A denizen of Ohio wants a young woman who is post-mistress removed because for "seven years" she has done all her courting in the post-office. If she could do that for seven years and run the p. o. too, she must have been a daisy manipulator of the males.—Star.

The Baptist Sunday school will go down to Morehead Wednesday on their annual picnic. As only a limited number of tickets will be sold, those desiring to purchase them should call at the stores of Messrs. D. F. Jarvis and Lucas & Lewis. The price is $1.00.

We are told that the delay of the steamer Trent at Arlington farm with the picnic was not caused by her being aground as was generally supposed, but was on account of the winds blowing so hard directly against her that she could not have backed out from the wharf against the wind and to have turned around would have made her got aground so there was nothing to do but wait.

From Rev. J. R. Sawyer we learn that on Monday night the 22d inst., Mrs. Wm. Brinkley, a widow lady living in the suburbs of Manteo had her barn and contents burned by an incendiary fire. She lost her corn, peas, hay, &c., farming implements, carts, and two buggies. Four hogs were burned alive. The loss amounted to about $1,000. There was some insurance.

Noticing that quite large onions are being shipped off now we took the trouble of taking down the number of onions in eight crates from Mr. W. H. Bray's farm just as they were in a row for shipment having been counted and the number contained in each crate marked on it rendered this an easy task. We found that the whole eight barrel crates, just as they came contained only 1244 onions an average of 155 to the crate. Only one crate contained as many as 160 and some had as low as 150. For crates taken at random this is a good showing.

Good Money in Cabbages.

Messrs. Hackburn & Willett sent off 629 crates of cabbage Friday. This shipment made over ten thousand barrels they have sent off this year from the seventy acres they planted and they have a few thousand barrels more to send. Even this late in the season the cabbages are netting them throughout 1.17 per crate for all they can send—very satisfactory returns for them.

Mr. J. R. Cromwell informs us that he has shipped 3010 barrel-crates from 18 acres an average of about 175 barrels to the acre.

The cabbages now going off are very pretty, good size and solid heads, as fine as ever left here.

The successive plantings of winter and spring cabbages have been going off for several mouths. It will be but a little while now until the last of the crop will be marketed, but one crop laps right over into another. Cabbages and onions are not yet over but beans and potatoes are going forward.

The potato shipping season is fairly upon us. The first shipment of consequence was Friday, 500 barrels by the steamer John W. Garrett, the next day the steamer Neuse had 2,000 barrels of potatoes, (besides 1,000 crates each of cabbages and beans) and quite a large proportion of the seven cars of truck carried by the A. & N. C. R. R. into Goldsboro was potatoes. The next day the railroad had a train of ten cars with an increase in the packages of potatoes and the steamer shipments were full.

The closing excercises of Salem Female Academy commencd Friday evening with annual vocal concert. There was a large crowd. The senior class in new Oxford caps was a charming sight. The music unsurpassed. Elocutionary exercises were held Saturday evening. The programme ends Thursday June 1st with commencement. The school has had the gratifying attendence of three hundred and sixty-two students this term.

The walls of the water works pump house is finished ready for roofing, the foundation for the fire stack is finished and work on the stack itself will begin Monday. It will be 75 feet high, circular in form, of pretty design and ornamentally finished. The erection of the stand pipe will be going on at the same time. Such improvements—this and the building of the new railroad speak well for New Berne.

A muscovy duck belonging to Mr. S. B. Waters, stole a nest in his dog house, —the dog vacating when the duck took possession. In due time the duck commenced setting, the whereabouts of the nest not being known up to that time. Friday she came off and judge of the surprise of all when it was found that she had out thirty-one bright and healthy little ducks—a basket full. It was found on examination that the nest had contained thirty-three eggs and the duck had hatched all except two.

A SHORT HISTORY OF BIG IKE.

I shall now write a little piece of Big Ike his fame.
In ancient days when land of milk he was without a name,
In infant days his [illegible] parents did him love,
They knew right then he was a prize sent them from above,
In childhood he was loved by them by neighbors all around
And was the favorite to be seen when he was safe and sound,
Sound and solid in his acts was always to been seen
When with his playmates everywhere for them he was to keen
In childhood's days he'd run about and eat sugar and candy,
He always loved good things to eat but never would drink brandy,
Sober, solid, true and kind was always his duty,
And was always on every tongue he certainly is a beauty;
In youthful days Big Ike would be the favorite with the boys,
And with his parents everywhere he was their greatest joys,
When at church he'd always go and listen to the preacher
And bear in mind he was true and kind and prized him as his teachers,
When at school he with his books would always take the lead
In writing, history and mathematics, would stand there at the head,
In playing with his schoolmates, he never when a lad
Would ever cause disturbance nor never would get mad
But always would encourage the little boys to be
Benevolent in all their acts and to each other see;
'Tho young and spry was this Big Ike yet larger than the rest,
He'd teach them at the uttermost no old man to molest,
In manhood when he rises up then every one could see
When in the planting of the seeds the farm was on the lea,
He'd plow the soil and plant the corn, in working time alass!
He'd cut the weeds and hill his crop and boldly slay the grass,
In harvest time Big Ike would work and gather in the fold,
