GALAX NEWS CLOSES FOR SEASON

The streets are a little emptier now, and nights a little cooler - the season is ending, and the GALAX NEWS is closing its 18th year.

Needless to say, it's been a very successful summer (as you can tell by the tired looks on the businessmen's faces). Dotty, Susan and I have certainly enjoyed serving you. We're sure you'll miss our smiling faces as we hounded you for your ad copies and tried to find news when there was none!

Soon we'll be going back to school: Susan to Highlands High School for her senior year, Dotty to Western Carolina University for her sophomore year, and I to the University of North Carolina at Greensboro for my sophomore year. So I leave my job to Aunt Helen for the next nine months, wishing her all kinds of luck!

Thank you to everyone who has had a part in making our 18th year of publication a success.

BODIES OF TEENAGERS FOUND NEAR RAINBOW FALLS

A deep pool under Rainbow Falls near Sapphire Tuesday yielded the bodies of two Buncombe County teenagers who had traveled to Horsepasture River Sunday for an afternoon of fun.

Dead are Robertson Miller, Jr., 17, and Laurie Michelle Nicholson, 16, both of Asheville.

Young Robertson's body was recovered about 2:30 p.m. by Woodrow Wilson, a Scuba diver with the Highlands Rescue Squad.

Shortly before noon Miss Nicholson's body was spotted by searchers wedged between two rocks under a log where the river drains out of the pool.

All evidence indicates that the young couple fell from the top of the falls, a distance of more than 200 feet.

Wilson said he found the boy on his first dive. He said he had been under only about 15 minutes when he found the body about 20 feet down. He said the boy was dressed in short blue jeans and no shirt. (CONTINUED ON P. 19)
