

Judaism Comes Alive at The Jewish Preschool on Sardis

What better way to learn about the Jewish Holidays than to experience them first hand. At the Jewish Preschool on Sardis, Judaism and the holidays are celebrated in so many ways. Take a peek into our world through these photos:

Rabbi Groner shows the JPS students a shofar and demonstrates all the sounds it will make on Rosh Hashana.

Evan Samantha Barrett makes her own round raisin challah for Rosh Hashana.

The 4s class looks on as the Bee Man shows them how honey is made.

Julianna Bamert enjoys her chance to shake a real lulav and etrog in the JPS Sukkah.

Max Hoody is assisted by CJDS student Jacob Carbuto in making a Sukkah cookie during a special Sukkot trip to the Charlotte Jewish Day School.

Daniel Ben-Yohanan, Corey Margulis, and Amitai Lapidot-Boaz enjoy lunch in their classroom Sukkah.

Molly Kosofsky waves her flag while dancing with her Torah on Simchat Torah Fun Day.

Rabbi Groner shows the JPS students a real Torah and allows each child to give it a kiss.

David Epstein's Speech at CJDS

are lower and I am sure that they are more likely to give their children a Day School education and repeat the cycle.

"What we are saying is this — it does not matter whether you live in Atlanta or Florida or up north or anywhere else outside of Charlotte — when you support the Charlotte Jewish Day School you are providing for the future of Judaism; you are giving our Charlotte children a start but where the children of Charlotte end up living it is not possible to predict. The point is that the Charlotte Jewish Day School is not only about Charlotte — it is about the future health, strength, and vibrancy of our people.

"Our Day School has many opportunities which you may support. And within the next few weeks, we hope to be able to announce a matching program which will allow us to leverage some gifts by an additional 50%.

"Don't hesitate to contact me or Gale Osborne, our Development Director. We are here to answer any questions you have.

"Let us end with a quick confession. We have two grandchildren here in Charlotte. They both went to the Jewish Preschool on Sardis but their parents made educational choices for them which did not include the Day School.

"However, that has not stopped Aleen and me from taking ownership of the school. We see the Charlotte Jewish Day School as our best opportunity to preserve our Jewish future.

"Please join us in this effort."✡
