CJDS Celebrates Chanukah on Ice

On the fourth day of Chanukah, Charlotte and Matthews area drivers were treated to the sight of a grand auto parade of over 25 cars with lighted rooftop menorahs as CJDS parents and students made their way from Shalom Park to Extreme Ice

Center in Indian Trail. Well-wishers along the twelve-mile route waved, honked, and cheered as the cars passed by. This was the first menorah parade to ever enter Union County. At the ice rink, families enjoyed skating, then sang Chanukah songs and feasted on latkes and hot cocoa, as a large menorah was lighted on the ice.

This wonderful event will always be remembered by participants and observers alike. ✨

A Shabbat Celebration at The Jewish Preschool on Sardis

Fridays just got a little more special at The Jewish Preschool on Sardis.

Not only do the children look forward to a weekend full of play, but now they also await a weekly Shabbat celebration. "Shabbat Send-off" includes the three- and four-year-old classes at the school and comes with plenty of songs, dances and prayers to usher in Shabbat. One child from each class is honored every week, and each plays a special part in the fun. Parents of those children are invited to attend, and each one goes home with a Shabbat bag. Children can spend Shabbat setting their own Shabbat table and enjoying a Shabbat story.

Morah Jayme Kreitman leads the Shabbat honorees each week at JPS. Moshe Weiss, Hannah Schwartz, Mushka Vorst and Ava Cohen get ready to say the Hamotzi.

"We wanted to do something this year for the children that ended the week and paved the way for Shabbat on a special note," says JPS Director Fern Sanderson. "What a perfect way to celebrate our accomplishments from the week and get ready for some time with our families. The smiling faces and the children's enthusiasm bring the spirit of Shabbat to our school long before sundown each Friday." ✨

David Taback and Jordan Brown are the special Shabbat Send-off guests.
