New Social Group For Lesbians Forms

Special To Q-Notes

Queen City Friends, a new social group for lesbians, meets for the first time Thursday, Oct. 9, at the Hickory House Restaurant at 7:30 p.m.

Linda, a woman who is coordinating the group, said that the purpose of QCF will be to bring women together in a casual atmosphere where they can meet and make friends. Meetings will be held at the restaurant on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

"As a volunteer for the Gay/Lesbian Switchboard," she said, "I've taken a number of calls from women asking where they can go to meet other lesbians. Until now, all I could suggest was the bars or MCC.

"There was a gap for those who just want to meet in a non-cruising or non-structured atmosphere. I hope that QCF will fill that gap.

"We're open to all women in the gay/lesbian community — singles and couples new to Charlotte, those just coming out and those who simply want to meet new friends.

"We'll have copies of Q-Notes there to keep us up-to-date on happenings in the community. Events of particular interest will be announced at the dinners.

"Other than that, it will be just a free format."

She said that the second and fourth Thursdays coincide with women's nights at The Scorpio so that anyone wanting to continue the evening with music and dancing could do so.

"The Hickory House (Barbecue) Restaurant," she said, "is an ideal location for us. It's owned by Rick Carter, a well known member of the community. The food is very good and there is a separate back room for us to use for the dinners.

"I'm real excited about QCF and so far the response from women I've talked with has been very enthusiastic. I'm looking forward to meeting a whole lot of new friends on Oct. 9."

To drive to the restaurant from Charlotte, take the Billy Graham Parkway past the airport and cross over I-85. Turn left onto the I-85 service road and the restaurant is about a half-mile away on the right. Main dishes are barbecued chicken, pork and beef; pork and beef ribs; a wide variety of vegetables; hoagies and sandwiches; and cobblers for dessert. Prices: $3.60 to $6.95. Beer and wine are available.

For further information about QCF, call the Switchboard, 525-6128.

EASY MONEY

Sell ads for Q-Notes and make easy bucks. Q-Notes needs a salesperson willing to spend time on the phone with potential advertisers in the Greensboro area, Asheville, Greenville-Spartanburg, Columbia and Myrtle Beach. AND with new potential advertisers in Charlotte.

The payoff is 15% commission on the first ad from a new account and 7% maintenance fee when those new accounts advertise again. AND, you get to visit bars in those cities and make new friends. It's like being paid to enjoy yourself.

Qualifications: self-confidence, your own transportation, professional phone manner, strict attention to deadlines, assertiveness.
