UNDER A PICTURE HAT

As sung in the big musical production

"IN AFRICA"

with ADAMS & YORKE

Words by E. RAY GOETZ — Music by MELVILLE J. GIDEON

Moderato.

1. When a fel-low courts a maid-en now-a-days,..... You will find he's up to date, When his love he would re-late, And as on her love-ly charms he'll fond-ly gaze,..... Un-like sweet-hearts used to do, he'll tell his love in dif-f'ring ways, He won't sing a-bout a cos-y cor-ner where he'd like to spoon, Or rave a-bout the stars a-bove, or sil-v'ry shin-ing moon, He'll not speak a-bout a birch ca-noe, Where
2. No one's pry-ing eyes can watch you sit and spoon,..... And your lipe they can-not see, So for kiss-ing you are free, With-out be-ing heard you soft-ly sing a tune,..... With two fond hearts keeping time, as tales of love you soft-ly croon, It..... might be ve-ry shocking if a hat could on-ly speak, And tell of all the fun-ny things that hap-pen un-der-neath, And.... I know if it was that way, With there is on-ly room for two, Since the lat-est fash-ions have brought something new..... her you would-n't get so gay, So..... its the place for spoon-ing lov-ers say.....

CHORUS.

Un-der a pict-ure hat,..... With your girl that's the place to spoon,..... You won't be a-fraid, for there, in the shade, You can hide from the sun or the moon,..... An-y place, or an-y time,..... No mat-ter where you're at,..... 'Neath the gar-dens a-bove, You can tell your tales of love, poco rit.

Un-der a pict-ure hat,..... Un-der a pict-ure hat..... hat.....

Chaldean Tablets.

The clay tablets of Chaldea, probably the very earliest writing materials used by man, were of different sizes, the largest being flat and measuring 9 by 6½ inches, while the smallest were slightly convex and in some cases not more than an inch long. In the same ruins with the tablets have been found the glass lenses which were used by their readers. The writing was done, while the tablets were still soft, by a little iron tracer, not pointed, but triangular at the end. By slightly pressing this end on the soft moist clay the inscriptions were made. The tablets, having been inscribed on both sides and accurately numbered were baked in ovens and stored away in the state libraries.—New York American.

A Mistake Somewhere.

"Is it true, Miss Gertie," he said "that there are just two things a woman will jump at a conclusion and a mouse?"

"No," she answered; "there is a third, Mr. Philip."

After thinking the matter over a few moments he troublingly made her an offer, but she didn't jump at it. He was not the right man.

The Dilettante Society.

An interesting old organization which formerly existed in London, the Dilettante society, originated with certain gentlemen who, having traveled in Italy, tried to encourage at home what they had enjoyed abroad. This society of lovers of the fine arts lasted 130 years. Walpole does not seem to have looked upon it with a very favorable eye, for he says, "The nominal qualification was to have been to Italy; the real one was being drunk."
