

"Six Don'ts Of The New Year" Given By Dr. Hartsock

Dr. Mildred Hartsock, head of the College English department, addressed the student body in the first chapel assembly of the New Year on Wednesday morning January 6. She chose as her topic "Six Don'ts for the New Year." These "Don'ts" Dr. Hartsock pointed out, are practical resolutions for the New Year, but stated in the negative.

The pointers which she mapped out are:

1. Don't develop "grimlin" psychology. Do not possess the fatalistic idea that no one can do anything about anything; that is have a sense of moral responsibility.

2. Don't be a "gobbler." Try to make sense of the world in which we are living.

3. Don't be a Charlie McCarthy. Read all sides of a question and don't repeat only that which someone else says.

4. Don't lose the "forest in the trees". Don't become so involved in minor campus issues that you fail to be aware of world problems.

5. Don't lose the "trees in the forest". Realize that local issues influence world issues and don't let your interest in world problems crowd out completely interest in the campus issues.

6. Don't forget that the reason you go to school is to get an education. Develop resources for meeting a time like the present conflict as well as the peace which is to follow, and have a knowledge of groups, or a historic perspective.

Concert Plans Are Announced

Mr. Ed Stallings, Instructor in Violin, will present a recital in Violin on Monday night, January 25, 1943.

Mr. Stallings is a local Wilson man and quite well known throughout this section. For the past several years, he has been a member of the faculty of Atlantic Christian College in the Music Department as teacher of Violin.

Mr. Lawrence Davidson, bass-baritone, who combines a thorough knowledge of his material with an innate interpretive sense, will give a recital on Wednesday night, February 3, 1943. Mr. Davidson studied with Dr. Edgar Nelson. He has had years of experience in oratorios, in opera, and in the famous Grant Park concerts. He was chosen as special Bass soloist in the performances of the "Messiah" last December, and for three presentations of the "Seven Last Words" by Dubois. He also appeared with the Euterpean, Oriana a Capella and First Lutheran Choral Societies.

Dr. Franz J. Polgar will be on the campus some date in the near future. Dr. Polgar presents in his programs amazing demonstrations in thought Transference—Telepathy, and exhibits of the Photographic mind—memory feats. He uses subjects from an audience. Dr. Polgar is recognized on both sides of the Atlantic as an expert in these fields. He lays no claim to the supernatural, yet his work transcends common experience and defies explanation.

Mid Term Graduation Plans Are Complete

Reverend N. J. Robison To Deliver Address

Conference Reports Are Unfavorable

Professor F. A. Hodges and Coach W. A. Herring, representatives of Atlantic Christian College in the North State Athletic Conference, recently reported that the conference met during the Christmas Holidays, but due to present conditions—traveling, lack of men, etc.—many conference games have been called off. Previously, the conference has striven to promote better harmony between the colleges in the conference, to further a greater appreciation of athletics, and to schedule games among those schools in class with each other.

Atlantic Christian College now has only three games scheduled and there are tentative.

Both Mr. Hodges and Mr. Herring are well known in conference circles. In 1941 Mr. Hodges was president of the conference.

NEW COURSES ARE ADDED TO SCHEDULE

Announced is among the new courses being added to the college curriculum for the ensuing semester. This is the first time this course has been given in a regular session of winter school. It has been offered to students who attended summer school. The course will be taught by Miss Mary J. Naekos who holds an M.A. in Journalism from the University of North Carolina. It is scheduled, tentatively, for Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 9:30 o'clock, and it will give three hours credit to any student working toward an English certificate.

Marriage and Home will again be offered. This course was first introduced into the curriculum by Dr. Morgan who was here some years ago. It will be taught by Mr. Case.

The Reverend Newton J. Robison, Pastor of the Hillyer Memorial Christian Church, Raleigh, North Carolina, will deliver the mid-year commencement address on Saturday morning, January 23, tentatively at 12:30 o'clock.

This is the first service of this kind that Atlantic Christian College has even anticipated. It has been made necessary to have this service because many of the present senior class, who will have completed requirements for graduation, are now entering some phase of war work and may find it impossible to return to school at the close of the school year in the Spring.

Mr. Robison was here for the Fall Religious Emphasis Week last October. He is well known to the members of the college student body as a distinguished speaker.

Diplomas will be awarded the following students immediately after Mr. Robison's address: Howard Blake, Fairfield; Edith Cartwright, Bath; Margaret Glover, Wilson; Earl Hardison, Deep Run; Sam Holloman, Zareville; Larry Miller, Cumberland, Maryland; Daisy Renfrow, Kenly; Polly Swindell, Bath; Gene Tomlinson, Wilson; and Robert Thornton, Clinton.

'A Cadet Wings Upward'

The following story on Cadet Life was received by the Collegiate staff some weeks ago. We take pleasure in printing it for the Student Body.

"This story begins on the day that Walter was sworn in as a cadet in the U. S. Army Air Corps. The thing that he had been dreaming of had finally happened. He was ordered to report for training. At last he was going to get an opportunity to fly, to become an officer, and to serve his country. Walter is just one of thousands of young men from all over this great country of ours who has been selected for training.

Going back a few months we find Walter taking his entrance exams at an Army Recruiting Station. He nervously walks in and takes a seat and is handed what looks like a small volume of all types of questions and problems to answer. Momentarily stumped, he stares for a few moments, hours later the last question is answered. He slowly rises and hands the supervising soldier his paper and anxiously awaits the results. This is the first chance that Walter has had to look over the fellows who are taking the test with him. Looking around the room he sees several young civilians his own age; some large, some small, college graduates, high school graduates, farmers, bank clerks and many others. Then there are several enlisted men with ranks from buck privates to master sergeants, all with one objective—a place in the Air Corps as a cadet.

He turns as his name is called and is told, "You passed the exam O. K. Report to the hospital for a physical check." Walter hurries over to the hospital to begin the second half of the entrance exam—the Air Corps physical. But where are the other men who took the mental exam? Only half of them are with him; the others failed. He is sent from one room to another—"Pulse O. K., heart normal, blood pressure, 125 and 80, teeth sound, 'Can you read that last line, eyes 20-20, weight 165, height 5' 11" nose and ears O. K.", and on and on. He didn't know that doctors could possibly want so much information. Finally he finishes and reports back to
