By CHAPLAIN GEO. W. CUMMINS,
Chaplain Corps, USNR

Chaplain Grewenow, your former chaplain, has shoved off for places unknown. He has left with the best of good wishes from the cadets, crew and officers. His work aboard this station was appreciated by all and each will welcome an opportunity to serve with him as a shipmate in the future. I express my gratefulness for his fine help in getting me started in my new duty.

Your present chaplain realizes the important work that is being done here at the Pre-Flight School in Chapel Hill and is aware of the intense program of training. He counts it a real privilege to be considered a part of this great program which is making such a fine contribution to the war effort. It is such a program as this with its fine spirit of cooperation and determination to get the job done that is going to make victory a reality.

As a minister of God, and chaplain, it is my task to "bring God to men and men to God,"—to help men with spiritual problems and counsel them—to point the way to spiritual freedom through Jesus Christ and to help in whatever way I can is certainly a great opportunity, responsibility and privilege. I do hope that all men will come to look upon me as their chaplain and will feel free to call upon me whenever I can be of service.

Rejected Sailor: "Well, in any case I'll always be a brother to you."

She (sweetly): "If I had any use for a brother, I'd pull one from under the couch now."

Catholics to Hold Special Easter Services

Special services to commemorate the Resurrection of Christ will be held by the Catholic Church. A Solemn Military Mass will be sung by the Reverend Edward Sullivan at 1000 in Hill Music Hall. Preceding the Mass a procession, headed by the censer-bearer, will form at the Choral Room and wend its way to the Altar. Assisting the Reverend Sullivan will be the Rev. Francis Morrissey, deacon; and the Reverend E. Callahan of Belmont, subdeacon. The minor offices will be filled by Pre-Flight Cadets. The sermon will be preached by the Reverend Callahan.

The Catholic Cadet Choir, directed by Cadet Panzenbeck, will sing for the solemn occasion. Cadet Golibart will preside at the organ. The music for the Mass will be "Missa Cum Jubilo" and for the offertory will be sung "Regina Coeli" by Amoros. During the reception of Communion the Ave Maria will be rendered.

An invitation is extended to the Pre-Flight personnel to attend this service.

The 0615 Mass on Easter will also be in Hill Music Hall.

On The Lighter Side . . .

Three sailors entered a roadside bar and looking around cautiously, made their way to the bartender, who straightened up and stood waiting for their orders.

"I'll take a coke," said the first. The bartender looked at the man on the next stool.

"I'll take an orangeade," was the quiet and dignified reply.

Disgust written on his ugly face, the bartender glared at the third.

"Just a glass of water for me," was the request. "I'm driving."

"What a relief seeing you again," commented the platoon officer to the tardy cadet. "The rumor got around that you had signed a separate peace."
