Preschoolers "Fired Up" Jewish Day School Open House

In early October, the Charlotte Fire Department visited the three-year-old classes at the Jewish Preschool on Sardis. With great excitement children climbed on the fire truck, watched a fire fighter get suited up and observed a fire fighter using a hose. The visit was part of a two-week unit on Fire Safety.

The Jewish Day school of Charlotte, will host a school Open House on Thursday November 9, 7:30 p.m. The Open House will provide an opportunity for potential parents to tour the school and examine the wonderful program which has earned the school its high quality reputation.

Carolina Lubavitch Rabbis to Join National Convention

Rabbi Yossi Groner will lead a delegation of Lubavitch rabbis in Charlotte, Raleigh, Columbia and Myrtle Beach to the Lubavitch International convention in Brooklyn, New York.

The convention, which draws more than 1,500 Lubavitch representatives from the around the world, seeks ways to improve educational programs within their communities. The mid-November convention has been the initiative of the Lubavitcher Rebbe as a means of bringing together a large mass of people who share a common goal, yet each with a unique idea. Lubavitch operates 2,000 institutions all over the world, ranging from Chabad Houses to schools, summer camps and drug rehabilitation centers. The large majority of these institutions were founded by the Rebbe and continue to serve as a beacon of light to hundreds of thousands of Jews all around the world.

Jeanne Steele, Kindergarten teacher, will share her teaching methods at Open House

Visitors will learn from the school teachers about the curriculum and methodology used at the school. There will be a special presentation by school students and a full tour of the school. The evening is designed to inform parents of the excellent private school education available to all Jewish children in Charlotte.
