CASUALTIES ON AMERICAN RAILROADS.

The newspaper reports give an almost daily record of some horrible railroad accident, where numbers of people are either killed or wounded, or miserably injured. In the minor casualties, where a railroad employe, or some passenger is injured, there is a constant list to report, so much so that the average reader pays little attention to such items.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued a statistical statement of the railroads of this country, and in this statement give some interesting figures showing the number of accidents and how safe or dangerous it is for employe and passenger.

The statement of accidents is divided into two general classes, accidents resulting from movement of trains, and of accidents arising from causes other than those which result from the movement of trains. These classes include all the casualties contained in the carriers annual reports, whether sustained by passengers, employees, trespassers, or other persons. The total number of casualties, for the year ending June 30th, 1903 was 80,393, of which 9,840 represented the number of persons killed and 70,553 the number injured.

One hundred and seventy-six passengers were killed and 4,534 injured because of collisions and derailments. The total number of casualties to persons other than employees and passengers killed was 5,879, injured 7,841. Those figures include the casualties to persons classed as trespassers, of whom 5,000 were killed and 5,079 injured. 4,534 per sons were killed from being struck by trains and 7,841 were injured. The ratio of casualties indicate that 1 employee in every 364 was killed, and 1 employe in every 23 injured.

One passenger was killed for every 1,007,413 carried, and one injured for every 65,494 carried, with the respect to the number of miles traveled, however, the figures show that 2,541,096 passenger miles were accomplished for each passenger killed and 33,917,643 passenger miles for each passenger injured.

These figures indicate how much needed improvement and care is demanded upon the part of the railroads. This report is for the year of June 30th, 1903, but judging from all news reports the casualty list is not growing any smaller. At this season of the year, there seems to be usual horrible number of fatal and disastrous railroad wrecks, in which the death list and those wounded amount to terrible losses.

Railroad casualties mean not merely loss to life and limb, and the destruction of property, but there is the after settlement, in which compensation is demanded through the courts for money compensation for those killed or injured. It is a problem with the railroads to provide rapid and safe transit, and at the same time preserve property and life.

Burrus & Co's Cotton Letter.

New Bern July 15th.

The cotton market opened slightly higher this morning, but immediately sold off on the heavy realizing by yester days buyers, and aggressive bear operations, realizing was mostly in the near by options, and while offerings were well taken by the market, yet prices reached some what under last night's closing. The trading was of a general character and wholly professional. Traders who usually operate for Phila, spot houses were moderate buyers of Dec and January. The weather map was regarded as more favorable than that of yesterday and this had some influence in the late positions. Sentiment around the room was bearish on the theory that a decline would be natural after the recent gains. The good demand for spot which was reported to have existed a day or two previous, seemed to have fallen off completely today. It is very evident that spinners have entirely withdrawn from the market as buyers at the present high prices, and will not re-enter the market until prices have had a good reaction. In our opinion the price of cotton is high when the new crop deliveries get in the neighborhood of 10 cents and as long as conditions remain as they are, cotton can safely be sold on all rallies.

A CONTINUAL STRAIN.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health-destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. F. S. Duffy.

ANIMAL TALES.

A three pound bullfrog was recently caught at Onota lake, Pittsfield, Mass.

A cow owned by Charles Corruth of Shaftsbury, Vt., got stuck in a marsh recently and had sunk nearly out of sight when discovered. Horses were used to draw the animal from its dangerous position.

Four hundred and twenty hens took part in an egg laying competition in Sydney, extending over twelve months. In all 59,572 eggs were laid, and the prize was won by a pen of Wyandottes, with an average of 218 per hen.

A dogfish twenty inches long was caught off Nantucket recently, and there was an india rubber band about its body just forward of the fins. It had evidently been placed there when the fish was small, as it had cut in quite deep, although it did not appear to trouble the fish.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Jno Gobelick of Colma, Calif., writes, "For 15 years I endured inconceivable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I commenced using Electric Bitters and its the grand medicine it works for me. In that time I had bought of B. Lemmon, Agent, several bottles of it, constantly relieved and kept well. Take it and you have the best medicine obtainable for Liver and Kidney disorders and general bad health. Only 50c. Guaranteed by C D Bradham, druggist.

SERVANTS IN RUSSIA.

The Law Excludes Them as Witnesses Against Their Employers.

The Russian servant is hired for one year and is told exactly what his particular duty is to be. He then sticks to that one duty. As long as each servant faithfully performs the special duties of his position all is well, but the neglectful butler or cook or coachman is sent by the employer with a written note to the police judge, who after carefully investigating the complaints has a right to order bodily punishment or to write a bad mark in the book kept for this purpose.

In great Russian households often from twenty to fifty servants are kept, and even the middle class families have two to four. The pay of these servants varies according to the line of work. While the "chiefs" in the kitchens of wealthy families often receive $300 a year, a cook in an ordinary citizen's employ gets no more than $12 a year, and a maid of all work never gets more than $5 a year. At Easter every servant gets a present, generally a suit or dress.

Every other Sunday the servants in a Russian household are entirely free. Their work stops Saturday night after supper, when the servants leave the house not to return until the next Monday morning. The employers never ask where or how the free time is spent.

Russian servants will pilfer. Since Russian ladies leave everything to the care of the servants the latter do as they please.

The menservants smoke cigars belonging to their masters and pay frequent visits to the wine cellars of the house, but a gentleman would consider it "demeaning" himself to prosecute a servant for this.

The Russian servants will talk about fellow servants, but never about their employers. Even when they quit one place and take service in another family they would never mention anything about their former masters. This discretion goes so far that even the law considers it. In Russia the law excludes servants as witnesses against their former or present employers so long, at least, as these servants are not suspected of having taken part in the crime.—London Mail.

The Broadway M. E. church of Logansport, Ind., was built fifty years ago, and a tin ball adorned the top of the spire. The building was torn down lately to make room for a more elaborate one. In the tin ball, with the records of the church, were found a deck of cards and a half pint bottle of whisky. Dudley H. Chase, four times judge of the Cass circuit court, is the only man alive who knew of the presence of the whisky and cards, he and three others having smuggled them into the tin ball with the church records and other papers in order to see what the others would say when they discovered them. The latter overhauled them, and the ball was sealed and sent to the top of the spire there to remain half a century with its incongruous contents.

BARLEY is one of the oldest cereals known in history. But the barley grown today is the product of centuries of cultivation. Although it is a hardy cereal, and can be grown in any temperate climate, it is best cultivated in our Northern States, where the soil is peculiarly adapted to produce the most nutritious species.

Milwaukee, the home of the Pabst Brewing Company, is located on the edge of a vast barley district, where the best barley in America is grown. Pabst has his own buyers, who have had years experience in selecting barley, and whose exclusive employment is to purchase the two million bushels of this grain needed every year.

Every bushel of barley used by the Pabst Brewing Company is the best the land affords, and this insures the greatest possible nutrition in the malt from which Pabst beer is made. The hops, likewise are obtained by special employes whose office it is to inspect the crops of this flower each year, and their purchase is governed by their practica knowledge of the best localities of growth, and also the quality which possesses the correct amount of aroma and "hop principle" necessary to product good beer. Pabst Beer is always pure because it is brewed from only the choicest materials.

Before any vat, brew-kettle, keg or bottle is used a second time, vast corps of men and women wash, cleanse and scour these receptacles until they are sweet and clean and free from all contamination.

System, the best labor and the latest scientific machinery are used throughout the great Pabst plant. Cleanliness and quality are above all else observed to the extreme.

The doors of the Pabst plant are always open to visitors, who may inspect for themselves the superior methods employed in the manufacture of Pabst Beer which could not be made better if double its price were offered.

Sir.—If you are the owner of a Public Ferry, Bridge or Toll-Gate, or if you are a livery man—keeping horses and mules to hire, or if you are a dealer in spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, or manager of a dispensary, you are required to deliver or remain to me, within ten days after the first day of January and July of each year, a sworn statement of your gross receipts—as owner of a public ferry, bridge, &c., the number of horses or mules kept for hire—as a dealer, and the best amount of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors purchased by you, in or out of the State, for preceding six months.

Prompt compliance with the law is extremely important, and in the failure to do so, you will be required to show cause why the penalty of the law shall not be imposed.

Respectfully,
[illegible] A. WATSON,
Auditor of Craven Co.

KNOW WHAT "LAGER" MEANS?

Literally, lying. Beer that's worthy the name should have lain long. What we claim for Budweis beer is that it has been stored in vats for a time sufficient for it to be well ripened. That's why it is not only harmless, but does a great good to its consumers. Buy Budweis Beer.
