SINGLE'S BREAK THE FAST

This year's Break The Fast was held at the home of Arthur Lavitt. More than 150 people enjoyed the feast under the tent in Arthur's backyard. Although it was somewhat dark, everyone quickly finished the variety of food brought by the participants. Many thanks to: Arthur, Margie Rolnick, Shari Jenner, Sheryl Ross & Stuart Napshin.

The JCC Newcomer's Connection Is Off and Running...

The Newcomer's Connection is offering an opportunity for everyone to meet those new in Charlotte.

Our first event in October, opened up the JCC's Health and Recreation Department on a Saturday night. The gym, health club, pool, tennis courts and fitness center were available for everyone to use while socializing.

This month's Connection is planned for Saturday, Novem-

JNF's NFL Kicks Off A New Season

While the National Football League (NFL) ushers in its 75th season, it welcomes two new Jewish players to its ranks, Jay Fiedler (QB, Philadelphia Eagles) and Perry Klein (QB, Atlanta Falcons). The Jewish National Fund's very own NFL (National Future Leadership) is hard at work too, creating new programs for its members as they welcome in their own 5755th year.

The men and women of JNF's NFL recognize the pride the Jewish community has in such athletes as All-Pro Harris Barton (RT) of the San Francisco 49ers; 10-year veteran Adam Schreiber (OG) of the Minnesota Vikings; Alan Veingrad (OT) of the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys; Brent Novoselsky (TE) of the Minnesota Vikings, and all the other Jewish NFLers.

On the occasion of a new season for both NFL's and the Jewish community, L'Shanah Tova!

For more information about Jewish athletes in professional or amateur sports, contact the Jewish Sports Congress at (516)482-5550, and for more information on National Future Leadership, contact Jonathan Cohen at the Jewish National Fund, (212) 879-9300.

Winter Cultural is Coming...

Charlotte, get ready! B'nai B'rith Youth Organization (BBYO) is setting up for its annual Winter Cultural contest convention. This year, Winter Cultural takes place Fri.-Sun., Nov. 18-20 at the JCC.

Charlotte's 2 BBYO chapters, Mickey Barak Aberman AZA and Chai Chaverim BBG, will open up their homes to their friends from all over North Carolina and Southwest Virginia, bringing in approximately 150 people.

BBYO chapters compete in such areas as chapter cheer, song, oratory, banner and more. This year's contest chairpersons are both Charlotteans, Shara Grifenhagen and Casey Neumann.

If you would like to see some of our teens compete, stop by the JCC Saturday right after lunch, or call Leora Itzhaki, 366-5007, for more details!

College Bound

On Thursday, Nov. 3rd at 7:00 p.m., college admissions officers from Queens College and UNC-Charlotte will be holding a discussion on What Colleges Look For. Bring your questions and learn what the college of your choice is looking for! Free.

How to Pay For College is a big concern for many people. Student loans, grants, scholarships—it can get very confusing! Come talk with Curtis Whalen, Director of Financial Aid at UNC-Charlotte and learn more about what resources you have available. Thursday, Dec. 1st at 7:00 p.m. Free.

Coming soon— College Caravan to Atlanta. Watch the Charlotte Jewish News and the J-Update for more details.

ber 19. We'll be doing some early Chanukah celebrating with some traditional holiday treats. . . and some special surprises. Please join us if you are new in town, if you are a new member of the JCC, or just if you'd like to meet some new friends.

The Newcomers Connection is open to all adults (including those not yet JCC members). Please RSVP to the JCC at 366-5007 by November 15.
