The HCT is beginning another busy week preparing for their next performance, "Catch Me If You Can", an exciting mystery comedy. Rehearsals are going at full swing. The major roles have been cast. In the second HCT production, Larry Murphy will play the leading role of Daniel Corban. Edie Kleinpeter gives us her interpretation of his missing wife, Elizabeth. HCT's own director, G. Sam Sanfilippo, appears as the frustrated inspector Levine. George Schmitt makes his break through into the world of theatre as Sidney, the Delicatessen owner. Earl Young will be playing the role of Mr. Parker. He and his beautiful blond "wife" (?) Eileen Long, complicate matters still more.

"Catch Me If You Can" was produced on Broadway in 1964 with Dan Dailey playing the lead as Daniel Corban. As the plot for this mystery-comedy develops, the audience becomes involved in an exciting guessing game. A distraught husband, a missing wife, and two devious frauds thicken the plot. The fast-paced action sustains the suspense right up to the final curtain with an ending that will leave you in complete astonishment.

Opening for "Catch Me If You Can" will be July 20th through July 23rd. The Sunday matinee at 2:30 proved so successful for "Never Too Late" that it was decided (CONTINUED ON PAGE THIRTEEN)
