"THE TRUTH ABOUT SPRING"

In "The Truth About Spring," filmed off the coast of Spain, Hayley Mills achieves her first full-fledged romance, and even matrimony.

The lucky fellow is James MacArthur. Hayley plays the seagoing daughter of a Caribbean fishing-boat skipper with a penchant for adventure, portrayed by her actual father, John Mills. MacArthur is cast as a wealthy scion.

It seems that the elder Mills, or Captain Tyler, has discovered an old Spanish treasure trove on an isolated island. Then there is this gang of cut-throats-- in another day they would have been called pirates--led by Lionel Jeffries, also out to get the loot.

With the aid of the robust young MacArthur, who poses as his lawyer, Captain Tommy and his daughter, Spring, outwit the robber band. The treasure hunt produces not gold or coin of the realm, but discovery of more lasting things--true love between father and daughter, and, eventually, between the two youngsters. "The Truth About Spring" plays June 13-14 at Galax.
