The steamer Trent brought down a large excursion from up Trent river yesterday.

The steamer Shenandoah arrived yesterday morning and sailed on schedule time, with freight and passengers.

Political gatherings take place early in the morning now, on lower Craven street. Early birds catch the worms.

Lewis H. Smith informs the public that he is still with the coalitionists, reports to the contrary, notwithstanding. See his card.

Mr. J. T. Eaton, of Wildwood is formulating a plan of cheap excursions, but his tickets are not binding on the holders of them.

from Washington the excursion of Good Samaritans yesterday. They report a good time throughout.

Hey, oh, Smith! you are late getting home. Yes. I got tangled up in a railroad argument down the street, and I like to have never got out.—THIMBLRIGT.

The committee of one hundred met yesterday and appointed sub committees, and made such arrangements as to start a vigorous campaign.

Wilmington has had a sensation in the case of a colored cowhiding affray. For the cause assigned, the cowhiding would seem to have been just punishment.

A good crowd of New Bernians went out to the farmers' dinner near Street's Ferry yesterday. Among them were the jovial Lieut. Dinsmore and Assistant Engineer Beckwith, of the cutter Stevens.

The coalition movement is gaining advocates hourly; coming events are throwing bewitching shady nooks before them; it is more pleasant to look upon than the 4th of July, 1886. It nears the millenial, anyway.

It would assuredly be to the interest of Craven county to have an able and efficient representation in the Legislature of the State, and competent officers in county [illegible] that is what the coalition is making for.

Some hands along the Washington road between this city and Street's Ferry are looking well and are in good condition, considering the unfavorable weather. The cotton in most of the fields appears to have a fine growth but the farmers say that it is not fruiting well.

Personal.

J. T. Eaton, Esq., of Carteret, came in on the Shenandoah yesterday morning from Baltimore on his way home.

Mr. D. S. Carraway and family arrived on the Shenandoah on a visit to relatives in the city.

Mrs. E. B. Roberts and children left on the Shenandoah for New York.

Mrs. J. S. [illegible] returned from a visit to relatives in Washington and vicinity.

[illegible] stumped down the road and cackled deliriously about the President's votes.—Ex.

And why shouldn't he have a pension? He got badly wounded in his reputation.—Chicago.

The Jacksonville News road from New Berne to Cobton and vicinity assembled with their wives, daughters and sweethearts in the large Oak grove of Mr. F. S. Ernul's residence near Street's Ferry yesterday and held an old fashioned "fandank, dinner, and barbecue." The day was delightful; everybody was in a good humor; said old farmers looked on complacently as the young colored themselves in the festivities of the day. The barbecue was prepared on the grounds by a French cook, and although the patronage was [illegible] imous verdict of the large crowd present that Mr. French had done his duty. The dinner was served in the grove where the young people danced to the music furnished by Messrs. Sutton and [illegible]. Thus passed the honest, social gathering of farmers was held, and everything in his power to make all present enjoy themselves and he succeeded admirably.

There were several visitors from the city of New Berne at this farmers' gathering, among them some of the fair ladies, who entered heartily into the exercises of the day, some of them having old time feelings aroused to the extent of responding to the music.

It was in no sense a political meeting, but candidates were on hand form all factions and were among the most genial fellows to be found.

These annual gatherings of farmers after the cultivation of the crops is complete, is something that every neighborhood ought to encourage. It brings the farmers together for a day of pleasure where they can interchange views on various subjects and strengthen the ties of sympathy and friendship.

We hope to have the pleasure of meeting the farmers in this section on another such occasion, and we know it will not be detrimental to their prosperity to have these gatherings once a year. Such generous intelligent, thrifty farmers as assembled at Mr. Ernul's yesterday deserve success, and success will surely be their reward.

A Card.

It having come to my knowledge that it was reported that I had withdrawn my support from the peoples' ticket and gone over to the Hahn faction, I hereby deny the truth of any such report. I am still supporting, and shall, through the campaign, advocate the election of the ticket nominated at County Hall by the regular Republican convention, and as endorsed and amended by the mass meeting on the 5th of July.

Politics in Carteret.

At a meeting of Democratic citizens of Hunting Quarter township, held pursuant to public notice, on July 20th, 1886, Mr. Jno. L. Goodwin was called to the chair. S. E. Hamilton and Dr. W. T. Paul were appointed secretaries.

The following gentlemen were elected as delegates to attend the county convention:

Cedar and Hog Islands—J. H. Goodwin and James A. Lupton.

Atlantic—Dr. W. T. Paul, Wallace Norris and S. E. Roberson.

Mill Point—Tillman Taylor and Capt. John Rose.

Piney Point—Valantine Roberson and Elijah Nelson.

Township Executive Committee—Dr. W. T. Paul, Capt. J. L. Goodwin, Francis Mason, Thomas Chadwick.

A Literary Coup D'Etat.

Of all the surprises to which the reading public has been treated by Mr. Alden's surprising Literary Revolution, perhaps the most remarkable is the last. Two of the choicest and most famous books in modern literature, Washington Irving's "The Sketch Book" and "Knickerbocker's History of New York," are just published in style worthy of this most widely celebrated and universally honored of American authors. The two books together form one of the nine volumes of his works also just published. The type is large, leaded, beautiful; the two volumes bound in one comprise 606 pages; the binding is half morocco, marbled edges. The only other edition in the market that at all compares with this or rivals it, is advertised by the publisher at $3.00 per volume.

Mr. Alden's price when sold in sets of nine volumes, is a little less than $1.00 per volume. He now offers this single specimen volume until September 1, 1886, for the price (if it can be called a price) of 50 cents, by mail, postage paid.

This offer is without restriction or condition; if there are a hundred thousand, or half a million of those who take pleasure in the works of Washington Irving, who want the volume, he says he will fill their orders as fast as his printers and binders can turn them out.

If you want to complete your set after you have received this volume, you can, of course do so by paying the additional price for the set. The object of this extraordinary "Coup D'Etat" is of course advertising; except for this consideration the price would be ridiculous and ruinous. Mr. Alden sends his complete condensed catalogue of standard books free to any applicant, or his illustrated catalogue, 164 pages, for four cents. Address, JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl street, New York.

Killed by Apaches.

TOMBSTOWN, July 20.—Prefect Cooeura of Senora and four companions were killed by Apaches last week while on their way to examine mining property near that place. They had an escort of fifteen men. Five others escaped. It is said that eighty bucks were seen in the fight.

Six months ago we had no demand for B. B. B., but now our retail demand is such that we are forced to buy in gross lots. We attribute the rapid and enormous demand to the comparative size and price of B. B. B. (being large bottles for $1) and its positive merit. It sells well and gives our customers entire satisfaction. Our sales have increased 500 per cent. within a few months. JACOBS' PHARMACY.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 20.—In connection with the reports of the recent violations of the law by American fishing vessels, the Fisheries Department has received advices that considerable of the loss of mackerel lately, whereby these crafts have been from outside the three-mile limit.

The new steamer which the Government contemplates purchasing in New York for the fisheries protection is the Yosemite, a vessel of 400 tons. The price is about $40,000.

A Visitor from Space.

MILWAUKEE, July 20.—While harvesters were at work near Grafton one day last week on the farm of Henry Hellerick, they were suddenly startled by a loud noise not unlike the roar of a long train of cars. The noise increased in volume for a few seconds, and became almost deafening. It seemed to come from the heavens, and gazing upward the spectators saw what appeared to be a huge ball of smoke rapidly descending to the earth. It was a meteor. It struck the earth, within a few rods of where they were standing and buried itself deep in the ground. The news spread rapidly, and the field has been visited by hundreds of people, including many scientific men. The hole in the ground is three or four feet in circumference. Its depth is unknown, all attempts to find bottom by inserting long poles have proved futile. Mr. Diederick is now digging for the meteor, and he intends to bring it to the surface if it takes all summer.

Russia and China.

LONDON, July 20.—A despatch from Pekin to the Times says the Russian fleet threatens Lazareff because England during the Aigun dispute occupied Port Hamilton. The despatch adds that the Chinese fleet has proceeded to Vladivostock and that the Russian Minister of War is visiting the far East. His presence there is regarded as significant.

The Trial of the Anarchists.

CHICAGO, July 21.—[illegible] Seliger, who is regarded as the most important witness for the State, testified in the anarchists' trial that he had been in the habit of meeting the defendants. On the night of the Haymarket riot he was with Lingg, Huebner, Mangelsberg and Hermann, was engaged in making dynamite bombs, which Lingg had been for some months. He did the work at Lingg's urgent request, assisting him with instructions from Lingg, went to a place on Clybourne avenue, where he purchased fifty bolts to put in the shells. They made forty or fifty bombs that afternoon. While they were making the bombs Lingg said the bombs would be good "fodder" for the capitalists and the police who might try to protect the capitalists. The bombs ought to be completed that evening, as they were to be used that night, Lingg said. When witness left the house in the evening Lingg accompanied him, and they carried a little trunk containing the bombs. They weighed about fifty pounds. They were all loaded with dynamite and had caps fixed in them. While they were carrying them they met Mitzenberg, and the three of them carried the trunk to Neff's Hall, No. 58 Clybourne avenue. They took them in through a side door and into the hallway. There the trunk was opened, and several people came in to look at the contents. I saw two or three men take bombs. I took two and put them in my pockets, and then went away, leaving the bombs in the passage way. The hall back of Neff's saloon, witness said, was called the "shanty of the communists." Anarchists and socialists all used to meet there. When he left Neff's saloon Ling, Thielen and Gustav Lehman were with him; they were afterwards joined by two men of the Lehr and Wehr Verein; all had bombs. It had been arranged that a disturbance was to be made on the North Side that night. Other disturbances were to be made on the West Side to prevent the police from massing at any one point. As they passed the Harrabee street police station, Lingg said it would be a beautiful thing to throw in a couple of bombs. A patrol wagon came up. Lingg said he was going to throw in the bomb; that it was the best time to do it. I said it was not a good time; that it would be useless. Lingg became excited, and wanted me to give him some fire from my cigar. I went into a hall and struck a match, as if I was going to give it to him. The patrol wagon passed before the match lighted. Lingg wanted to follow the wagon. Lingg asked me if I had seen a notice in the paper that the armed men were to hold a meeting on the West Side. He showed me a copy of the Arbeiter Zeitung, and pointed to the word "Ruhe," which he said meant (all the[illegible]) was to be a meeting and that everything was to be turned upside down.

"Lingg and I then went to Neff's Hall again, where a number of others were. Herman said to Lingg in a very angry voice, 'You are the cause of it all.' There some one told of the Haymarket affair, and said that a bomb had killed a great many. Lingg said nothing. On their way home Lingg said that even now he was scolded and jibed at for the work he had done. That his brothers in the cause did not appreciate him. We hid our bombs under the sidewalk. It was about midnight when we reached home."

Buried Under a Tidal Wave.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., July 20.—On Saturday night several tugs, coming up to Cape Flattery, were struck by a tidal wave. The sea ran so high that the tugs were buried at times. The commotion lasted about half an hour. After the waves had subsided it was found that the sea was covered with dead codfish, halibut, and salmon. It is thought the commotion was the result of a submarine eruption.

Notice.

To the Members of the Democratic Executive Committee of Craven County:

There will be a meeting of the Committee on Saturday, July 24, 1886, at 12 o'clock, at the Center House, for the purpose of calling Township Conventions to appoint their several Township Executive Committees as prescribed by the plan of organization of the Party.

ALPHEUS W. WOOD, Chm'n.

[illegible]

Sir: While another year is in your grade to write the young men of this different counties hold to vote for a delegate from their county, who is going to support George H. White from this county for Solicitor. He is not the man for that position. He will (if you have one) prepare your case for adjudication, knowing, but that he gets his support from the colored people and not the white. He sails under two colors. He tried, so I understand, to get the endorsement of two conventions here, and his own delegate was about to turn their backs on him for so doing. Young men of Craven, never procure him for your attorney any more; get you a lawyer who will not try to have you sent to State prison. He is like the man who picked up the frozen snake and thawed him; after he was thawed, the snake turned around and bit the man. Just so with George H. White; after we picked him up and thawed him he is trying to bite us poor colored people. Oh, high-toned George! Take advice, young and old men.

Respectfully,
