got cooler and cooler and it is delightful to be here. I send postcards to all my friends and relatives telling them of its beauty, and I suppose it sounds 'too much' but I tell them I haven't felt so close to God in a long time. It is a wonderful, beautiful country."

Miss Luce is playing in "Warm Peninsula" which opened the 13th at Highlands Community Theatre and has high words of praise for Mike Hall's talent for direction. She says he is a "brilliant young director" and has a most promising career ahead of him.

After "Warm Peninsula" which shows Friday and Saturday, August 21 and 22, Miss Luce will appear in "Cave Dwellers" August 27-30 at HCT.

After glancing over the impressive list of plays in which Miss Luce has starred in the theatrical Who's Who, it was hard to pick out which roles to mention in her star-studded career, but the ones that are probably the most familiar are Curley's wife in "Of Mice and Men" which she played both in this country and in London; Mimi in "Gay Divorcee" with Fred Astaire; Katherine in "The Taming of the Shrew. She appeared with great success as Viola in "Twelfth Night" at the Stratford-on-Avon Theatre in England; she scored a memorable success as Cleopatra in "Antony and Cleopatra" at the Westminster Theatre. She also played Nora in "A Doll's House" and appeared as Sadie Thompson in "Rain."

These are only a few of the parts played by Miss Luce. And after talking with her a bit, one discovers that she has a wide range of interests and talents and is an artist with several one-man shows to her credit and designed the jacket cover to several of her own recordings. She has also danced in productions by Sol Hurok.

However, Highlands has been the true test of Miss Luce's versatility - it was here that she learned to play gin-rummy! She confessed that she had always avoided playing this game of cards because it seemed such a waste of time, but the part she plays in "Warm Peninsula" demanded a knowledge of how to play gin-rummy - so she learned how - and now she likes it!

TAPESTRY

The still blue wonder of the sky
At Autumn-earth's clear color-cry.
The pine trees stir in soft amaze
At the changing beauty of her days ..
Only the butterflies, born of fall,
Deem it not unusual -
Drifting, dreamy, here and there
Like painted wings on painted air.
