John Wanamaker, Merchant Prince, Died Yesterday At Home In Philadelphia

FORMER POSTMASTER GENERAL HAD LONG CAREER IN FINANCE

Great Philanthropist; Says In Substance Believed in Honest First, Last, Always

WAS INSURED FOR MORE THAN $3,000,000

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12.—John Wanamaker died at his home here at 8 a. m.

The world famous merchant and former Postmaster General passed away at his home town, 2025 Walnut street. He had been confined there since early in November with a heavy cold contracted at his country estate, 'Lynden Farm," at Jenkintown near here. He was 84 years old.

Mr. Wanamaker was active in his business affairs up to the time he was stricken. He spent much of last winter in Florida, and was in this city all summer hard at work with the exception of occasional surcease from the duties of his office for a day or two at the sea shore. He was always an early riser, and was usually in his mercantile establishment before its doors were open.

Mr. Wanamaker is survived by his son Rodman, a resident of New York and two daughters. May B. wife of Barclay H. Warburton, and Elizabeth, wife of Norman McLeod, both of Philadelphia.

After Mr. Wanamaker was brought to his town home he did not improve and about two weeks ago his condition became such as to cause anxiety. A week ago, however, Mr. Wanamaker showed marked improvement and his physician issued cheering bulletins. At 5 o'clock this morning he was seized with a violent coughing spell his physicians stated, which resulted in extreme heart weakness. Major Barclay H. Warburton, Mr. Wanamaker's son in law, notified The Associated Press that Mr. Wanamaker died peacfully at 8 a. m.

Mr. Wanamaker became unconscious at midnight. When his condition became grave during the night all the members of the family were summoned and all were present with the exception of Rodman Wanamaker who arrived too late.

The Wanamakers store here and the one in New York will be closed in notice regarding such closure that the stores would remain closed until further notice. The funeral day will be announced later.

The death of Mr. Wanamaker, who spent his life in Philadelphia and was always one of its leading citizens in civic movements, was received with sorrow by all classes of citizens.

Mr. Wanamakers life was insured for more than $3,000,000 and he was one of the leaders among heavily insured men in the country.

Mr. Wanamaker established the Presbyterian Hospital of Philadelphia and the First Penny Savings Bank. He also assisted in creating the many Young Men's Christian Association buildings in various cities and contributed toward colleges missionary institutions in India China and Japan. At the outbreak of the war he was one of the first to assist in the relief of the stricken Belgians, supplying two shiploads of food for the invaded country.

Early in his career Mr. Wanamaker married Miss Mary B. Brown, a sister of his original partner, who cooperated with him in much of his philanthropic work. He died in August, 1920.

A great tribute of in mercantile career was conferred upon him in 1921 to commemorate the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of his business. In a ceremony at Independance Hall Philadelphia, he was presented with the freedom of the city, and later was the guest of honor at a luncheon attended by prominent men from all parts of the country. Among the tributes of the day were a gift an de message from the Empress and Emperor of Japan.

Mr. Wanamaker governed his life by many maxims. "Every undertaking," he once said, "is made up of the sum of past endeavors plus ambition and the new visions."

"Business must rest upon the uncrumbling foundation of confidence in one another."

"Keep up the old standards, and day by day raise them higher."

As to his own life he once said: "Thinking trying, toiling and trusting, is all of my biography."

TESTIFY THAT CAPTAIN COLEMAN SOLD WHISKEY

RALEIGH, Dec. 12.—Arthur Coleman, captain and owner, and Claud Graham, super cargo of the British schooner Message of Peace, seized in Ocracoke Inlet a year ago, were put on trial in the U. S. District court here today. J. H. North, Boston sportsman, testified that after the ship had been seized by Captain Yeoman of the Coast Guard, he went aboard and bought whiskey, and that the whiskey was brought out of the hold of the vessel by Captain Coleman while Captain Yeoman held a lantern. N. F. Greeleys testimony was almost identical.

COLLECTING FOR OTEEN HOSPITAL

Wayne Philathea Say Collections Successful—To Be The Biggest of Annual Events

Officers of the Wayne county Philatheas classes have stated that collections for the Fift annual Christmas Flower day for nurses and disabled soldiers of Oteen hospital is progressing nicely. Word comes down from Asheville that this is to be the biggest of all the annual flower days.

The following is a story from the Asheville Citizen:

ASHEVILLE, Dec. 12—Christmas boxes and funds for the provision of potted plants for the Fifth annual Christmas Flower Day at the World War Veterans Hospital at Oteen, are already beginning to arrive at the State Baracs Philathea offices at 30 Ravenscroft Road.

Large numbers of potted plants and additional cut flowers will be given this year, as a special treat from the organized Baracs Philathea Sunday School classes of North Carolina and their friends.

Arrangement have been completed by Mrs. M. Buckner, general secretary with Colonel James E. Miller, commanding officer of Oteen, for distribution of these flowers on Friday afternoon December 22. These plants will be distributed by Baracas and Philatheas of Asheville, and the cub women and Red Cross workers Oteen have been invited to assist. In addition to the flowers the usual Christmas treat of a general Christmas box will be given to each one of the soldiers at Oteen in addition to this the Baracas and Philatheas of the State will give the nurses and others on duty Christmas boxes.

As a pre Christmas entertainment for the officers their wives and other members of the personnel at the World War Hospital at Oteen, Fred A. Seely, of Grove Park, has invited them to be his guests at an organ recital, to be given Sunday evening December 17.

The request was made through the State Baracs Philathea office, Mrs. M. Buckner, general secretary who carried the invitation to Colonel Miller, who will notify the personnel and arrange for transportation between the post and the hall.

Colonel Miller expressed appreciation for this courtesy, adding that such a musical treat would be a great delight to them.

GERMAN WIRELESS RECOVERED FROM WAR

NAUEN, GERMANY, Dec. 12.—Nearly 12,000,000 words flashed through the air between German wireless stations and foreign countries during 1921. A total of 618,369 messages were handled, compared with 136,200 in 1919 and 315,500 in 1920. The word counts in these two preceding years were 4,826,800 and 7,750,500, respectively, as against 11,972,600 last year.

Of the 1921 traffic, 5,195,396 words were exchanged with United States stations in 315,665 radiograms. Spain ranked next in volume of communication with 90,128 messages of 2,609,107 words, and Italy was third with 83,049 of 1,512,182.

Germany's oldest important station is located here. Its traffic increased from 97,300 words in 1914 to 4,858,700 in 1918. During the three intervening war years, a total of 5,132,200 words was transmitted and received at Nauen. A sister tower at Elvanesen, near Hanover, it is revealed, handled about 8,000 words daily in connection with Tuckerton, New Jersey, during the latter part of the war.

CANNOT SAY WHO WAS SLAYER OF MRS RICHARDSON

Witnesses Testify Saw Shuffling and Heard Shot—Pollard Charged With Murder

NOT SHOT WITH POLLARD'S PISTOL

RICHMOND, Dec. 12.—With the formal arraignment in police court today of Thomas Pollard, real estate man, on a charge of murder in connection with the killing at his home last night of Mrs. Thelma Richardson, his stenographer, the police hope to establish a motive forthe killing and clear up certain phases of the case, which failed to be solved during the investigation which lasted throughout the night.

Early today detectives working on the case said that they had virtually established that the girl was killed with a pistol which she carried with her on the trip to the Pollard house and that the shooting followed abrief struggle in front of the house. Mrs. Richardson had gone to the Pollard home, the officers asserted with J. Mosby West, presumably for "an understanding" with Pollard. After a few minutes conversation, the authorities said, Pollard and the girl engaged in a struggle. A shot followed and the woman crumpled to the lawn with abullet in her heart.

Detectives investigating the case said tonight they have information which indicates an infatuation on the part of of the girl for her employer. They said they expect this alleged infatuation to furnish the motive for the killing.

Mrs. Richardson, had been employed by Pollard about two weeks. She was divorced about three years ago from her husband, Herbert E. Richardson who lives within a few blocks of the Pollard residence.

The Richardsons formerly lived in Atlanta. Pollard has been separated from his wife about a month the womens father said.

Pollard refused to discuss the case. He was placed under $10,000 bail for his appearance today.

Were also declined to make a statement or to answer questions concerning the shooting aside from the sworn statement which the police said he had made to them when taken to headquarters. This statement, while not made public said by officers to contain nothing that would throw any light on the case "West did not go into details about the shooting," said Lieutenant Bryant, who has charge of the investigation, which was released on $500 bond.

Witnesses who saw the killing of Mrs. Richardson would tell little of the affair. They said they saw a struggle and then a shot but they could not say who fired the shot.

Pollard was arrested in his home by officers who were sent to investigate a report that a man had shot himself in that vicinity. A search of the house, it was said, revealed that Pollards pistol was not the weapon which caused Mrs. Richardson's death. The officers found his pistol in a room on the second floor of the home and they said it had not been fired recently.

RUPERT BUYING YANKEES AND EDDIE COLLINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Colonel Jacob Rupert formally announced that he expected within a week to acquire the ownership of the New York American League club by purchase from Col. T. L. Houston. The consideration was reported to be $1,500,000.

This was followed by the announcement that the owners had closed a deal with the White Sox to trade Aaron Ward, Bob Meusel and a pitcher for the veteran second sacker, Eddie Collins and Dick Kerr, little southpaw pitcher.

LACY INTERVIEWED JOHN WANAMAKER ON YACTH IN FLORIDA

Attributed Success To Truth in Business — Didn't Sing Things Didn't Write

HAD REMARKABLE MEMORY FOR FACES

In speaking of John Wanamaker, whose death is a distinct loss, T. H. Lacy of The Goldsboro News advertising staff said:

"I met Mr. Wanamaker at Daytona, Fla., in the spring of 1918. He was on his private yacht which was tied to the dock of the Halifax Yacht Club. Mr. Wanamaker told me that he invariably wrote the matter signed by him appearing in his daily ads; that he adhered strictly to truth in advertising and never under any circumstances misrepresented the quality on price of any article. He declared that he would not permit an employee to mislead a customer in making a sale and attributed his financial success to this fact. At the conclusion of our talk I sold him a page ad boosting Liberty Bonds which was inserted in the Daytona Daily News. It was an ad I had prepared myself and when I asked Mr. Wanamaker to sign it, he read it carefully, asked who wrote it, and as he affixed his signature he remarked: 'This is the first article that I have signed for years that I didn't write myself, but I can subscribe to the patriotic sentiments contained therein.' He then called his private secretary and had him make me out a check for $48.00 to pay for the ad. He left that afternoon by train for Philadelphia. That summer I was in Philadelphia and called on Mr. Wanamaker. He gave me an immediate audience and remembered perfectly having met me on his yacht in Florida."

NEWSPAPER MAN WHO WON'T TALK TO PRESS

French Statesman-Journalist Knows People's Secrets and is Feared; Clemenceau Satellite

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Practically a new man in parliamentary life, though one is better known to the politicians, is Deputy Georges Mandel, the man upon whom the political spotlight in Paris has shown conspicuously during the past week through his refusal to write a report adverse to ratification of Washington naval agreement.

Heretofore Mandel has shown largely by the reflected light of Clemenceau with whom he long had been associated. In the present chamber, however, he has been a "feature." His appearances on the speakers stand are usually the signals for an hour or so of tumultous debate, because he follows no parliamentary traditions, attacking his opponents without gloves, calling a spade a spade and wading into all kinds of difficulties without the slightest hesitation.

Many are annoyed by what Mandel says. Many others are worried as to what he might say, for no man in public life possesses so many secrets concerning other public men. He has a large collection of files of data about every Frenchman who has held public office or aspired to it for years back.

This was one of the respects in which Mandel was most valuable to Clemenceau. Whenever any one sought a favor the "Tiger" was in the habit of sending for Mandel and saying: "What have you got on that man?"

Although he got his start in politics as a journalist Mandel is averse to all newspaper publicity. He is satisfied with the JOURNAL OFFICIEL which publishes his speeches in full, with all the interruptions. He refuses to talk to the press but those closest to him say the principal reason for his resignation from the task of preparing the report of the foreign relations committee on the ratification of the Washington accords was the fear that either procrastination by the committee or an adverse report would react against Clemenceau in his present tour of the United States.

Simmons Offers Soldiers' Bonus Again, Belittling The Shipping Bonus

WASHINGTON Dec. 12.—In arguing against the administration extending government aid to shipper, Senator Simmons of North Carolina again offered the Soldiers Bonus bill, declaring that he wanted to see if the country would vote a bonus to shippers efore helping the former service men. He declared the Lenroot Adderson measure a "Little Pop Gun Bill."

"This is no time for pop gun legislation," continued the senator, picturing the plight of the farmer. This is a condition that should be met by adequate legislation, and if it is to bring on merely a temporaryt relief, I serve notice I shall oppose it."

"PEERLESS LEADER" COMES BACK TO MANAGE RED SOX

Famous Cub of Generation and Half Ago Signs To Manage Boston Americans

ONE OF GREATEST IN BASEBALL HISTORY

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Frank Leroy Chance former manager of the Chicago Nationals and the New York Americans, today signed a contract to manage the Boston American League club for 1923.

Official announcement of the consummation of the deal was made by H. H. Frazee president of the Red Sox from his New York office. Both Frazee and Chance refused to reveal details of the terms involved. President Frazee however, stated that Chance's salary would compare favorably with those of the highest paid managers in baseball.

To Boston owner also said that the engagement of Chance marked the first step in the reconstruction of the Red Sox. Every effort will be made to strengthen the team by trade and purchase in order to make it a factor in future pennant races. Chance will have full authority and controll in rebuilding the club and may appear in playing uniform on the coaching lines. He will not however, engage in actual play.

The signing of Chance by the Red Sox brings back to the game one of the most popular and dynamic personalities the game has ever known.

Chance developed the famous Cub machine which dominated the national league from 1906 to 1910 with but two exceptions. To baseball he became known as the "Peerless Leader," later when he went to New York to manage the ill starred Yankees his baseball fame wanned somewhat, but still they called him the "Peerless Leader."

BAPTIST OPEN WITH RECORD ATTENDANCE

Dr. Wall Addresses The Convention And Spillman Gives Notice of Resignation

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Dec. 12.—Promptly at the hour for the opening of the North Carolina Baptist State convention, President R. W. Spillman called the representatives to order and announced the opening of the sixty-second annual session. He requested Mr. E. L. Olive to conduct a song. Joseph A. Ganes, of Charlotte, leading in devotional.

There are about 500 delegates in attendance, with others expected late this afternoon and tonight.

The evangelist conference which began Monday afternoon was continued last night and this morning(the speakers being Reverends Zeno Wall, J. A. McIver, A. P. Bagby, H. T. Stevens, W. H. Fitzgerald, C. T. Tunstall and J. R. Jester.

The committee on enrollment reported 498 representatives in attendance, the largest the convention has ever had. Comparatively few women were in attendance. Dr. Spillman gave notice to the convention that he would request that a successor to himself be appointed, declaring that his health did not warrant his continuing the work.

PRINTER COMES BACK HOME AFTER WANDERING 24 YEARS—DOESNT KNOW KINSTON

KNSTON, N. C., Dec.12—Ed. Cartwright, actor and printer, came back here Saturday after 24 years seeking to recuperate from ill health. He didnt know the town when he landed in it afte a 1,300- mile journey from the middle states. He just knew that it was a good place for an ill person to get well in. He left an Indiana town to come here. Cortwright recalled the birth of the Daily Free Press, which was the child of Josephus Daniels' maiden newspape venture. The paper was being printed twice a week, and the Spanish-American Warbr ought the daily into being. Cartwright didn't recall many persons, but he wanted information and he sought it from "Lam" Mewborne, his old foreman. He found Mr. Mewborne to be a banker and president of the Chamber of Commerce.

GIRL'S MISCHIEVOUS LETTERS BREAKS UP A TOWN OF 16,000

Rivalry of Young Women in Love Affairs Starts Deluge of Anonymous Letters

THEN, TWO YEARS OF TROUBLE FOLLOW

PARIS, Dec. 12.—How the whole town of Tulle was set by the ears through anonymous letters will be investigated in the case of Mlle Laval, just brought to trial on a charge of having written the mischevious missives. The rivalry of two young women in a love affair is supposed to have started the trouble. The anonymous letters exposed the weak points in the lives of only a limited number of interested individuals at the start but the underground work soon took on a wider scope.

After setting individuals against one another it embroiled families. Then it set whole neighborhoods in a turmoil.

Mlle. Laval protests her innocence. The handwriting experts are divided in opinion. One expert declares she wrote the letters. Another says there is no proof that she did. Among the general public there is a widespread notion that whoever started this poison pen movement was not alone in it and that after the example was set everyone who had a grudge to work off seized the opportunity unt lithe whole town was thus engaged in paying up old scores.

How many grudges a small town like Tulle, with 16,000 inhabitants can store up is indicated by the fact that it looked nearly two years to work them out thru the anonymous letters.

CUBA'S MODERN JESSE JAMES MAKES SENSATIONAL ESCAPE

HAVANA, Dec. 12.—With sentences totalling 200 years in prison hanging over his head and 250 armed and vigilant guards at his heels Ramon Arroyito, Cuba's modern Jesse James, is still at large. His latest feat of escaping from the jail at Matanzas through a hole blown in the thick walls at mid day has again made him a popular hero and added to the difficulties of the authorities, for they claim nobody will help them track his trail.

Arroyito, back in the high road three years ago and, if the holdups, kidnappings and other unlawful acts attributed to him are true, has operated in every part of the island before he went into outlawry, after a career of world character and with a fortune variously estimated at from $50,000 to $200,000. But last spring, while very prosaically traveling from Matanzas to a nearby village in search of a cook, he was arrested by two rural guards and a deputy sheriff who held him first for carrying arms without license, but loaded him with chains when they discovered he was a notorious outlaw.

Brought to Havana, Arroyito was greeted y thousands at the railway station and his trip to the city jail resembled a triumphal procession. While being tried and convicted on numerous counts he protected his plans for breaking loose from jail and only the accidental presence of a mounted policeman on the harbor side of the jail prevented a clean gateway three months ago.

His escape from the Matanzas jail, where he was lodged last week to await trial for kidnapping, is credited to a former pal, Julio Ramirez, who himself quite once escaped from jail at Sagua by holding up the warden and turnkeys single handed in broad daylight.

GREEN COUNTY SCHOOLS FORM COUNTY ORGANIZATION TO STOP "INTOLIRABLE CONDITIONS"

Kinston, N. C., vhdlyshrdqrhdhdydl

KINSTON, N. C., Dec. 12.—Greene County school committeemen have organized a county association. L. A. Mewborn is heading the organization, with H. B. Hill as secretary. The executives committee is comprised by one committeeman from each district in the county. These will look after the interests of their respective schools of the association. "Certain intolerable conditions now exist," according to the association's members, and this prompted the organization. Joint sessions with the county school board may be held.

Officials are said to have been criticized by committeemen in the organization gathering at Snow Hill. Reports affecting the condition of the county educational system will be demanded.

HAVANA DOG SHOW DEVELOPS A NEW BREED

HAVANA, CUBA, Dec. 12.—"A probable result of the first Havana Dog Show," says the Havana Telegram, "will be the classification of the Cuban hound among recognized breeds. This type, which is the outcome of hundreds of yearse of mixed breeding, is general throughout the country districts. It is a huge animal weighing about 120 pounds, of a yellow to brown color, with the ears of a bird dog and the muzzle of a mastiff. Its hair is short and smooth and its tail long and wiggly."

GOLDSBORO NOW AFTER JUNIOR BAPTIST COLLEGE

TALK OF NEW BERN CAME AS A SHOCK

The announcement in the News and Observer that New Bern was about to get the new Baptist State Junior college the convention at Winston Salem is planning to establish, came as a distinct shock to the Baptist and business men of Goldsboro who are familiar with the conditions in the two cities, and the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce immediately wired Dr. Zeno Wall and the chairman of the Executive committee at Winston Salem, requesting them to give Goldsboro an opportunity to make a bid before deciding of a definite location.

Local Baptist an dbusiness men believe that the fact that there is but two railroads to New Bern, and that practically every student going to New Bern would have to come through Goldsboro is one that the convention should consider deeply aside from the fact that New Bern is also wrapped up in financial strings of her own and calling from the state at large for assistance; and consequently doesn't seem in position to offer financial support enough to pay institution of any kind.

The telegram W. C. Dowtin sent follows:

Ninety second annual meeting in session at Winston Salem.

"Chairman Executive committee State Baptist convention Winston Salem.

"We sincerely request you to give Goldsboro an opportunity to make bids for State Junior College before you reach your decision.

"Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce.

W. C. DOWTIN, Sec."

Rev. Zeno Wall,

"State Baptist Convention, Winston Salem, N. C.

"Have wired Chairman Executive committee State Baptist convention requesting that Goldsboro be given opportunity to make bids before final decision will be reached. Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce will be represented at your session if desired.

W. C. DOWTIN, Sec."

CAMBRIDGE, Dec. 12.—[illegible] record set by the star R2 Cygnii, which according to a bulletin issued by the Harvard college Observatory, has been found by Harvard astronomers to be moving through space with a greater velocity than that of any other star whose speed has yet been determined.

This star a variable star of the so called cluster type, has long been known to astronomers, but its velocity was never measured until recently. It is far too faint to be seen with the naked eye, during most of the year. It is in the constellation Cygnus and is twelve times [illegible] earth, which makes it [illegible] its velocity as it flies through space is the greatest yet known for a star.
