Tar Heels Risk Win Record Against Fordham Today

By WESTY FENHAGEN
DTH Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 10—Entering the game as underdog for the third consecutive week, the North Carolina Tar Heels will attempt to upset the dope and maintain their unblemished record with a win over the mighty Fordham Rams this afternoon at the Polo Grounds here.

A large crowd of 35,000 will probably be on hand to witness the sixth annual renewal of this gridiron series in which Carolina has yet to emerge with a triumph. According to pre-season dope, the Rams were tops in the east but a thorough drubbing by Tennessee last Saturday cost them some of their prestige. The Rams will be anxious for revenge and a stirring battle should be in prospect.

Coach Jim Tatum will start the same team which trounced the South Carolina Gamecocks last week and if they continue the brilliant performances shown in the victories over Wake Forest and South Carolina, the Tar Heels may well get the edge over their tough opponents from Rose Hill.

Carolina will outweigh the Rams in the line, 199 pounds to 195, but Fordham will have a one pound advantage in the backfield. The Rams possess a fast, shifty set of runners and an ace passing attack but the Tar Heels have been preparing all week for just such an offense and hope to hold the Sugar Bowl champs in check while rolling up some scores of their own with new plays mastered in practice this week.

Soccer Team Opens Against Duke Oct. 14

The varsity soccer team, coached by Lieut. Earle C. Waters, will open its season at home next Wednesday at 1600, with neighboring Duke University supplying the opposition. High Point College will be next on the schedule, appearing here on Oct. 24.

A full soccer schedule for the Cloudbusters has not yet been arranged, Lieut. T. M. Carruthers, assistant athletic director, explains. Few colleges in this section of the country have soccer teams, and wartime transportation difficulties complicate the task of finding varsity competition.

Tennis Star in 10th Battalion

If tennis were a prescribed part of the Pre-Flight training program, Cadet Harris W. Everett of the Tenth Battalion would have little difficulty in coping top honors. Everett, who attended the university here for three and one-half years before enlisting in the Navy, is twice holder of the Southern Conference tennis title, and last summer was seeded No. 7 in the National Tennis Championship tournament at Forest Hills.

The series of band concerts scheduled for alternate Sundays at Kenan Stadium has been discontinued.

Unbeaten 'Busters, Wolfpack Tangle Tonight at Raleigh

By LT. (J.G.) DAN PARTNER

Tonight, under the floodlights at Raleigh, the Cloudbusters meet North Carolina State's unbeaten Wolfpack, opponent No. 4 on the 13-game football schedule, and if Coach "Doc" Newton's huskies don't upset the dope bucket, Lieut. Comdr. Jim Crowley's men still will be undefeated at approximately 2300 o'clock.

The Cloudbusters opened shakily against Catawba College and had to be satisfied with a 13 to 2 victory in the night game, Sept. 12, at Winston-Salem. Two weeks later the squad traveled to Cambridge, Mass., and subdued a fighting Harvard eleven by rushing over two touchdowns in the final six minutes of play. Last Friday night, however, the Cloudbusters hit their peak in out-playing the highly-favored Skycrackers of the Georgia Pre-Flight School in a hard, bruising game that ended in a 14-14 deadlock.

There's not likely to be a harder-fought, more vicious game played anywhere this season than that tussle before some 10,000 fans at Athens, Ga. Tackling and blocking were deadly, every man on both teams went "all out" on every play, no quarter was asked—and none was given.

Out-manned and out-weighted, the Cloudbusters took the field geared high and proceeded to outfight their more talented opponents from the opening kickoff. Four minutes after the start, Cadet Walter Zwiezynski, 175-pound halfback from Northampton, Pa., looped his own left end, cut back neatly and scampered for a touchdown to stun the crowd and the Skycrackers. His jaunt covered 42 yards and after he hit the Georgia 20-yard line he was all alone and under full steam. He kicked the conversion from placement and the Cloudbusters were out in front, 7 to 0.

Late in the third period, after the game had been held up for an hour because of a practice blackout, the 'Busters had another touchdown. Attempting to kick on fourth down, the Georgia back fumbled the low pass from center and the 'Busters took over on the Georgia 20. Two offside penalties against the 'Crackers moved the ball to the 10. Fullback Joe Martin picked up a yard at center and then Halfback Len Eshmont crashed over right guard for the remaining nine yards and the touchdown. Zwiezynski again booted the extra point and it was 14-0.

Then the Georgians went to work, and in the fourth period Frankie Filchuck chucked the ball in brilliant fashion for two touchdowns. Foxx and Ramsey were the receivers on the scoring passes, and twice Foxx kicked the vital extra points that salvaged the game for Lieut. Ray Wolf and gave his team a 14-all tie.

If the Cloudbusters were to play tonight like they played last Friday night, there would be little doubt as to the result. But there'll be a letdown—and that letdown could well be serious.

The Wolfpack turned in a major upset last Saturday by downing a favored Clemson team, 7 to 6, to give Lieut. Comdr. Crowley and his team fair warning as to what to expect tonight.

'B' Team Plays Guilford

The Cloudbuster "B" grid team, coached by Lt. (jg) N. J. Pierce and Ens. Richard P. Cassiano, will tangle with Guilford College at Guilford, N. C., in its first game of the season, Oct. 17.
