

The Jewish Preschool on Sardis Celebrates Simchat Torah

The children at The Jewish Preschool on Sardis ushered in the arrival of Simchat Torah with a day filled with fun. Wearing their handmade crowns and waving their beautiful flags, they played games, jumped in giant, inflatable castles (a special thanks goes to Y.E.S. - Your Event Source) and danced with the Torahs. Morahs

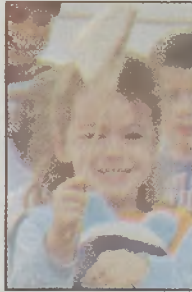

Jayne Kreitman and Pessie Weiss brought their Judaica lessons outside as well with stories and activities, and Rabbi Weiss visited the children during the week to show them the Torah. Everyone did a mitzvah that day: to be happy on Simchat Torah. ☆

Ms. Cathy's three-year-old class enjoys a day full of fun.

Georgia Engelhardt is all smiles on Simchat Torah.

David Zagin has all the right "supplies" he needs to celebrate.

Annual Book Fair at the Jewish Preschool on Sardis

The Jewish Preschool on Sardis is holding its annual Scholastic book fair November 5-9. Shop early for holiday gifts, buy books to donate to a child's classroom or look for yourself. All proceeds will benefit the school. Preschool picture books, chapter books, cookbooks, parenting books, Judaic books, toys, gifts, and more will be available for purchase daily from 9 AM-1 PM. For more information, call the school at 704-364-8395. ☆
