The Lighter Side...

Girl: "What do you mean by saying that the dates you had with me were like a string of pearls to you?"

Sailor: "Neckless, dearie, neckless."

A soldier recently transferred to a carrier pigeon outfit was busy cleaning out a cage. He sang as he worked. A passing captain commented, "Good heavens, don't tell me that you enjoy doing that?"

"Sir," replied the soldier, "before coming here I was in the cavalry."

Revelation—Bathing suits reveal the figure, but sweaters point out the facts.

Jock McDougal had blown his lassie to a movie and even hailed a cab to her home. As they were riding along, she, knowing his natural bent concerning money, remarked: "Oh, Jock, it does make me feel awfully wicked riding like this."

At that Jock cheered up tremendously.

"Then, maybe," said he, "it'll be worth the money after all."

Mrs. Lottie Prim was recently granted a divorce when she testified that, since her marriage, her husband had spoken to her but three times. She was awarded the custody of their three children.

Here's to the girl with the turned-up nose.

The turned-in eyes and the turned-down nose.

With the turned-on heat and the turned-down light—

The hunch I had turned out all right.

GCM Prisoners Are Given Chance to Make Good

(SEA)—A BuPers program to retrain GCM prisoners giving them another chance to make good in the service has been highly successful, according to a Navy Department report. More than 80% of the trainees have been successfully restored to active duty.

The first Naval Retraining Command has been in operation a year at Camp Peary, Va., and a second was established in June 1945 at Farragut, Idaho.

With the motto "Salvage and Reissue" the Retraining Command studies each man, determines the reason for his failure and attempts to correct the conditions responsible. Assistance is given every retrainee to help him solve personal problems.

Only men guilty of military offenses who are within the normal psychiatric limits and who have three to 12 months to serve are accepted for retraining. They follow a rigid routine of education, training, athletics, work, military drill and discipline.

A case history is made of each man after interviews with psychiatrists, psychologists and educational, industrial, religious and Red Cross consultants after which suitable corrective action is assigned him in the retraining program.

"Short-timers" are assigned to general maintenance detail while those serving longer go into office or industrial work for which they are best qualified.

Detailed records are kept of the prisoner's aptitude, work, adjustment, and together with neuropsychiatric reports allow him to request clemency or mitigation of sentence for earlier restoration to duty. After serving but one-third of their sentence GCM prisoners are eligible for consideration.

Of the 3,766 prisoners received at Camp Peary, 2,655 have been restored to active duty, 960 are still there and 151 have been rejected and transferred.
