HER NEIGHBORS.

They lingered at her father's door,
The moon was shining bright.
And to the maiden o'er and o'er
The youth had said, 'Good night."

But still, reluctant to depart,
Her tiny hand he pressed,
While all the love that filled his heart
His ardent looks confessed.

At length she closer to him crept,
Her eyes upon him bent,
And softly asked, "How have you kept
Thus far the fast of Lent?"

He smiled, and as a manly arm
Around her waist he threw,
He said, "I've done no neighbor harm—
Pray, tell me how have you?"

"Oh! better far, I'm sure," she said,
The charming little elf;
"I've loved (she blushed and bent her head)
My neighbor as myself."

"Who is your neighbor?" questioned he,
As to his breast he drew
The gentle maid, and, blushing, she
With one word answered, "You!"

DREAMED HE WAS A HERO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—A funny incident happened last night at the performance of "Wang," at the Broadway Theatre. A young man seized the shoulders of a girl sitting in front of him and shook her very harshly. The girl screamed and an usher came to her help. The young man seemed unconscious of his surroundings. Finally he pulled himself together sufficiently to say:

"I beg the lady's pardon. I did not know what I was doing. I dreamed I was saving a child from drowning, and that I was pulling it out of the water."

This apology was delivered with such a truthful accent that the shaken woman's escort felt obliged to believe it, and the intervention of an usher, who had drawn near, was not needed.

THE BORDEN MURDER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Dr. John H. Abbott, of Fall River, Mass., knew something about the condition of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Borden when found, but as he went West before any suspicion was directed toward Miss Lizzie, he expressed no opinion at the time. Now he says he saw the bodies and both were warm. There was not the slightest indication, he says, that one of the murdered persons had been dead over an hour before the other. It is his opinion that Mr. Borden was killed and Mrs. Borden was followed up stairs by the murderer and stricken down as she was running to the window to call for assistance.

A $25,000 CHERRY SEED.

Chicago Herald.

In a museum of curiosities at Salem, Mass., there is preserved a common cherry seed or stone, hollowed and fashioned like a basket Within the basket are twelve tiny silver spoons, the shape and finish of which cannot be distinguished with the naked eye. Dr. Peter Oliver, who lived in England during the early part of the eighteenth century, tells of seeing a carved cherry stone which would be a wonder even in this age of fine tools and fine workmanship. The stone was one from a common cherry and upon it were carved the heads of 194 popes, kings, queens, emperors, saints, etc.

The gentleman who brought this little wonder to England purchased it in Prussia, allowing the original owner £5000 for his treasure. Think of it; $25,000 for a cherry seed!

HOME HAS THE FIRST CLAIM.

The first thought of a wife or a mother should be her home; all things, no matter how important, are secondary to that. No matter how rampart may become certain public evils, let her see to it that she keeps the evil out of her home, and she performs her greatest duty to her God, her family and mankind.—New York Recorder.
