Tips for Selling Your Jewelry

- Never send your jewelry to out-of-town buyers that promise the highest prices. Most have the highest rate of consumer complaints.
- Never sell your valuables at a counter in view of other customers, insist on using a private office for security.
- Always check the buyers' expertise and that they are graduate gemologists.
- If you have high value jewelry and/or coins, only sell to companies that sell that type of valuables.
- Don't sell your gold or silver coins unless the buyer has at least five years experience and is a member of the American Numismatic Association.
- Make sure the buyers are using the appropriate tools and the latest testing equipment.
