Book By Ehle Now On Sale In Chapel Hill

A novel by John Ehle of the University Communications Center is currently on sale in downtown bookstores.

"Move Over, Mountain," dealing with the growth and rise of a man in the fictional North Carolina community of Leafwood was recently released by a New York publishing company.

Ehle says of his book, "It is the story if a man I respect who lives in a town I like, and the man and the town are presented as I know them.

Ehle has written and directed three films about North Carolina, and is the author of over thirty short stories and plays.

Vision-Safety Essay Contest Is Announced

High school students in Orange County will be eligible to participate in the 1957 high school essay contest on "Vision and Highway Safety," sponsored statewide by the Northe Carolina Optometric Society.

The local winner will receive a prize of a $25 U. S. Savings Bond, it was announced today by Dr. William T. Kohn, area contest chairman. The prize has been provided by the Orange County unit of the State Society.

In addition to the local prize, U. S. Savings Bonds will be awarded winners in the district and state contest. First place winner in North Carolina will receive a $500 bond and an all expense paid trip to the North Carolina State Optometric Society's annual banquet in Raleigh May 27, 1957.

Any high school student in Orange County may enter the contest, according to the local chairman. The deadline for entries is May 1, 1957.

Students interested in entering the contest may obtain complete information from their English teacher or from any local optometrist.

'The paths of glory' may lead to the grave,' but for prize winning beef cattle, it also seems to lead to the slaughter house.

Price supports and prices of dairy products to farmers in 1957 are likely to be about the same as in 1956.
