

Two Charlotte Teens Elected to Youth Group International/North American Boards

Roni Rose and Debbie Rabinovich are making Jewish Charlotteans proud. Both were elected to the highest board in their respective youth groups' organizations.

During President's Day weekend, Roni Rose, a proud member of Chai Chaverim BBG, was elected as the 70th International Mazkirah (VP of global communications and strengthening global Jewry) of BBYO. In this role, Roni will be part of a ten-member teen board that will help chart the organization's vision for the coming year and provide leadership and support to teen leaders in local communities throughout the BBYO system.

Roni has been involved in Chai Chaverim since the 9th grade. She has served on her chapter board, most recently as N'siah (president), and is currently the North Carolina Council Gizborit (VP in charge of fundraising). Roni has helped the 21 chapters across the Eastern Region raise close to $2,000 for BBYO's International Service Fund and Globalization initiatives.

Debbie Rabinovich, a Temple Beth El High School senior, is the newly-elected president of the North American Federation of Temple Youth, the Reform movement's organization for high school students. As President, Debbie is leader for NFTY in all of the US, Canada, and parts of Latin America.

Debbie has been involved with NFTY since she joined LIBERTY (the Beth El group) in the 8th grade. This past summer she went to URJ Kutz Camp for Mechina Regional Board Training. Debbie has been a madricha in our Beth El Religious School, in our B'nai Mitzvah training program, with jewTube Charlotte producing online Religious School videos, and is a member of our Teen Band, Teen Vocal Ensemble, and Adult Choir.

The Charlotte Jewish community should be proud of the investment we make in our youth.✡
