THE UNAKA RANGE

-- Judge Felix E. Alley (The following selection is reprinted from RANDOM THOUGHTS AND THE MUSINGS OF A MOUNTAINEER, used by permission of the late author.)

The Unaka Range, so named by the United States Geological Survey, constitutes the boundary between North Carolina and Tennessee. This range is cut into mountains of separate names by several rivers which have their source on the western and northern slopes of the Blue Ridge--the Nolochucky, which is formed by the Cane River and the North and South Toe; the French Broad, the Pigeon, the Little Tennessee, and the Hiwassee, which, with their numerous tributaries, drain all the land between the Blue Ridge and the Unaka Ranges. (CON'D, PAGE 15)

"ANY WEDNESDAY" CASTS ROUND, LORD, SANFILIPPO, AND EVERITT

The third production of the summer, ANY WEDNESDAY, is in full rehearsal for opening August 3rd. G. Sam Sanfilippo, Managing Director, has announced the cast for this delightful comedy in a fashionable apartment in the East Sixties in Manhattan.

The three-act comedy features a cast of only four people. The role of John, the business tycoon, will be played by Thornton Round, well known to Highlanders but performing on the Highlands Community Theatre (CON'D, PAGE 18)
