We are not free.

Much as we love to apply that term to ourselves, we are not free. We are not free to do what we please, as we please, and when we please. We owe God and we owe man.

We are bought with a price—we are God's. He does not owe us anything; we owe Him a life of service and our eternal gratitude.

The world does not owe us a living; we owe the world our service. Such service, to be genuine, must be motivated by love. To serve out of fear is cowardice; to serve out of force is servitude; to serve out of self-glory is sham; but to serve out of love is genuine. Love is the foundation of all our relationships to God and man. It is only through service out of love that we gain freedom. We are free only in the sense that we serve God and man whole-heartedly and genuinely.

The many little things that seemingly contradict this motive, or become obstacles to this motive, must be set aside as trifles and charged up to the imperfections that are in us and around us. We must strive to keep our eyes fixed on things fundamental. We must earnestly contend to keep our motive pure. Therein lies our freedom and our happiness amid the most trying conditions.

On the Lighter Side . . .

A Seaman was walking down the street with his girl when they approached an Army officer. The Seaman saluted and the gesture was returned.

"Why do Navy men salute Army men," the girl inquired?

"After all, my dear," the Seaman replied, "they are just like Britain and China, they are our allies, too."

A Texas Seaman was busy spellbinding a group of shipmates with the glories and opportunities of his home state.

"All Texas needs to become the garden spot of the world is good people and good water," he enthused.

"Yeah," piped a voice, "that's all Hell needs, too!"

When Hitler visited one of the occupied countries he is reported to have stopped at police headquarters in one of the larger cities.

Previous to his departure, a tactful Nazi official sent the police six different photographs of Adolf trusting they would be displayed when Hitler arrived.

When der Fuehrer showed up, however, none of the portraits was visible, so the Nazi un-

Military Field Mass To Be Held Here Sept. 5

The second annual Solemn Military Field Mass will be celebrated by the Most Reverend Eugene J. McGuinness, D.D., Bishop of Raleigh, N. C., in Kenan Stadium on Sunday, Sept. 5. Time of the mass will be 1000.

Preacher for the occasion will be the Rev. John Renehan, pastor of the Holy Redeemer church in Newton Grove, N. C., who has given missions in various military camps of North Carolina.

Music for the event will be rendered by the Pre-Flight School Catholic Choir under the direction of Cadet Walter MacDougald.

Lt. Comdr. John F. Gilday, USNR, has been appointed general chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the mass.

In event of rain the mass will be held in Memorial Hall at 1030.

derling took the police chief aside and asked, "Did you get the six pictures I sent you?"

"Yes," was the answer, "and you'll be glad to know that we've caught five of them already."
