Tell Trinity

Quote du Jour:
There are no problems. Only solutions! —Trinity

To Trinity,
My boyfriend and I went from seeing each other every night to nothing for weeks. He has now moved near me into a house with four other gay men. He hardly wants to be with me anymore. He also won't talk about it. Help!

— Dizzy With My Man
Coral Springs, FL

To Dizzy,
Sister, you got a big problem, yet an easy solution. Think gay algebra! One man, loves one man, equals relationship. But when one man, moves in with four men, that equals someone-screwing-someone behind someone's back. The possible solutions are: a) let him know he can be a pig and still be your boyfriend, b) he cannot be your boyfriend if he doesn't show more interest or c) accept that he's found a new boy toy and move on. But before I end this gay algebra lesson the equation is unsolvable unless you stay busy, go out with friends, date a bit and enjoy the challenges of life.

This too shall pass.

— Trinity

Dear Trinity,
Men are dogs! They only want to eat and hump! They can't keep a steady relationship, nor do they particularly want to. Don't you think most men are puppy dogs that don't want to grow up?

Yours.

TRINITY'S OBEDIENCE CLASS

Hey Trin.,
When is it the right time to give flowers on a date?

— Wondering
Seattle, WA

Hey Wondering,
An ex-European lover once said, "Trinity, it's always the right time to give flowers!" And if anyone knows, then it's those damn, charming, skinny Eurotrash. I personally, feel more comfortable getting flowers on the second date. I think flowers on the first date deliver a feeling of "lover material!" BUT may also deliver a feeling of obsessive material, codependency material and stalker material!

Exceptions to the lesson: prom dates, prearranged dates and funerals.

— Trinity

Dear Trinity,
I've been trying to end a relationship with someone for a long time now. I really want to break the news at the right moment. But when is the right moment? Or better yet, when is it the wrong moment?

Thanks.

— Stuck In A Hole
Santa Monica, CA

Dear Stuck,
Similarly, the first big question Moses asked God was, "How do I get rid of this Pharaoh guy without him killing me?" And after hearing God's voice Moses escaped across the Red Sea almost killing himself and all my people. It would've been much easier if he had read:

Trinity's Top Ten Tips for "the Wrong Moment" (TWM) to End a Relationship

10. You both just started your Middle East vacation. All hotel bookings, travelers checks and train reservations are in her name. She speaks eight languages and you... none. TWM
9. While talking to him via cell phone, during a car crash, surrounded by paramedics. TWM
8. You just finished signing the papers for your new house, your new life insurance policy and your new adopted baby. TWM
7. Just after the doctor says to him, "I'm sorry. But you have an incurable, deadly disease!" TWM
6. You're high up on a plane when the stewardess announces, "Both captains have committed suicide!" And asks your partner, who happens to be a pilot, to take over the plane. TWM
5. While alone, at the pistol and rifle shop, he's testing out the new line of "Quick Kill Undetectables" when suddenly the manager, also the only person in the store, leaves. TWM
4. While opening her acceptance letter she says, "It's the happiest day of my life!" TWM
3. You're in the middle, literally, of the most incredible sexual experience of his and your relationship! TWM
2. While she's watching over your very sick mother, your favorite visiting nephew, whom she despises, runs away and she's calling you during a business meeting... in Uganda! TWM
1. When she hands you the winning, eight million dollars lottery ticket and says, "Honey, look what WE'VE won. Together!" TWM!

"I'd get a little anxious, being at home alone. And then I'd see the wastebasket. I just couldn't help myself. But things are different since I've been going to City Dog USA. I just needed some play time so that I could get rid of that pent up energy. I'm a lot calmer now, and mom & dad say I'm perfect!"
