

Meet H. L. VOGLER

Piedmont Airlines has one of the finest stock rooms in the Local Service Carrier industry and this can be attributed to Manager H. L. Vogler.

"Penny-Pincher", or "Brains" as he is called at times, has a remarkable memory, a quiet manner and the ability to get a job done.

Vogler was born and educated in Forsyth County, N. C. In 1941 he joined the Air Force and was assigned with Depot Supply in China and later Germany, supplying parts for P-47, P-51 and C-47 type aircraft. He was discharged in 1948 and joined Piedmont in March of 1949.

At that time, the airline stockroom was a small crowded "hole in the wall" measuring approximately 15 by 30 feet. There was no such thing as a catalog and all parts had to be found by memory. Today the stockroom has approximately 8400 square feet of floor space, and all parts down to the smallest are carefully cataloged and controlled as to minimum and maximum quantities by an inventory control system.

Vogler and his wife Charlee, have a daughter Donna Jean, who is six years old. His main hobby is fishing and he tinkers a lot on the side.
