

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET IS A SUCCESS

HELD AT CHURCH ANNEX.

MR. JAMES LAWSON WAS TOASTMASTER.

The annual entertainment given by the Junior class, in honor of the seniors, took place last Thursday evening, May 5, at the annex of the First Christian Church. The room was attractively decorated with class colors, green and white, streaming from the wall and swinging from the ceiling overhead. The table was filled with a variety of beautiful flowers selected from roses, snapdragons, and asters. The reception hall was beautifully decorated with roses red and colors extending over the bulb furnished an effective shade of light.

The crowd of about forty juniors and seniors gathered in the hall at eight o'clock, the juniors receiving their guests as they entered to take their places at the table. James Lawson, toastmaster, then gave a hearty welcome to the guests for the evening. The menu consisted of delightful courses of fruit cocktail, fried chicken, creamed potatoes, peas, ice cream, cake and tea. The program of the evening came between courses with many interesting and well rendered numbers.

Those taking part in the program were: President of the senior class, John Winfield, with a response to the address of welcome; president of the junior class, Clem Banks, gave a hearty "Here's To You" to the outgoing seniors; Miss Gladys Whitley, responded with a beautiful verse of good wishes to the host; the junior quartet rendered a selection of enjoyable numbers, and a very beautiful reading was given by Miss Mildred Petway in response. The address of the evening was given by Prof. Perry Case, of the college. Prof. Case gave something of the problems and responsibilities that were evidently pressing themselves to those going out. Also something of an advice for the great expedition that was in the process of making for those about to set out in the world. President H. S. Hiller then gave some brief remarks to those who, he said, were going out and show society what the school really was. He stated that they were a part of the whole purpose of the institution and he bid them success with conscientious efforts in what ever their calling may be. The college song was then sung by the group present.

The class of '27 being entertained were: John Winfield, Pres., Edna Wood, Mary Jones, Eloise Bowers, Mildred Petway, Gladys Whitley, Lennie Simpson, Rose Tilghman, Mrs. W. H. Rhodes, Mary Harper, Margaret Barnes, Louise Stubbs, Katherine Morris, Hugh Ross, Belvin Starling, Reuben Banks, and Paul Parker. Honorary guests were: President and Mrs. H. S. Hiller, Prof. and Mrs. Perry Case, and Dean, Mrs. A. R. Moore.

A course of fruits was served by the chapter.

Those receiving recognition into the chapter were: Clifford Hill, Trenton, S. C.; Francis Jefferson, Washington, N. C.; and Harvey Brookbank, Stokesdale, N. C.

PROFESSOR HAMLIN WILL AGAIN TAKE CHARGE OF HISTORY AT THE SEASHORE SUMMER SCHOOL.

As the long warm summer days approach the students are forming plans for summer school. The students here are making plans to attend summer school in various places. Some will be in the mountains attending the Asheville Normal School or another nearby school, some are planning to attend Carolina or Duke Summer School, but others are packing to move east, and settle on the coast where the scenery and boating promises to be rather romantic at Oriental.

Professor C. H. Hamlin, who is at the head of the History Department of Atlantic Christian College, teaches us at the Seashore Summer School each summer. Although some of our students attended last year more will be with him this summer. This Seashore Summer School, affiliated with Duke University, opens at Oriental, N. C., on June 9. Oriental is in Pamlico county, on the Neuse River, and from all reports is an ideal place for summer work.

Here one can take college credit courses in Biology, Education, History, English, Geography, Psychology, and in addition several high school subjects. Music and commercial work will be given.

CLASS IN SCOUTMASTERSHIP.

Scoutmastership is a new subject at Atlantic Christian College in the department of education, and is proving a very popular one. Through the cooperation of the Wilson County Council, Boy Scouts of America, the course was made available. The subject of scouting is taught by a number of colleges, but the course in scoutmastership as given here is quite different. The course was arranged by Mr. Herbert Stuckey, scout executive of Wilson, and includes the technique of scoutmastering, also practical methods of teaching scouting, emphasizing the various methods that have proven successful.

The meetings have been once a week on Monday nights during the second semester. The class is organized on the same basis of a regular troop of Boy Scouts, and demonstrates the patrol system, which is the high light of scouting in promoting boy leadership. Scouting is primarily a boy's program, and offers a great opportunity for a community to help develop initiative and leadership among its boys, also through the merit badge program assist the boys to try out by practical experiment different vocations.

The course includes the study of three books. Each member of the class is given different assignments which are prepared at home each week. A true and false quiz is given in addition to a problem or project for each assignment.

By this arrangement the technical is done at home and the session each Monday night is given over entirely to practical demonstration, experimentation, etc.

Thirty men are taking the course. Among this group there are a live scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, troop committeemen of various communities, school principles, teachers, lawyers, preachers, business men and college students.

A credit of one semester hour is given those who qualify and complete the course. Also the National Council, Boy Scouts of America and Atlantic Christian College will jointly issue an additional certificate to all who finish.

It promises to become a permanent course, especially equipping the A.C.C. men for boys' work when they have completed their college career. Boys' work today holds a prominent place in American progress, and scouting offers great opportunities for character building and citizenship training that is unsurpassed.

DR. CUTHRELL REVIEWS BACKGROUND AND PRINCIPLES OF DISCIPLES OF CHRIST.

Dr. Geo. F. Cuthrell, Pastor of the Hillier Memorial Christian Church, Raleigh, N. C., delivered two very inspiring addresses to the students of the College on Thursday, May 5th. He made an address to the students at the regular chapel hour and also again at one-thirty. He talked on the "Purpose and Program of the Disciples of Christ." He says that the Disciples of Christ are interested in making Christianity prevail. Religion is a characteristic of the human family and the Church is a group of like minded men and women who are seeking to answer the need of human life. He says that all of us have earthly fathers, we have relationship with Him. Genesis proves that we are the offspring of God, Jesus Christ came that men and women might know that they have relationship with God. Dr. Cuthrell then reviewed the life of Thomas Campbell. He was a broadminded, spiritual man. He was educated and deeply religious. When he saw the denominational corruptness, he saw that it was wrong to separate into narrow sectarian life. He organized the "Washington Association of Christian Unity." He did not intend to form another denomination. Later Alexander Campbell came over to America. He was the son of Thomas Campbell and he and Thomas began the work of trying to solve the problem of sectarian pride.

Dr. Cuthrell ended his talk by giving the one great purpose of the Disciples of Christ and that is to preach Christianity without denominationality.

The feature of the evening was the announcement of the engagement of Miss Annie Ruth Jones and Mr. Milton Moye. The wedding is to occur in June. The message was made by couples who entered the banquet room, posed on the deserts, shaded by rainbow umbrellas of the cupid's art.

TWILIGHT DREAMS.

In evening when night lets her mantle fall,
I love to sit and count the stars
Or watch the clouds go sailing past the moon,
And think of all my numbered years,
And fleeting thoughts and you.

I love to dream of days gone by,
Yes, many months ago
When you and I beneath that moon
Saw these same clouds sail on.
Fond memories linger with me yet
And always will, for I can't forget.
A contemporary poet.

Janet finds it difficult to choose the one she will go with, because she has three to choose from and there are only two sides to a coin.

"LITTLE CHRISTIANS" WIN FROM LENOIR RHYNE.

THE "MOUNTAIN BEARS" LOSE TO ATLANTIC CHRISTIAN COLLEGE 13-7.

The Christians won in the batting contest at Hickory and defeated Dick Gurley's Mountain Bears by the one-sided score of 13-7. The contest is to be remembered for the number of hits of which the bingles of our visiting team were more numerous and more timely.

By virtue of this victory Hoykin adds another game to his already long list of wins. He has yet to be defeated by a college nine. Against him Coach Dick Gurley sent four members of his pitching staff to the mound to check the batting of the Walkrites, but all suffered the same slaughter.

The game presented all types of baseball, good, bad, or worse. At times the game was slow and listless. Eight errors were distributed between the two teams. In the field Riggan, Brinkley, and Jones played well for the A.C. College team. At the bat Fulghum, Hoykin, and Hardison were most effective. Hardison was the hardest hitter, batting out a double and a triple. Frick and Hodge played a good game for the Hickory collegians while Frick and Lentz shared batting honors. Frick knocked the bats through the fence in the fourth inning for the only home run of the game.
