OUR HONOR ROLL

Our boys are being rapidly discharged from the military service of our country, and are returning to take their places in the equally important fields of the trades, industries, and professions. So we present herewith a new Honor Roll, which we hope our readers will help us to make and keep correct and complete. It is the roll of former soldiers who are now employed in Badin, both by the Tallassee Power Company and by other businesses.

We keep the first place, however, for our honored dead.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Greetings for 1920

We have once more come to the close of an old year and the beginning of a new one.

At this period we are accustomed to take inventories of our stocks of goods, to determine discrepancies, if any exist, and to charge off all shortages and credit all overages—and thus start off the new year with a clean slate.

It will be well to broaden this practice to include an inventory of ourselves. Have we corrected or kept in check our shortcomings during the year so that we had none to charge off; or are we confronted with a big debit balance—so much so that our good deeds will not place us on the credit side. If any one of us belongs in the latter class, let us make it a point of duty to correct this evil; and the best way to overcome it is to take a perpetual inventory of our sayings and doings, so that the bad ones will cease to be a habit.

One of the best helpmates to a successful life is thrift; and one of the most helpful inventories to make is to ask yourself before buying something of doubtful value if you would not do better to do without it, and instead invest the same amount in a revenue producer. There are many more ways to safely invest your money now than ever before. The arm of the law has been stretched out to protect innocent investors as never before, and by the use of common sense it is possible to invest safely.

The National Thrift Week comes this month, and I hope most of us will take advantage of its teachings, and profit thereby.

My New Year greetings to you, my friends, is a wish for your continual and increasing happiness and prosperity, your stronger devotion to God and His teachings, and my heartfelt thanks for the good work you have done in the past.

—J. E. S. THORPE

An Encouraging Comparison

What are we in the United States to expect in the way of living conditions in the New Year just arrived? Nobody knows. Prophets are afraid to prophesy, and still it seems to me that a comparison of our prospects with those of other countries would be worth while, and might make us less apt to complain of unsettled conditions we are sure to have.

The world is passing thru a period of great readjustment. All countries which got into the World War early are in bad condition financially: France, England, Italy, Germany, and the others. They are terribly in debt. They will have to pay enormous taxes even to keep up the interest on their war debt. Their factories cannot get the money necessary to pay wages and buy materials, and even if they do get the money it is not worth much when they try to buy materials in American markets with
