

BASKETBALL

While at Dartmouth Broberg set a new Ivy league individual scoring record in his junior year, and then broke his own record during his senior year. He was mentioned on several All-American selections, and it was due mainly to his playing that Dartmouth was represented in the 1941 N. C. A. A. tournament.

Barr was all-state at Penn State for two years and in 1941 he made, among others, Chuck Taylor's All-American selection. The big six-foot, three-inch center is especially fast for his size, and his will be an important part of the Cloudbuster Quintet. He shoots with either hand, and uses his height to greatest advantage in grabbing rebounds.

Masterson of Syracuse has been the surprise of the team. His size (five feet, eight inches) makes him the smallest man on the squad. Thus far he has been the big scoring threat, and he seems to be able to shoot them from all angles.

Lieut. Tom Carruthers, assistant director of athletics, has announced a tentative 12-game schedule including the two practice games before Christmas. In releasing the present schedule he announced that several additions would be made in the next two weeks.

Present schedule:

- Dec. 16—Appalachian College, here.
- Dec. 19—McCrary Eagles, here.
- Jan. 2—La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa.
- Jan. 6—Duke University, here.
- Jan. 9—Long Island University, New York City.
- Jan. 13—George Washington University, here.
- Jan. 23—Duke University, there.
- Jan. 30—Naval Air Station, Norfolk, here.
- Feb. 5—Penn State University, here.
- Feb. 11—Duquesne University, here.
- Feb. 17—University of Virginia, here.

SAUER

leaned back in his chair, smiled whimsically, took a few puffs from his ever present pipe, and said, "I'd really like to stay in the Navy."

A Navy man, a military man, a proven success in civilian life, we are proud of the selection of Lloyd R. Sauer as commander of the regiment of cadets.

the athletic staff of the Lawrenceville Preparatory High School, N. J., where from 1930 until this year he held positions as assistant director of athletics, assistant coach of football and basketball, director of intramural athletics, and head track coach.

Present commander on the cadet regimental staff is LEICESTER H. MINGINS, of Forest Hills, L. I., N. Y., who worked his way to the top here despite the fact that he had no previous military experience before reporting to Chapel Hill. Cadet Mingins attended Tusculum College, Greeneville, Tenn., during 1940-41, and was employed by American Airlines at LaGuardia Field, Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y., before enlisting in the Navy.

Sub-commander on the cadet regimental staff is ALFIO CATALFO, JR., of Dover, N. H., who received ROTC training at the University of Alabama during 1940-41, and at the University of New Hampshire in 1941-42. In addition he received CMTC work at Fort McKinley, Portland, Me., and was formerly a corporal in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, Waterville, Me. He has 90 CPT flying hours to his credit.

RUSSELL C. BROWN, another cadet from New Hampshire—the city of Manchester—is adjutant on the cadet regimental staff. Brown attended the University of New Hampshire from 1938 to 1940 and received ROTC training there. He enlisted in the Navy last May and has logged 35 hours in CPT flying.

The regimental petty officer is CADET WILLIAM GALLAGHER, of Belmont, Mass. Gallagher is a graduate of the primary and secondary CPT courses, has had CMTC training, and was employed at the Watertown Arsenal, Watertown, Mass., before enlisting in the Navy.

Remember way back when mention of the Swiss Navy brought a bigger laugh than mention of the Italian one?
