Board Spells Out Payment System For Organizations

The Executive Board of the Cooperative Association changed its meeting hour for the spring semester as its first item of business last Monday evening. During the next semester, the Executive Board will hold its regular meetings at 3:00 p.m. on Mondays.

The treasury system, familiar point of discussion for the board, was aired once again. It was stated that every campus organization would receive printed instruction sheets informing the organizations of the new procedures for requesting and obtaining monies from the treasury. It was pointed out that every request must be submitted in duplicate on requisition forms which will be provided by the Cooperative Association.

Schedule Slated

The Board announced that the new student government office of the Cooperative Association would be completed soon and that officers of the Executive Board would announce a schedule in which they would be available for business conferences. At the top of the schedule is to be a time during the week that organization leaders may confer with Kenneth Bryan, Treasurer of the Cooperative Association.

The Board's attention and discussion concerning an honor code system was shelved until the constitution of the Cooperative Association has been sufficiently studied by the recently appointed committee. It was believed that any action dealing with a proposed honor code should be done in the light of the Association's constitution.

System Reviewed

The greatest amount of the board's time was given in reviewing the point system for students of Atlantic Christian College who hold offices in various organizations. The purpose of the point system is to allow certain numbers of points to be given for different

Sororities Weigh Values Of National Affiliation

By BETTY ANN THOMAS

The possibility of nationalization for sororities on the Atlantic Christian College campus has been a major issue of discussion for several months.

The consideration of advantages against the disadvantages of such action and the changes that may result has prompted members to express their opinions in everyday campus activities as well as in their particular sorority meetings. How much action has been taken toward the accomplishment of nationalization?

Phi Sigma Tau sorority, founded in 1912 as the first Greek letter organization on campus, has contemplated nationalization since 1958. During that year a committee headed by Miss Sallie Jo Griffin began work by corresponding with various national sororities.

In May of 1958 the sisters were visited by a representative of a national sorority. At the end of that month they received an invitation to become affiliated with the sor-operate more effectively." Mrs. Miley Johnson, now in her second year as a sponsor of Phi Sigma Tau, approves of nationalization provided all the members retain their membership and continue to give their support. She feels that nationalization would be a mistake if it caused a split to occur within the group.

Delta Sigma sorority, founded in 1935, has no intentions or plans toward nationalization at present. Members are busily engaged in the process of building up their membership. The fact that most of their pledges are business students seeking one and two-year degrees complicates their situation.

Miss Judith Parrish, president, states that the sorority is not considering nationalization as a near possibility. However, it is likely that they will begin working toward it in the future after their membership has been increased.

Miss Parrish does not feel that

Closed Weekend Policy Discussed

At the last meeting of the Women's Dormitory Council a new policy concerning closed weekends was disclosed. Miss Ward, Dean of Women, announced that there would be no more closed weekends for the resident women students as there have been in the past. Miss Ward pointed out that while there was nothing to prevent girls from going home this weekend, she felt it would benefit them to remain on campus in view of the fact that exams would begin next week.

New dormitory officers for second semester to replace those who are graduating were elected at the last house meeting. They are Miss Emily Waters, dormitory president; and Miss Ruby Bazemore, vice president.

According to Miss Ward there will not be a meeting of the Women's Dormitory Council next week because of exams.
