CATBIRDS

by Elizabeth Roe Tyson

"When the Catbirds come there will be no more cold weather." That is the belief and the saying here in the mountains and usually it proves true. (The cold snap late in May this year was probably as much a surprise to the Catbirds as it was to the rest of us.) So we watch for them each spring and welcome them when they appear, like much loved summer visitors. Inconspicuous little things they are with their slim slate gray bodies and black cap and tail. DECADE REACHED

THE GALAX NEWS, going into its 10th year of publication, is looking forward to a very successful season. This first decade could only have been reached by the faithful backing of the local merchants and citizens which continues to inspire us to greater efforts to please them.

Our paper began in 1952 with a tiny 7-page issue that has since grown into a maximum of 25 pages last year, an increase of 18 pages. The staff and equipment has expanded to meet the demands of this growth. There are many new items of modern and efficient equipment to make the quality of the paper better each year.

As we continue to grow and expand we hope to keep meeting the approval of our patrons. We want to keep our friends of past years and make many new ones as we progress. We will put forth our best efforts to make this 10th year of publication the best in our history.
