Spring Dance Marks End Of Appreciation Week

Atlantic Christian College and the City of Wilson, will settle back down to normal routine tomorrow morning after spending a week of concentrated activity.

Purpose of the week was to pay tribute to the college and it was done by the Wilson Chamber of Commerce. The week-long observance will end tonight when the student body and faculty play host to members of the Chamber at the college's annual Spring Dance in the lobby of the Classroom Building.

There have been many highlights during the week. Among them were a top concert presented at the Wilson Community Center last Sunday afternoon, a luncheon Monday in the college dining hall at which Loomis H. Toler, an ACC student was cited by the Chamber as the outstanding student in the Department of Business at ACC, a dedication program for the new $400,000 men's dormitory at ACC, a dinner for the ACC faculty Tuesday night, and civic club dinners Wednesday and Thursday night.

Hailed by many as the top musical program ever presented in Wilson, the concert last Sunday afternoon was unique in that it presented the ACC Chorus accompanied by the ACC concert band. Directing the program were Darrell Harbaum, college band director, and James Cobb, choral director.

At the dedication for the men's dormitory Monday, Dean Henry L. Kamphoefner of the School of Design, North Carolina State College, praised ACC for its departure into contemporary building design, and chided larger colleges and universities in the state for hanging onto traditional campus designs.

Invitations Ready

The graduation invitations for members of the Senior Class have arrived and can be picked up at the switchboard in the Administration Building, Miss Mildred Ross, college bookkeeper, announced today.

The invitations, which should have been ordered earlier in the year, cost twelve cents each.

Interviews

All students interested in social work please contact James B. Hemby, Director of Placement, to arrange an interview with Frank Hedges, psychiatric Social worker with the Wilson Mental Health Clinic. Mr. Hemby asks that the interviews be arranged immediately.

Awards Presentations Climaxed By Dedication Of Annual To McFarland

Recognition of those who have given outstanding service in campus organizations, and those who have won special awards, came this week at the annual Awards Day and Blue-white Day assemblies.

The annual awards day was held Tuesday on the terrace of the classroom building. Publications awards, Dramatics awards, Who's Who awards, The Wilson Chamber of Commerce award, the dedication of the Pine Knot, and the tapping of the Golden Knot Honor Society took place at the Tuesday assembly.

At the Thursday assembly, the new officers of the Cooperative Association were installed and the Denny Essay Cup and Rotary Cup were presented.

The Denny Essay Cup was won by Bob Collins. This award goes to the person who submits, in the opinion of the judges, the best essay on the college motto, "They Shall Have The Light Of Life."

It was announced at the Thursday assembly that the Rotary cup was not ready for presentation, and would be presented at a later date.

The first of the awards given to a person who has done outstanding work was the Wilson Daily Times Publication Award. The Times award went to Miss Bette Pomfrey, Business Manager of The Collegiate.

Paul Liles, Advertising Director of the Daily Times, presented the award. He noted that due to Miss Pomfrey's outstanding work, The Collegiate was able to publish its first six page issues since it became a weekly paper.

It was also noted that Miss Pomfrey was always on time with her advertising layouts, which is quite helpful to those who compose the paper.

Mr. Liles said that Miss Joanna Huffer, Editor of the Pine Knot, Bob Collins and Ralph Messick, Co-Editors of The Collegiate had also given outstanding service, but the work of Miss Pomfrey surpassed the efforts of all the others.

The dramatics awards were presented by Mrs. Doris C. Holsworth, member of the faculty of the English Department.

Those who received special recognition for work in dramatics were Sanford Peele, Ken Roberts, and Miss Anne Nelson. These three received volumes of plays by noted authors. The three had already earned the letter and key which are the regular dramatics awards.

The Wilson Chamber of Commerce award to the student who has done the most outstanding work in the Department of Business during the year, was presented to Loomis Toler. The award was presented on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce by George Harry Swain, chairman of the Business Department.

In an event which is quite important to the students of ACC each year, the 1959-60 edition of the Pine Knot, was dedicated to Dr. Daniel McFarland, Chairman of the Department of Social Science and Senior Class sponsor.

The Senior class voted earlier in the year for the person that the annual would be dedicated to. Dr. McFarland has served as advisor of the class of 1960 for two years.

The Golden Knot Honor Society, which recognizes students who have maintained high standards of scholarship, leadership, character and service, held its annual tapping. The tapping was presided over by Wayne Quinton, president.

Those tapped into the group were: Carlton Best, Loomis Toler, Bill Powell, Miss Nancy Forbes, Thomas Smith, Miss Brenda Cale, Bobby Dunn, Jerry Burton, Frankie Beacham, Rodney Williams, Miss Mary Ann Marchant, Miss Anne Nelson, Frank Hunnicutt, Dee Winstead, Miss Judy Bissett, Colon McLean, and Miss Margaret Walk-er.

Publications awards were presented to first and second year members of the staffs of the campus publications, and to the editors

New Constitution Shows Rising Student Interest

The growing desire of students to be a vital part of the campus community has been reflected in the new constitution of the Cooperative Association of Atlantic Christian College.

There has been an increasing movement toward what some have called "student government" on the campus this year. The new president of the Cooperative Association, David Smith, and one of the new Co-Editors of The Collegiate, Terrill Riley, both have advocated changes in the government publically.

The new constitution, which was adopted formally yesterday, reflects a portion of the growing sentiment for student government.

Notable among the changes is the removal of the Dean of Men, Dean of Women, and Student-Faculty representative from the Executive Board. As the board now stands, two members will be from the faculty or administration.

The two are a faculty representative elected by the faculty and the Director of Student Life. The president of the college serves as a member of the board ex-officio.

There are 11 students on the board, bringing the total number of regular voting members to 13.

The new constitution has added a phrase to the duties of the Executive Board which opens the way to extended work for the board.

The new phrase reads, "the Executive Board shall... promote an atmosphere of cooperation and understanding among students, faculty, and administration."

No further explanation of this duty is given. This has been observed to be a sign of great wisdom on the part of the drafters of the constitution.

A student at the general meeting last week was heard to say about the phrase, "that certainly leaves the board wide open to do almost anything that might be necessary to promote that atmosphere."

In the section dealing with nominations for officers of the Cooperative Association, an added stipulation has been made. The new constitution states that the Executive Board does not have the right to approve or disapprove petitions for nomination.

The action came as a result of extended discussion in the general meeting last week.

It was pointed out in the discussion that the Executive Board still must check the signers of a petition to ascertain if they are bona fide members of the Cooperative Association.

In the discussion of the measure in the general meeting, it was pointed out that a great deal of confusion had developed over the acceptance of petitions this year, and that the matter should be spelled out explicitly.

Another added stipulation in the constitution is designed to make all actions of the Executive Board subject to the approval of the Cooperative Association.

Petition by 20 members of the association can call a general meeting of the association. Any action of the board is subject to the approval of the association at this meeting.

An administrative official was heard to say last week that "the new constitution may well be the biggest step forward that the campus government has made since it was formed."

Nelson Receives Award For Play

Miss Anne Nelson, a student of Atlantic Christian College, received a Betty Smith Award for her original play, "Small Weapon," at the Carolina Dramatic Festival in Chapel Hill, on April 30.

Miss Nelson received a book, "International Folk Plays," and a cash award. Her play was presented at the Festival on Thursday, April 28, by the Stage and Script Club with the original cast, Miss Jo Ann Boone, Miss Nelson, and John Vernon.

Mrs. Doris Holsworth and Dr. Mildred E. Hartsock, members of the Department of English at the college, accompanied the actors and the stage assistants, Kenneth Roberts, director; Donn Wrenn, lighting; Miss Carol Colvard, prompting; Mrs. Roberta Pritchard, costumes; Alton Lee, scenery; and Miss Sue Brannan, properties.

Mrs. Holsworth returned to Chapel Hill, Friday night for a dinner party given in honor of Miss Elizabeth Watson who won the Pearl Setzer Deel Award. Mrs. Holsworth also attended the director's breakfast, business meeting and plays on Saturday, April 30.

Mrs. Holsworth also announced that two plays, "The Cotton Still Grows" and "Small Weapon," have been submitted to the Samuel French Playwriting Contest.
