CORNER STONE OF COMMERCE.

Fire insurance has long been called the "handmaid of commerce" but recently President T. A. Smith of the National Board of Fire Underwriters rang a new change on the phrase by making it the "cornerstone of commerce."

The public usually thinks of fire insurance as protection against loss of physical property by fire. The part played by insurance through the investment of its reserves and cash assets in other business and industries is not frequently mentioned.

Secretary Louis T. Moore of the Wilmington, North Carolina, Chamber of Commerce called attention to the investment side of insurance when writing a letter of appreciation to the Carolina Insurance Company which submitted the most favorable of 18 bids received for $100.000 in City of Wilmington bonds.

There is no difference between insurance assets helping to upbuild a great industry and helping to build a greater city. In both cases, assets that stand behind the protection to business or the community are used to enlarge productive enterprise.

Thus does insurance become the "cornerstone of commerce" referred to by President Smith. Without insurance, today, the basis of commercial credit would be practically wiped out. Anything which interferes with sound insurance policies, automatically weakens our credit structure.

Carfare.

For hours they had been together on her front porch. The moon cast its tender gleam down on the young and handsome couple who sat strangely far apart. He sighed. She sighed. Finally:

"I wish I had money, dear," he said. "I'd travel."

Impulsively, she slipped her hand into his; then, rising swiftly, she sped into the house.

Aghast, he looked at his hand. In his palm lay a nickel.

Of Course!

"Hey!" yelled the policeman, "you can't park there!"

"Why can't I?" exclaimed the bewildered motorist. "The sign there says 'Fine for Parking'."

Methodist Matters

By REV. W. M. SMITH

Bishop Collins Denny and Mrs. Denny are expected this week to be guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter for several days. The Bishop was here last year and preached several times in the Methodist church. Franklin is again honored in having such a distinguished preacher in her midst. He will very likely preach in the Methodist church next Sunday at 11 o'clock.

The Macon County Methodist Sunday School Conference will meet Saturday at Iotla Methodist church. All Sunday school officers and teachers in the county are urged to attend. The conference will open at 10 A. M. Dinner will be served on the ground. Among the subjects to be discussed are:

"History of Methodism in Macon County," by T. J. Johnston.

"The Home, the School, and the Church" by Paul E. Evans.

"The Child in Our Midst" by Miss Virginia Jenkins.

"Leadership Training" by O. V. Woosley.

"What Are We Going To Do About It?" by S. L. Rogers.

In the afternoon group meetings will be held. Woosley, Evans and Miss Jenkins will be in charge of these meetings.

The Waynesville district conference meets at Murphy next week. The first session will be held Tuesday night. The conference will probably close Wednesday night. Those from Franklin station who are expected to attend are: S. L. Rogers, T. J. Johnston, J. A. Porter, J. S. Conley, R. L. Porter, Alvah Pearce, J. W. Street and W. M. Smith.

Our special meeting begins July 20. Dr. Gilbert T. Rowe will do the preaching. Rev. E. P. Billups will lead the singing.

There will be preaching at Carson's Chapel next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.
