Carnival Cruise Lines Names Mann Travels 2010 "Funtastic" Travel Partner of the Year

Carnival Cruise Lines has named Charlotte-based Mann Travels as one of its top partners for 2010. Only six travel agencies across the country are awarded this prestigious honor based on a combination of factors including overall sales growth and strength.

"We are proud of this remarkable achievement," said Gary Silverstein, co-owner of Mann Travels. "We have an extraordinary team at Mann Travels and all of us had a hand in this accomplishment. We value our partnership with Carnival and are committed to continue providing great value and service to anyone looking for memorable vacation experiences."

Mann Travels is the area's largest independently owned travel agency, and ranks among the top 100 in the nation. It handles all aspects of vacation and corporate travel, as well as meetings and incentive travel for international companies. Mann Travels is an American Express affiliate and has earned the American Express Rep Excellence Award for the 11th consecutive year. It is the only agency in the Carolinas to receive this distinctive award. ☆

Mann Travels owners Maxine and Gary Silverstein enjoy a celebratory champagne toast with Carnival's Kirk Neal and Megan Morra.

She deserves only the finest.

You deserve to find the perfect gift at the best value.

Youth Visions

Hebrew High - Where Jewish Leaders are Created

The Consolidated High School of Jewish Studies of Charlotte is a supplemental school where students in grades 8-12 learn about their heritage and embrace their tradition. Each week our students study classical texts, learn about Israel, are encouraged to seek social justice, and bond with their peers.

Our teachers are group of dedicated adults who are not only knowledgeable about the material they present, but passionate about transmitting their knowledge to the next generation. They give up spending Wednesday evenings with their families to share their love of Judaism and the Jewish people with our teens.

Every Wednesday, at Shalom Park, 200 Jewish teens are busily engaging in all sorts of Jewish learning. Some are studying from the ancient texts, some are listening to and translating Israeli rock music and some are cooking Israeli food and still others are interacting with bereaved families in our sister city of Hadera, Israel. There is something for every student and every learning style at Charlotte's Hebrew High.

It is no surprise that the student board of Hillel at almost every college in the Carolinas has a Hebrew High grad on it. Our goal is to create the future leaders of our community. To that end, we encourage open dialog and leadership skill building. If you come to visit on a Wednesday evening you will meet outspoken and passionate students, who are proud to be Jewish.

At Hebrew High, we are always developing new curricula to stimulate teens' minds, get their creative juices flowing and strengthen their Jewish identity. We create the Jewish leaders of tomorrow, right here at Shalom Park every Wednesday evening. Don't let
