HOW MATTERS LOOK.

Matters at present look grand, gloomy and peculiar for the people of the South, and there is no correct conclusion as to what the future contains of evil to us. The Congress of the United States, into whose hands the result of the war has placed our destinies, have been organized on a platform decidedly antagonistic to the recognition of our rights in the Union. We were satisfied as soon as we read Schuyler Colfax's speech, that our representatives had no chance of admission to their seats, and the period, time and character of those remarks were peculiarly significant. Just before the assembling of Congress, in time that his words might be spread by the press and telegrams throughout the country, and be adopted as a cardinal principle of the Republican faith. They were so adopted, and but few of the Press and members of that party but lent to Mr. Colfax their earnest support. When Congress assembled Mr. McPherson, a man whose name was almost unknown to us, sprang from his seat, decided that the Union had not been restored and established by a mere clerkly dictation, that the gentlemen who were the representatives of a brave unfortunate, but now loyal people, were not entitled to their seats as representatives of those people.

Mr. Thad. Stevens, angry, no doubt, at the burning of his iron mills—the only house, by the way, that we can remember [illegible] destroying [illegible] his two M[illegible] [illegible] support [illegible] McPherson. He refused to place upon the record the names of those who represented the Southern States, although their credentials were in as proper a form as those from any other State. The mere dictum of the clerk became the law of the land, and the decision of an irresponsible person, backed by the Black Republicans, became, by its mere [illegible], the will of the country. The plan of the President to reconstruct the government was retarded, and our representatives being refused admission, with a proper spirit returned to their constituencies who had sent them there. They are home now the delegates of the people. They were sent in good faith and were willing to devote themselves to the pacification of the antagonistic elements that surrounded them.—They were met in no proper spirit and they returned.

The truth is, in the Halls of our National Legislature, sectionalism is rampant—only those who walk in the strict sect of the Pharisees are admissible within the solemn conclave. It is all wrong, all wrong.

Committees have been appointed, resolutions have been introduced; the sick Sumner in the Senate and the irate Stevens in the House are in their element. Their theories which in the time of Clay and Webster they dare not utter are the themes now upon which they hourly speak. The committee to whom was referred the question of deciding the status of those States lately embraced in the Confederate government are in session—what their action will be we think is a foregone conclusion.

They will decide in contrary to the President's proclamation, that the States lately in rebellion have forfeited all their rights as sovereign States of the Republic, and further, they will also decide that we cannot be admitted until the black have the right to vote.

Radicalism is triumphant, but how long will it be so. Is there not enough of the old love of kindness left in the bosom of our Northern friends to create a reaction in favor of our suffering people. We have suffered enough in mind, wealth and body, and our only desire now is to get back to the places we reached in 1861.

INAUGURATION OF GOVERNOR WORTH.

On Friday last, Governor Worth took the oath of office, in the presence of Gov. Holden and both houses of the Legislature. Judge Fowle administered the oath. The Governor will not enter upon the discharge of his duties until the termination of the Provisional Government. We see the Provisional Governor of Georgia has been making persistent efforts to be relieved and have the Governor elect installed into his duties. The latest accounts state that the effort has been successful, and that Governor Jenkins will be allowed to resume the authority in a few days. We hope it will be the same in North Carolina.

NORTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

Thursday, Dec. 14th, 1865.

Journal of previous day read, and the Senate proceeded to the transaction of business.

Mr A J Jones from the committee to whom was referred the subject of the Stay Law, asked that the committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject till the 1st Monday in February next.

Mr Harris of Rutherford, from the select committee to whom was referred back the scale of Confederate money, again reported the scale of depreciation, with a bill legalizing the same.

On motion of Mr Morehead, the bill was ordered to be printed.

Mr Bynum, from the committee to whom was referred the bill relative to the burning of Public Records, reported the same back to the Senate, and recommended that it do pass.

The bill incorporating Durham Academy in the County of Orange, passed its third reading.

Mr Warren, from the committee to whom was referred a resolution in favor of Guardians, reported the same back, and asked to be discharged from its further consideration.

On motion of Mr Bynum, the rules were suspended, and the bill relating to the burning of Public Records, was passed its several readings.

Mr W D Jones introduced a resolution in favor of Briggs and Dodd, which was referred to the committee on Claims.

The bill concerning Advancements and the bill revoking certain bills were passed their several readings.

[illegible] from the [illegible] ing the time for registering [illegible], with an amendment extending the time to three, instead of two, years which was concurred in.

Mr Howard, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported back the bill relative to clerks and sheriffs recently elected, with amendments, and recommended that it pass. The rules were suspended, and the bill passed its several readings.

Message received from the House insisting upon their amendment to the Senate bill abolishing the office of Auditor of Public Accounts, and asking for a committee of conference. Request concurred in and Messrs Faison, Garner and Gorrell appointed on the part of the Senate.

The bill incorporating Eno Lodge was read first time.

The bill for the relief of holders of State bonds issued in 1861, be canceled, and new bonds be issued therefor. The bonds in question were issued by authority of an act passed previous to the war, and one for the benefit of the Wilmington road.

The committee on the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Institution made a report, with resolution, requesting a resumption of business by the Directors of said institution in January next.

Mr Wilson from the committee to inquire what laws are in force, asked that the further consideration thereof be postponed to 1st February next.

The hour of twelve o'clock having arrived, the Speaker announced the special order the report of the Committee on Federal Relations.

The report of the committee being read, Mr Bynum offered the following amendment:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, That the amendments to the constitution of the United States, adopted and ratified by the General Assembly at its present session in the following words, viz:

Sec. 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

Sec. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

[Amendment,] Has been adopted and ratified, in the sense given to it by the Hon Wm H Seward, Secretary of State of the United States, viz: That it does not enlarge the powers of Congress to legislate on the subject of freedmen within the States.

Mr Warren opposed the adoption of the resolution as useless, and calculated to do no good, but he was of opinion that it would be productive of much harm.

Mr McLean addressed the Senate at length in defence of the resolution. Pending the debate, a message was received from the House proposing to vote at 1 o'clock for a Comptroller of State. Concurred in, and the further consideration of the above subject was suspended.

The Senate then proceeded to vote for Comptroller.

Mr A C Cowles, Mr W F Collins and Mr C H Brogden being in nomination. Mr Cowles received 21 votes, Mr Collins 12 and Mr Brogden 12.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of the resolution on Federal Relations, when,

On motion of Mr Morehead, the resolution was laid on the table, and made the order of the day for tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

A message was received from the House of Commons transmitting a Programme for the ceremony of administering the oath of office, to-morrow, Friday at 12 o'clock, which was concurred in by the Senate.

A message was received from the House proposing to go into an election for comptroller, which was concurred in, and the Senate voted as follows:

The following voted for Mr Cowles viz:

Messrs Speaker, Arendell, Blount, Bogle, Boner, Boyd, Bynum, Coward, Donaho, Garner, Gash, Gorrell, Harris of Rutherford, Isbel, Jones of Columbus, Keener, Leach of Davidson, Morehead, Morgan, Shober, Snead, Warren and Williams—23.

The following voted for Mr Brogden, viz:

Messrs Aycock, Black, Cowper, Eure, Faison, Ferebee, Hall, Harris of Franklin, Howard, Latham, McCleese, McEachern, McLean, Stanford, Whitford, Wilson and Winstead—17.

The following voted for Mr Collins, viz:

Messrs Bullock, Covington, Leitch of Robeson, Pitchford and Wiggins—5.

The bill to prevent horse stealing, was read a second time, and elicited a running debate of an hour's duration, in which Messrs Morehead Warren Howard, Leach and Gash participated. The debate arising on a proposition to modify the penalty.

A motion to lay the bill on the table was made, and did not prevail.

Mr Howard then moved to refer to the committee on the Judiciary, which motion did not prevail.

The amendment was then rejected. Mr Warren then moved to lay the bill on the table, and the yeas and nays being called, was decided, yeas 15 nays 27.

Mr Howard then moved to amend by making the [illegible] second offence; and on this motion, Mr Morehead called for the yeas and nays which resulted, yeas 33 nays 12. Then on motion of Mr Morehead the bill was tabled.

Senate adjourned till to-morrow at 10½ o'clock.

SHIPS AT SEA.

BY BARRY GRAY.

I have ships that went to sea,
More than fifty years ago;
None have yet come home to me,
But are sailing to and fro.
I have seen them in my sleep,
Plunging through the shoreless deep,
With tatter'd sails and battered hulls,
While around them screamed the gulls,
Flying low, flying low.

I have wondered why they stayed
From me, sailing round the world;
And I've said, "I'm half afraid
That their sails will never be furled."
Great the treasures that they hold,
Silks, and plumes and bars of gold;
While the spices that they bear,
Fill with fragrance all the air,
As they sail, as they sail.

Ah! each sailor in the port
Knows that I have ships at sea,
Of the waves and winds the sport,
And the sailors pity me.
Oft they come and with me walk,
Cheering me with hopeful talk,
Till I put my fears aside,
And, contented, watch the tide
Rise and fall, rise and fall.

I have waited on the piers,
Gazing for them down the bay,
Days and nights for many years,
Till I turned heart-sick away,
But the pilots, when they land,
Stop and take me by the hand,
Saying, "You will live to see
Your proud vessels come from sea,
One and all, one and all."

So I never quite despair,
Nor let hope or courage fall;
And some day, when skies are fair,
Up the bay my ships will sail.
I shall buy then all I need—
Prints to look at, books to read,
Horses, wines, and works of art—
Everything except a heart,
That is lost, that is lost.

Once when I was pure and young,
Richer, too, than I am now,
Ere a cloud was o'er me flung,
Or a wrinkle creased my brow,
There was one whose heart was mine;
But she's something now divine,
And though come my ships from sea,
They can bring no heart to me
Evermore, evermore!
