemon for $1,500 of her money, and also has him indicted for bigamy. Meantime Mrs. Lemon No. 2 has been twice arrested, but thanks to the sympathy always given a young and pretty woman has twice made her escape. Wife No. 1 is a terribly determined woman.

The number of students at the State University is now 280. In the course of a few years there will be a great Southern University. Why may not Chapel Hill be the site for it? It is to something like this that president Winston is looking forward.

The moonshiners, who have been stirred up in a very lively fashion until about July 1, have had an easy time since, the revenue officials saying that they are just now too busy to look after them. All this comes in very conveniently just before an election.

It has been for some weeks Gov. Holt's purpose to go to Chicago this month and represent North Carolina at the dedicatory exercises of the World's Fair. Several staff officers will accompany him.
