—Messrs Staton and Gurganus are cleaning peanuts in the Roanoke Warehouse. Separators have been arranged and imperfectly cleaned stock is being put in good condition.

—Some colored boys with matches accidently set two bales of cotton on fire on the platform at the depot Sunday. The alarm was given and the fire was extinguished with slight damage. The bales belonged to J. G. Staton.

—FOR SALE.—Four broad mares. Two in foal by Robersonville Jack and two by Farmer Gentry. These are nice mares and can be bought cheap. Also six nice colts for sale cheap.—John D. Biggs, Williamston, N. C.

—The second meeting of the Shakespear Club of the new year was held with Miss Irene Smith on Wednesday evening. A most enjoyable hour was spent in the study of the first act of Hamlet, considered by some to be the master piece of the famous poet.

—All farmers wishing extra and carefully selected tobacco seed can get same free by callig at Anderson, Crawford & Co., Harrison Pros & Co., or J. L. Hassell & Company. Plant tobacco, it will sell well and pay you better than any crop you can raise. I have been talking to some tobacconists who know and I am in a position to know that tobacco—good tobacco will be high. I will run the Roanoke next season. Wishing my former friends—Merry and Prosperous New Year, I am your friend, Tom S. Graham.
