

came to Badin with the gang in 1916, and has had varied experiences here. He seems to have hit his stride, however, as shift foreman on the North Side on the day shift.

A. L. CULVEYHOUSE.

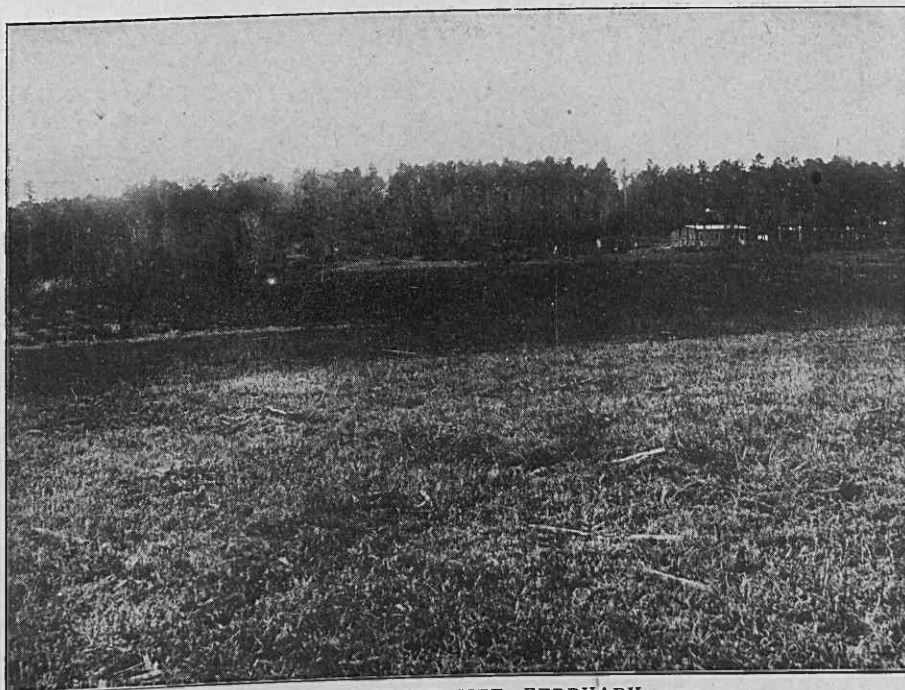

Arthur is a Maryville product. He is also one of the "old originals," and except for a few months' work which he put in for Uncle Sam has made his home in Badin since May, 1916. Arthur and Tip make a great pair. They are truly "friendly enemies," and the rivalry between the North and South Sides on the day shift is a pleasure to behold. The advantage? Well, in order to be sure you had better look it up today, because the percentages change almost daily. Neither one is able to hold on to the top very long without challenge.

F. K. HAWKINS.

Mr. Hawkins came to Badin from New York in the early days, which must have been rather hard on a city bred man! However, his ability to adapt himself to conditions has been apparent from the first. He has seen the potrooms through all of their many ups and downs, and it would be hard to picture them without him. As head of the Shipping Department his work has been unusually good. Mr. Hawkins does not believe in making mistakes, as inventories in his department will testify.

W. D. KITCHIN

"Bill" came to Badin as an expert. The original idea was to have him show us how a Rodding Room should be run. After he had done this thing he hated to leave and arrangements were made for his permanent transfer from the Alcoa Works. As Bob Bogan puts it, "All Mr. Kitchin has to do is to stand in one corner of the Rodding Room and things go beautifully." That is the way with some folks. They never get credit for the hard work they do!

F. M. HERNDON

"Jersey" did not come to Badin with the "old originals." He preceded them, and after knocking around the Carbon Plant for a while with his pot lining department, finally took up his quarters in the East end of building 30. We firmly believe he is the premier pot liner of the South.

JOHN MCGREGOR

"Uncle Johnnie" came to us from Asheville. It seems that he was at the time searching for the "Promised Land," but the fact that he has stayed with us so long seems to indicate that he believes that he has found it. He can do anything from stone cutting to pipe fitting, and this versatility fits him mighty well for his job as foreman of the miscellaneous gang.

R. C. LEATHERWOOD

"Rus" came to Badin in August, 1917. He arrived just in time to help out considerably during those days after the Narrows power was turned in. He is a tapper par excellence, and always ready to help out the other fellow, as the resistance pot crew will testify.

H. C. JENKINS

Mr. Jenkins needs no introduction to the people of this section, as he claimed Stanly County for his home long before the power developments on the Yadkin River were begun. Henry is all right as long as the ore keeps rolling in regularly, but he doesn't care much for
